Propose reduction in Pomona Health Center services

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Services offered by the Pomona Health Center may be reduced next year in a proposal now before the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

According to Liston A. Witherill, director of the county's health services, the health department will wind up with a $4 million deficit this year, and possibly another $17 million in the fiscal year that ends in June, 1978, because of problems with the state Medi-Cal program.

As a result, the supervisors have set a hearing for Feb. 16 to determine where to cut expenses to bring the budget into balance.

Kathleen H. D'Anna, a member of the team that is studying the proposed cuts for Harry Hufford, chief administration officer, said that while it did not seem likely that the county would kill the community service program conducted by local health center, there was a good chance that the scope of the program would come under the axe.

"For example, if we find that certain programs out in the field are not being supported by the communities, we may recommend that they be curtailed or consolidated. That would come long before we considered eliminating the health centers altogether," she explained.

But she emphasized that the final decision was that of the board and "anything could happen next February."

Mrs. D'Anna blamed most of the health department's financial woes on the Medi-Cal program. She said Medi-Cal payments to the county have been increasing at a rate of 10 per cent a year, while the cost of medical services has been going up 13.

Moreover, she added, the state recently made a study of the county health services in billing practices and as a result of the study has disallowed nearly 13 million in county claims. "Even if we conform our billing to the methods which are acceptable to the state," she declared, "that money is lost for this year."

She said the health department was hopeful that by February the state will come up with some additional money to help the county.

The county health department has a current budget of $23.7 million. The deficits are based on the assumption that the supervisors will continue to resist pressures to raise taxes.

An earlier recommendation by Hufford's office suggested that the $10 million budget of the San Gabriel region which operates 10 health centers in the area including the one in Pomona, be trimmed along with other facilities.

Under that proposal, the curtailment in the valley would have been minimal.

However, the supervisors decided Tuesday to consider the entire health department and all of the services they offer next February.

Four dead, 50 missing as tanker plows into Mississippi ferry boat

LULING, La. (AP) — A Norwegian tanker crashed broadside into a fully loaded Mississippi River ferry today, capsizing the river boat and throwing its passengers into the swift-moving river. Four people were reported killed and 50 missing.

A witness on a rescue vessel said the 664-foot tanker Frosta "ran completely over the ferry ... pushed it upriver, flipped it over, and it started sinking."

The ferry George Prince sank within 15 minutes and lay with only a portion of the hull sticking out of the muddy waters.

At least 20 survivors were pulled from the swift-running river by a sister ferry boat and taken to St. Charles General Hospital. Several were reported seriously injured. The St. Charles Parish sheriff's office said at least 50 persons were missing.

"There were 70 to 80 people on the George Prince because there were lots of foot passengers," said Jerry Mayo, a worker on the rescue ferry Ollie K. Wilds that had just completed a run between Destrehan and Luling, about 20 miles upriver from New Orleans. Officials said there was no precise count of the number of persons aboard.

"We saw the ship moving up the river, and the ship blowed (its whistle) for the ferry four or five times, but the ferry just kept going," Wilds said.

"The ship hit it, pushed it up river, flipped it over, and it started sinking. The ship kept going.

The 22,850-ton tanker Frosta anchored in the river about two miles above the scene. She was in ballast, headed upriver to a Baton Rouge refinery.

Small boats were called out at points downstream to take station on the broad river and watch in case survivors were swept down by the current, clinging to debris or life jackets.

Helicopters from the Coast Guard and the sheriff's department scanned the riverbanks, and divers searched the submerged hull.

The accident happened shortly after the George Prince left the Destrehan ferry landing — the same landing from which President Ford started a Mississippi River paddlewheel campaign tour three weeks ago.

Several chemical plants are along the river around Luling and Destrehan, and shifts were apparently changing about the time of the accident. The ferry is the only way to get across the river at that point, where it is three-quarters of a mile wide.

The second ferry had not yet tied up completely when the accident occurred and the captain swung her around and rushed back out to rescue people from the water.

Mayo said it took two or three minutes to cross the 100 yards to struggling people.

Dawn was breaking at the time, but there was no fog, officials said.

A survivor, Charles Chatelain, said he was sitting in his pickup truck when the ferry suddenly slowed. He looked up. The prow of a ship loomed over the deck. It hit the ferry and drove it upstream, flipping it over.

Chatelain said his pickup and other vehicles were thrown into the water. The cars, closed against the chill wind, briefly floated as they were swept away. He said the occupants screamed and shouted as the cars sank.

Allen Ellis, aboard the rescue ferry, said of the Norwegian ship's drive into the ferry: "It turned it over broadside. We turned around, went back into the river and picked up what was left. It was upside down."

George Landry, also on the second ferry, said, "I was on the searchlight, looking in the water to see where the boat was and looking for people. We could see the lifeboat because it was white. We turned around and we saw the ferry over there."

He said survivors were in the water. "They were hollering, and all shook up. I pulled out around 9 to 13, they were shook up, back was hurting, cut eyes. They couldn't understand it."

Kissinger: Israel not military burden to U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has rebutted a statement by the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who said Israel was a "military burden" to the United States.

Without mntioning Gen. George S. Brown by name, Kissinger departed from his prepared text at a Jewish organization's dinner Tuesday night to say that the United States considers Israel "not as a burden, but as a strong asset, not as a liability, but as a staunch bastion of democracy."

Brown's comment about Israel, along with remarks about other U.S. allies, were made in a wide-ranging interview that was conducted April 12 by Ranan Lurie and is now being distributed by King Features.

Brown was asked in the interview:

"Speaking about the Middle East from a purely military point of view, would you say that from the American global strategic interest, militarily, is Israel and its forces more of a burden or a blessing from a pure military point of view to the United States?"

He replied, "Well, I think it's just got to be considered a burden."

The comment brought demands from Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter and his running mate, Minnesota Sen. Walter Mondale, that Ford reprimand Brown.

Ford has maintained silence on the Brown comments. His spokesmen said on Monday that he considers the matter closed.

The Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations called for Brown's censure and said, "The Jewish community does not consider the matter of Gen. Brown to be closed."

Freak accident kills Claremont architect

A prominent Claremont architect was killed in a freakish accident in his home Tuesday night, police reported.

The victim, William Abbott, 44, was using a petroleum distillate on the tile walls of the bathroom of his home at 761 W. 11th St. when he was overcome by the fumes and fell, striking his head on the bathtub, police said.

He was found unconscious by his wife, Bonnie, when she returned home with the couple's children shortly after 9:30 o'clock. Abbott was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Police said that Mrs. Abbott told them that she too had become somewhat nauseated by the fumes before she left the house to pick up the children.

Abbott was a past president of the Pasadena chapter of the American Institute of Architects and was a former member of the Claremont city architectural commission. He was the architect for the proposed Aero-Meridian industrial park on Arrow Highway.

His office was at 411 Harvard Ave.

Schmidt majority gains in recount

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's majority in the new Bundestag was increased from eight to 10 today by a routine recount of the votes cast in the Oct. 3 national election.

The Federal Election Commission announced that the recount gave one more seat in the lower house of Parliament to Schmidt's Social Democratic party and took one seat away from the conservative Christian Democrats.

Politics in California

'Fireside chat' didn't pan out

By The Associated Press

An election-eve "fireside chat" by Jimmy Carter and Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. — televised from the governor's office — will have to go down in history as one of those good ideas that didn't work out.

The "fireside chat," used effectively by Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the early days of radio, was considered briefly for Carter's visit to California Nov. 1.

But Terry O'Connell, California coordinator of the Carter campaign, said Tuesday the idea "crosses over a fine line of what's proper and what's not proper" concerning the use of taxpayer-owned property for political purposes.

He said some legal opinions say it might be illegal. So the idea was dropped.

On the Republican side, First Lady Betty Ford arrived for two days of campaigning in vote-rich Southern California. She told greeters, "California is a really, really key state and we're running well here, if only through all the work that you're doing that will put us over the top here."

Meanwhile Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale's personal campaigning came to an involuntary halt in an elevator for about 20 minutes Tuesday.

Also in the stuck elevator in San Francisco's Sheraton Palace Hotel were Brown and U.S. Rep. Phil Burton, D-San Francisco, plus about a dozen Secret Service men.

While Brown was appearing with Mondale in San Francisco, a Democrat in Sacramento was criticizing him for endorsing Prop. 14, the farm labor initiative.

Assemblyman John Thurman of Modesto, told a No-on-14 rally that Brown's endorsement was "a sorry reflection on the integrity and dignity of the office of governor."

Tough standards will reduce development in Chino Hills

By JON MORRIS

Tough hillside development standards that will reduce the number of potential homes in Chino Hills from 20,500 to 14,500 were approved Tuesday by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors.

The board also adopted the general plan amendment for the north Chino area that had been under study for over a year.

The plan for Chino Hills covers 40 square miles bounded by Corona Expressway, and Los Angeles, Orange and Riverside counties.

Action on hillside development by the supervisors was intended to lighten the impact of rapid urban growth, and was a response to environmental concerns voiced by area residents.

Complaints had been heard recently by county officials over the quality of Chino Hills tract developments.

The hillside standards would allow various dwelling units per acre depending on slopes. For example, two per acre would be allowed when slopes average between 15 and 30 per cent; one per acre for slopes between 30 and 40 per cent and one for every five acres for steeper slopes.

Planning officials have noted the new standards reduce the estimate of the area's potential population from around 61,000 to 43,000.

Supervisors also approved the general plan amendment for the north Chino area covering about 2,100 acres and bounded by the Los Angeles County line, Benson Avenue, Phillips Avenue and the northerly city limits.

The amendment, say county officials, would reduce the potential number of dwelling units in the area from 9,690 to 5,100.

Doug Payne, a county associate planner, said there were only "minor changes" from the same plan adopted by the county Planning Commission and Chino Planning Commission recently. Since there are changes, however, it will go back to the City of Chino for approval.

Main concern of area residents was to preserve the rural atmosphere of their region.

Counterproposal offered in Upland

Upland School District trustees have offered a counterproposal to classified employes which would provide a 4 per cent pay increase over the present schedule.

The counterproposal adopted Tuesday at a board meeting is far less than the 15 per cent salary hike over two years which the California School Employes Association, Upland Chapter, 163, has asked for in its proposal submitted to the board earlier.

Now that the counterproposal has been adopted, a representative of the board and a bargaining unit from CSEA will start negotiations, a district spokesman said.

The trustees and the Upland teacher union are now holding bargaining sessions, added the spokesman.

Both groups have been working since the beginning of the school year without contracts.

Bus company has plenty of problems

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Adding insult to injury, a private bus company that had tires slashed on more than 100 of its buses also faces possible contract penalties and revenue losses because it couldn't meet its schedules.

Thousands of Los Angeles area students were without bus service Tuesday morning as a result of Associated Bus Company's vandalism woes. Bus service was back to normal by the time schools let out.

The bus company estimated damages from the attacks at two bus yards at $10,000, but officials said they had no idea how much might be lost for failing to meet the company's morning schedule.

The Los Angeles police department's labor relations unit entered the investigation because contract negotiations between the company and the Teamsters Union broke off last week.

"So far we have no proof the vandalism was connected to the labor negotiations but we are investigating it," said Sgt. Thomas Thomson.

Bus company officials said more than 100 tires were damaged in the early morning hours — 80 slashed severely — when no one was at the company lots in Harbor City and Van Nuys.

Scripps installs fourth president

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

John H. Chandler was installed as the fourth president of Scripps College Tuesday in a ceremony which also celebrated the founding and the 50th anniversary of the Claremont college.

Scripps' new president comes to the all-woman college from another single-sex college, Salem College in North Carolina, also a four-year college for women only.

"Despite our supposed 'age of enlightenment' women still need a place in which they're viewed seriously while they develop—and in some cases come to terms with—their own leadership skills," said Chandler.

He added that men invariably dominate the areas of faculty, administrators and student leaders at most colleges in a coeducational setting.

"Men, too, must be re-educated if they're to be challenged—and not threatened—by the strengths and power women are learning to exert. The social interaction that takes place between the six Claremont Colleges seems to facilitate this process."

In introducing Chandler, Kenneth Rhodes, Scripps' board chairman, said the new president brings to the college "an outstanding reputation for leadership in educational, cultural and civic affairs."

Rhodes commented on the founding of the college by Ellen Browning Scripps who was born Oct. 18, 1836, and died at the age of 96 without ever seeing the campus which bears her name.

Born in England, Miss Scripps came to the United States by sailing ship. She was the first woman to graduate from Knox College in Illinois. Later, Miss Scripps became a noted newspaper columnist and a partner with her brother in the Cleveland Press.

Her endowments not only served to found Scripps College 50 years ago, but helped provide the land upon which four subsequent colleges in the Claremont Colleges were built.

Rhodes also reminded the audience gathered in Garrison Theater for the ceremony that the board of trustees is marking the 50th anniversary of the college with a commitment to provide $8 million in additional endowment funds.

In welcoming the new Scripps president, Joseph Platt, president of Claremont University Center, said that all colleges are now pinched by inflation just as they were once pinched by the depression.

"But if colleges didn't have problems, they would not need presidents," added Platt.

Born in San Francisco in 1928 Chandler has been a civic leader in St. Louis and Winston-Salem prior to returning to California.

Before serving as president of Salem College and Academy, he was vice president of the Danforth Foundation in St. Louis.

He has also been on the faculties of Ohio University, Dartmouth College and his alma mater, UCLA. He earned his doctorate in religion and literature from the University of Chicago and has been ordained as an Episcopalian minister.

PRESIDENT INSTALLED

Ontario zone change creates controversy

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Correspondent

A zone change from agriculture to single family residential use for property on the east side of Fern Avenue 1,300 feet north of Philadelphia Street sparked controversy at Tuesday's meeting of the Ontario City Council.

The council approved the second reading of the zone change requested by Jack Dunn of Corona Del Mar by a 4-0 vote, but did so over the objections of several area residents who presently raise animals in the agricultural zone.

Adrian Meewis, 724 S. Vine Ave., told the council he had attended the planning commission hearings on the zone change and believed there had been objections by the commission because of the lack of a buffer between the agricultural and residential areas.

"I've seen this sort of thing happen before," said Meewis, "when property is changed from agricultural to residential." Meewis said agricultural land users are always forced out in the end.

I would like to see a hold harmless clause attached to this measure to protect the people that are already there," he said. "I've been here since 1957. It seems the absentee owners always get their own way."

City Attorney Samuel Crowe told Meewis, "I haven't seen anyone forced out yet. Anyone already on the property may do what they want with that property. The hold harmless clause would have no effect," said Crowe.

Crowe said that the present city codes require animals to be at least 70 feet away from property zoned residential, commercial or professional.

"As long as the animals are too close to the homes, the animals are wrong according to the present city codes," said Crowe. He said the way to change the situation is to change the code.

Sam Bard, another resident of the area, questioned the zone change both because of proximity to Ontario International Airport and the plane noises as well as the nearness of agricultural properties.

"Anytime you have animals you are going to have a problem with flies and an unavoidable aroma," said Bard. "I think the people buying these homes should be aware of this situation."

"People will be moving in around here and pretty soon they'll be getting up petitions to get us out. I would like to see some kind of protection for property owners already there," he added.

Joe Gruber, 2015 S. Fern Ave., complained that by adopting the zone change the council would take away his 70-foot buffer area from the residential property.

City Planner Joyce Babicz, however, explained that a master plan street would be created between the two properties before any residential development took place in the area thus creating 60 of the necessary 70 feet. The other 10 feet, she said, could be part of a side yard.

Councilman Homer Briggs said, "My sympathies certainly are with the people already there, but there is no way to protect them from future complaints. This is best for the area and for the property. Reluctantly, I must go along with the planning commission."

Councilman Beecher Medlin said, "I would like to see future developments of the same kind allow more than the 70 feet. It's always been a belief of mine that people should not be forced off their land." Medlin proposed forming and serving on a committee to study the situation.

In approving the zone change, the council also approved a measure containing the tentative tract map for the proposal.

Political roundup

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., and his opponent Republican LOUIS BRUTOCAO, and ASSEMBLYMAN BILL MC VITTIE, D-65th Dist., and his opponent Republican CLYDE STEPHENS, will be guests at a Pomona Chamber of Commerce mixer Thursday from 4 to 6 p.m. at Orlando's.

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., and his opponent Republican, Louis Brutocao, will debate Thursday at 2 p.m. before television cameras at Cal Poly Pomona.

Social Sciences Professor John Moore will be moderator. Subjects to be debated are the economy and jobs, and U.S. foreign policy and defense.

A cross examination will follow.

The debate will be aired by Theta Cable Thursday at 7 p.m. and Friday at 9 p.m. It is being taped as a public service by Cal Poly's Instructional Television Center.

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL LANCASTER, R-62nd Dist., will speak Thursday at 7 p.m. to residents of West Hillcrest Homes, 2700 Magnolia St., La Verne.

Members of the League of Women Voters will be present to explain ballot propositions. Interested voters may attend.

Former congressman JERRY VOORHIS will speak at a meeting of the Eleanor Roosevelt Democratic Club Thursday noon at Democratic Headquarters, 743 E. Mission Ave., Pomona.

"The Importance of the Coming Election" is his topic.

Voorhis' latest book is entitled "The Strange Case of Richard Nixon." For 25 years prior to his retirement, Voorhis was executive director of the Cooperative League of the USA.

The Claremont League of Women Voters and the Claremont Civic Association will sponsor a public forum for candidates Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Claremont High School theater.

Scheduled to appear are SANDY BALDONADO, Democratic candidate in the 62nd Assembly District; RON BARBATOE, Democratic candidate in the 25th State Senate District; and LOUIS BRUTOCAO, Republican candidate in the 35th Congressional District.

Laura Wheeler, Voters Service Chairman of the Claremont League, expressed concern "over the apparent lack of interest in candidates' forums among incumbents. Several alternative dates were offered but none of the incumbents plan to attend," she said.

We feel this is a valuable method of communicating candidates' similarities and differences to the community which really cannot be accomplished any other way.

A discussion of County Proposition A and B will open the forum. Then participating candidates will make statements. A question and answer period will follow. Campaign material and League publication will be available.

S. I. HAYAKAWA, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate from California, will speak at a World Affairs Council of Inland Southern California luncheon Monday in Riverside.

The meeting is open to the public. However, reservations are necessary.

They may be made by calling 787-5744 by Thursday afternoon.

The luncheon will be held in the Arlington Room at Raincross Square, 3443 Orange St. Tickets are $7.50 per person.

A committee to coordinate the CARTER CAMPAIGN in the Pomona Valley has been formed. It is headed by Mrs. Norman E. Tournay of Claremont.

Mrs. Tournay is a past president of the Eleanor Roosevelt Democratic Club, supervised the 1976 Democratic Booth at the Los Angeles County Fair and is co-chairman of the Pomona Democratic Headquarters.

Serving on the Carter Campaign committee with her are Ben Ochoa, Pomona councilman, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Basham, Gary Corcoran, Collin Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Graham, Mrs. Ted Radamaker and Ivan Meisner.

The committee is working on plans for a massive get-out-the-vote campaign, Mrs. Tournay said. Anyone wishing to volunteer to work on distributing literature, or on election day, may contact her at 624-2308 or 623-5978.

Thomas F. Noonan, chairman of the 65th Assembly District Republican Central Committee, has reported that Pomona Republican Headquarters at 175 W. Holt Ave., has been designated the official FORD-DOLE headquarters in the Pomona area by the California Ford-Dole Committee.

Noonan was President Ford's area chairman during the Republican primary election.

"More important than the fact that our Pomona headquarters has been honored by being selected to perform this additional task, is the highly commendable fact that the Ford-Dole campaign committee has chosen to work through the normal party channels, rather than establish separate headquarters and dissipate the strength of our volunteer force," he said.

Nancy McCracken is headquarters chairman. The telephone number there is 622-9642.

CLYDE STEPHENS, Republican candidate in the 65th Assembly District, recently was honored at dinner sponsored by City of Pomona. He was commended for his 4½ years of service on the Pomona Planning Commission and presented a proclamation.

In response, Stephens said, "This has been a tremendous learning experience for me in local government. I appreciate the opportunity I have had to serve the citizens of Pomona."

A 65th ASSEMBLY DISTRICT REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE and POMONA VALLEY REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S CLUB, FEDERATED, event at Adobe de Palomares in Pomona was held Oct. 14. It will not be held Thursday as was inadvertently reported.

U.S. economic report

Consumer beef prices may climb this winter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer beef prices, on the decline for five months, are expected to climb this winter because of a reduction in the cattle supply.

But Agriculture Department experts say they foresee no sharp price increases before next spring. They declined to predict how high above today's $1.35-a-pound average future retail prices will rise.

The number of cattle being fed for slaughter this fall and winter is 6 per cent below the level this time a year ago, as farmers and feedlot operators seek to eliminate the surplus that has been blamed, in part, for low beef prices.

The forecast on beef prices was one of several economic reports issued by the federal government Tuesday. Among the others:

—The number of housing units started in September was the highest in 2½ years. This should cut heavy unemployment in the construction industry and could signal better times ahead for one of the weakest spots in the economy.

—Mortgage rates for buyers of new homes increased for the third straight month, to an average of 9.25 per cent. The average purchase price of a new home rose $900 to $50,000. For a used home, the average was up $500, to $43,300.

—The growth of the Gross National Product during the last three months was below the rate that economists generally agree is necessary to make a significant dent in unemployment. The annual rate was 4 per cent.

—Inflation, as measured by the GNP, was at an annual rate of 4.4 per cent last quarter, down from the 5.2 per cent of the previous three months.

—Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. said the Ford administration will revise its own plan, strongly opposed by the trucking industry, that is aimed at cutting consumer prices by increasing competition in the industry.

Coleman told trucking executives the new bill still could make it easier for new companies to enter the market but pledged that the administration will do nothing to unfairly dilute the value of existing route certificates.

The Ford administration conceded its disappointment at the relatively small increase in GNP in the September quarter but forecast better times during the current quarter. GNP is the broadest guage of economic well-being.

"There are not enough negative signs to suggest that there is an end (to the economic recovery) in sight," John W. Kendrick, chief economist for the Commerce Department, told reporters.

Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, said the new GNP figure is evidence the economy is still going downhill. "How much further will the economy have to slide before this administration recognizes that the economy is in trouble?" Carter said in a statement.

The Commerce Department said the GNP did not grow at a faster rate in July, August and September because investment in business and industrial facilities and housing dropped.

The 4 per cent hike in the GNP was the smallest since the 3.3 per cent recorded during the last three months of 1975. The annual rate for the first quarter of 1976 was 9.2 per cent.

The report on higher housing starts was one of the brightest on the economy to be released in recent months.

During September, reported the Commerce Department, new homes were started at an annual rate of 1.814 million, up 17.6 per cent from August. For the year, housing starts are 39.1 per cent above the September 1975 figure.

The department said the sharp increase is attributable mainly to new federal commitments for low-income apartments.

The rise in homebuilding helped cut unemployment in the construction industry to 15.8 per cent in September from 17.1 per cent in August, according to Labor Department figures. But the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department said its own surveys show construction joblessness during August and September ranged from 60 per cent in the Northeast to 20.5 per cent in the West.

Driver booked

Ontario cyclist killed by auto

A 12-year-old Ontario girl was killed Tuesday evening when her bicycle was run over by a car in the 1500 block of South Grove Avenue.

A 42-year-old Ontario man was booked in the West End Jail for investigation of manslaughter in connection with the 5:35 p.m. fatal hit-and-run accident.

Tamera Dione Starkey of 1405 S. Grove Ave. died an hour and 45 minutes after the accident. She had been taken to Ontario Community Hospital.

Police said the little girl was riding her bicycle on the right-hand side of the roadway when a car behind her left the roadway and veered between two telephone poles.

The car then re-entered the roadway and struck the little girl's bicycle from behind, police said.

The bicycle and the girl were dragged 15 feet under the vehicle.

Witnesses said the driver of the car, wearing a baseball-type cap, then sped away northbound on Grove Avenue.

Witnesses managed to get a license number of the hit-and-run vehicle. It was traced to Billie Gene Taylor of 412 N. Parkside St.

Officers went to Taylor's apartment and found him inside sitting on a sofa. He was taken to Ontario Community Hospital for a blood alcohol test.

Taylor was then booked in the West End Jail on the mansalughter charge and a charge of failure to appear based on traffic violations on record against him in lieu of $5,160 bail.

Spotlight on area crime

Woman's screams rout burglars

An Ontario woman rudely awakened by the sound of breaking glass frightened off two would-be cat burglars with her screams at 1360 E. D St., early this morning, police said.

Elsie Sue Jenkins told officers that shortly after midnight she heard a kitchen window of her apartment break and got up to investigate.

She said she saw the feet of two men coming through the window.

The men crawled inside the apartment and she began screaming for help. The two would-be burglars quickly dashed out of the front door and ran down the street just as police officers arrived at the apartment complex.

Police were unable to locate the two men after searching the area. Miss Jenkins said one of the men was white, six feet tall, of slim build with reddish hair. He was wearing a white T-shirt and blue jeans. The second man, she said, was a Latin with curly hair.

Stolen car

Three juveniles were lodged in San Bernardino Juvenile Hall this morning after leading Upland police on a high-speed pursuit.

Officers said the three, riding in a stolen automobile, shortly after midnight drove south on Mountain Avenue and east on the San Bernardino Freeway to the Etiwanda Avenue offramp where they were stopped at a police blockade.

Upland Police Officer Steve Foulkes said he spotted the vehicle with the juveniles inside at Maxwell Street and Sinclair Avenue in Upland about 1:05 a.m.

Foulkes said he attempted to pull the youths over for a traffic violation when they suddenly accelerated and turned south onto Mountain Avenue. Foulkes radioed the dispatcher to say he was in pursuit of the vehicle that had just turned east on the San Bernardino Freeway. Sheriffs deputies and a highway patrolman alerted to the pursuit quickly blocked off the freeway at Etiwanda Avenue forcing the juveniles to skid to a stop.

The juveniles were apprehended and transported to juvenile hall. Police said the car owned by Terrance D. O'Hare of San Bernardino was stolen only hours before the youths were arrested.

Kidnapping

West End Sherriffs deputies and Long Beach police are searching for a man armed with a chrome revolver who forced a Riverside motorist to drive from Etiwanda to Long Beach before robbing him Tuesday night.

Ricky A. Hovermale, 21, told deputies that he had stopped his car at a red light at Fourth Street and Etiwanda Avenue about 11 p.m. Tuesday when a man ran up to his car and opened the door.

Hovermale said the man pointed a gun at his head and ordered him to drive. The gunman had Hovermale drive him to the downtown Long Beach area and then stop at an unknown intersection.

The gunman then took Hovermale's wallet, removed a $5 bill, and fled.

The gunman-kidnaper was described as a black of medium build with a medium Afro haircut.

Market robbery

A man armed with a shiny handgun robbed the Circle K Market at 12854 Foothill Blvd., Etiwanda, of a small amount of cash early this morning, according to West End Sheriffs deputies.

Market clerk Frances Garbowski told deputies that the man, about 25, walked into the store about 12:10 a.m. and approached the counter.

The clerk said the man pulled up his pants leg revealing a shiny gun stuffed in his right sock and demanded the cash from the register. The clerk complied and the robber ran out the door.

The gunman was described as a white, weighing 160 to 170 pounds with light brown shaggy shoulder-length hair.

He had bloodshot eyes and appeared to be under the influence of alcohol, the clerk said.

Blacks clamp new boycott in Miss.

PORT GIBSON, Miss. (AP) — For 12 white merchants who won a $1.2-million judgment against a black boycott, the future holds dreams of prosperity, but the present is a time of more economic hardship.

The merchants hope the courts eventually will force the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) to pay the judgment. But, meanwhile, blacks have clamped another boycott on Port Gibson's small but normally busy main street in retaliation for the legal fight.

W.P. Gordon, mayor of this town of 3,000 persons, says he doubts the merchants will ever see a dime of the judgment.

U.S. District Court Judge Orma Smith is expected to rule Thursday on one facet of the legal fight — whether the NAACP must put up $1.56-million bond in order to file an appeal to the state Supreme Court.

Under state law, a loser who wants to block collection while carrying on the legal fight must post bond to cover judgment and costs. Actually, there are 129 other losers in the case, but only the NAACP could possibly raise that kind of money.

"I think if they could get together out of court and raise enough money to just pay off the lawyers, that would be the best thing that could happen," Gordon said.

The merchants were awarded $1.2 million in damages allegedly suffered by an illegal secondary boycott in 1967, staged by the NAACP and area blacks to focus attention on their demands for jobs and changes in local government. The merchants described the boycott as a wartime blockade.

The court ruled, in effect, that the protest was political and should have been directed against municipal officials, not the merchants. Protest leaders, however, maintained that many of the merchants were in fact the municipal leaders of Port Gibson.

Most of the defendants in the case were picketers or boycott leaders back in 1967 and rank as poor people.

"If they collected everything owned by every black person in Claiborne County they wouldn't have no $1.2 million," said the Rev. Eddie Wall, a black Baptist minister.

The new boycott was called by Charles Evers, former candidate for governor, mayor of nearby Fayette, and one of the few black defendants with anything to lose.

"We're not going to buy anything until they quit trying to sue us," said the Fayette businessman. "I know it might cost me, but I can't stop because I might lose a few dollars. If we stop now our struggle has been done in vain."

Unlike the first boycott, with its black-hatted "enforcers" and reports of heavy pressure on black shoppers, the latest boycott has been imposed with a minimum of effort.

Three or four pickets take stations north and south of the downtown area. They prop up their placards and sit on chairs in the shade of pecan trees, gossiping, reading newspapers. Nothing more is needed.

"They are killing this town," said Waddy Abraham, 65, a grocer. "If you don't have good, prosperous merchants, you don't have no town."

If the judgment stands, Abraham would be due $142,217 in damages — some of it presumably collected from former pickets who, though they have little to lose, had to be included among the defendants to make the suit valid.

"All these defendants, I don't know how they wound up in the case," he said. "We were not out to harm the local folks, we were after the NAACP and the big boys."

So the merchants face a decision whether to pursue a judgment they may have trouble collecting or drop the case and write off extensive losses.

Pomona trucking firm owner indicted

A Pomona trucking company owner has been indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles on charges of furnishing false documents to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Pomonan, Earl S. Talkington, is owner of the Patio Farm Lines Inc. at 1032 Industrial St.

The indictment was returned earlier this week on the basis of evidence gathered during a lengthy investigation conducted by the FBI, according to Steven Rathfon, assistant U.S. attorney. Talkington faces arraignment in U.S. District Court Oct. 26.

Rathfon said that the charges involved documents supplied to the ICC by Talkington which indicated that the trucking firm was part of a grower cooperative and thus was free of some licensing requirements of the ICC. The firm actually was not part of a cooperative and was hauling general freight, Rathfon alleged.

Disturbances continue

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Arson, rioting and stone-throwing were reported today in a number of black townships around the country. No casualties were immediately reported in the disturbances.

In Soweto, a sprawling township of one million blacks eight miles south of Johannesburg, police said rioters burned a library, a policeman's home and damaged two beer halls.

Carter concerned with low voter turnout

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter is growing increasingly concerned about all those Americans who don't plan to vote, and he's reminding his supporters of past instances when only a few ballots changed the nation's history.

In his speeches this week, Carter has leaned heavily on listeners who may be thinking of sitting out the 1976 campaign and has urged his supporters to spare no effort to get potential slackers to the polls.

Both Carter and President Ford are off the campaign trail today, Ford in Washington and Carter at home in Plains, Ga. Both candidates plan to attend the annual Al Smith dinner in New York on Thursday. Their final debate is scheduled for Friday in Williamsburg, Va.

Although he remained at the White House on Tuesday, Ford found an opportunity to criticize Carter's proposals to cut the record defense budget, saying such cuts would make the nation weak. Carter has said he wants to cut from $5 billion to $7 billion from the Pentagon budget.

And Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger made a rare foray into the political arena in a speech in New York where he defended Ford's record on international human rights.

Both the vice presidential candidates, Democratic Sen. Walter Mondale and Republican Sen. Bob Dole, were on the road.

Carter traveled to New York City where he stood in a chilly Harlem street as night closed in and pleaded for his supporters to round up prospective nonvoters and get them to the polls.

There are, he warned, past examples of elections that could have changed history if only a handful of voters who stayed at home had made it into the polling booth.

If John Kennedy had lost to Richard Nixon in 1960, Carter shouted into a cheering mostly black crowd that police estimated at 7,000 strong, "we would never have had the Voting Rights Act. None of you would have the freedom you now have."

Later, at a fund-raising dinner, Carter worried that "in the last eight years a lot of people had decided that it is not worth the effort to try to be involved in politics and vote and try to change this country."

And he recalled again the 1960 election in which Kennedy became president by a narrow margin. "If a few people hadn't voted for John Kennedy, we would never have had the Civil Rights Act, our country would have been different."

He also recalled the 1968 election when Richard Nixon narrowly defeated Hubert Humphrey. "The election went the wrong way," he said.

Carter has for several days referred to polls that say more than half the eligible voters may not cast ballots. Analysts say many of those who have become discouraged with the election process would be Democratic voters casting ballots to change the faces in Washington if they bothered to vote.

And national polls now show Ford and Carter nearly neckand-neck with the election only two weeks away.

Some analysts say the lower the voter turnout the better chance Ford has of winning the election. But independent candidate Eugene McCarthy says he thinks voter apathy could help his campaign.

McCarthy, in stops in Missouri, said his campaign will have a better chance with a low turnout and "we think we'll do very well."

Ford received an award on Tuesday from the Amvets in a Rose Garden ceremony. He used the occasion to criticize Carter's proposal to cut from $5 billion to $7 billion from the record Pentagon budget.

He said those who want defense budget cuts "fail to understand that our armed forces are the bulwark of freedom throughout the world."

Carter has called for an end to what he says is waste in Pentagon spending.

The ceremony was Ford's only public appearance of the day, and he ignored the furor over remarks made about U.S. allies by Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Brown had said in an interview that Israel is a military burden to the United States, and that comment, along with remarks about other allies, brought demands that Ford reprimand him.

Both Carter and Mondale called on Ford to act against Brown, with Carter comparing Ford's attitude to Fords's silence on the racial slurs that led to the resignation of Earl Butz as agriculture secretary.

And the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organization said, "The Jewish community does not consider the matter of Gen. Brown to be closed," calling for Brown's censure.

But Ford maintained his silence on the Brown comments. His spokesmen said on Monday that he considers the matter closed.

The government released figures Tuesday showing a decline in the growth of the Gross National Product. Carter issued a statement saying, "After analyzing all economic indicators for over a month we now have proof that the economy is in a downward slide."

Carter said the latest GNP statistics mean "a continuation of high unemployment, huge budget deficits and dim prospects for an improvement in the standard of living for the average worker."

Ford's advisers expressed disappointment with the figures, but Ford was quoted as saying the figures showed "increasing confidence" in the durability of economic recovery.

Meanwhile, in San Diego, Mondale told a meeting of the California League of Cities that the Nixon and Ford administrations "have turned their backs on our cities." He said Ford and former President Richard Nixon vetoed urban aid funds and impounded money designated for helping hardpressed cities.

Mondale said achieving full employment is "the single most important action the federal government must take to help state and local governments."

Dole was stressing the conservatism of the Republican ticket in appearances in Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

He told an Oklahoma City news conference that the GOP ticket needs to strengthen support from among conservatives who backed former California Gov. Ronald Reagan for the party nomination.

Worth $200 million

Eleanor Ford taken by death

DETROIT (AP) — She was one of the richest women in the world — worth perhaps $200 million — yet Eleanor Clay Ford was known as a modest, considerate person who preferred a simple life.

Mrs. Ford, 80, widow of Henry Ford's only son, Edsel, died Tuesday in Henry Ford Hospital from what doctors termed "progressive circulatory illness."

A patron of cultural and charitable organizations, she avoided the jet set life and the public eye. Relaxation often involved reading or a walk on the grounds of her estate on the outskirts of Grosse Pointe Shores.

Born Eleanor Clay on June 6, 1896, she started her life of community service at age 15, when she taught dancing at the Franklin Settlement. For the next 65 years, she gave freely of her time and money to the Detroit community.

She married Edsel Bryant Ford, only son of the auto pioneer, on Nov. 1, 1916. They moved in 1926 to the mansion near Grosse Pointe Shores, where Mrs. Ford lived until her death.

Edsel Ford died May 26, 1943, at the age of 49, after serving nearly 25 years as president of Ford Motor Co.

In that time he amassed a fortune estimated at $780 million. He created the Ford Foundation in 1936 to support educational, scientific and charitable activities and willed most of his fortune to the foundation.

At her husband's death, Mrs. Ford controlled 54 per cent of the company stock and was a vice president. It was rumored that she influenced Henry Ford to place her eldest son, Henry Ford II, in control of the company. Her other two sons, Benson and William Clay, also assumed leadership roles with Ford Motor.

In addition to her three sons, Mrs. Ford is survived by a daughter, Josephine, 13 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Lebanon fighting continues

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian forces reported hard fighting with Lebanese Christians and Israeli armor around towns and villages in southern Lebanon today less than 24 hours before the 50th-plus cease-fire in the Lebanese civil war was scheduled to start.

Beirut also had its usual nightly heavy firing between Christian and Moslem street fighters, and hospital sources said at least 60 persons were killed. Three rockets set fire to a United Nations food warehouse for Palestinian refugees in Moslem west Beirut.

A Palestinian communique claimed that an Israeli infantry force supported by 60 tanks, armored cars and personnel carriers crossed the frontier and captured Yaroun, a village one mile to the north.

"After taking Yaroun, the Israeli enemy began bringing in reinforcements in an apparent preparation for an attack to capture the town of Bint Jbeil," the communique said.

"Right-wing (Christian) militias served a 12-hour ultimatum on Moslem villagers to evacuate a chain of hamlets east of Bint Jbeil, warning a Christian attack also was imminent."

Bint Jbeil, two miles north of the Lebanese-Israeli frontier, was a major base for Palestinian raids into Israel before the Lebanese civil war began 18 months ago. Since then, the Palestinians have been too busy fighting for their existence in Lebanon and have lost most of their bases along the border.

Palestinian spokesmen claimed the new attack was mounted by Israel and the Lebanese Christians to ease Palestinian pressure on the garrison town of Marjayoun, farther west and eight miles north of the border.

Marjayoun controls access to the 40-square-mile Arkoub region in southeast Lebanon, which until the Lebanese war was the chief base for Palestinian raids into Israel. Christian forces took the town from the Palestinians Monday, but the Palestinians said they recaptured it Tuesday and laid siege to a Christian military compound on the town's southern edge.

When the Christians took the town, Lebanese Moslems who saw the fighting said the attackers were transported in armored cars and helicopters with Israeli army markings. Israel denied the report.

A Christian communique indirectly admitted the loss of the town, saying the main Christian base of operations in the southeast, the village of Kleiya, two miles away, was encircled by guerrillas.

The Palestinians said their forces, along with their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies, also seized Aichiyeh, a village two miles north of Marjayoun, and that Israeli gunners along the border began pounding the village with 155mm howitzer fire at daybreak.

The surge of fighting came in advance of a cease-fire set for 6 a.m. Thursday — midnight Wednesday EDT — at a weekend meeting of six Arab leaders in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

Police drop charges against L.A. couple

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An elderly couple in whose home eight youngsters were found tied to their cribs apparently will not be subject to criminal charges.

After investigating the case, a hearing officer in the city attorney's office has recommended that no criminal charges be filed against Eling and Margaret Carbajal of Echo Park, officials said Tuesday.

Police entered the couple's home Sept. 3 during an investigation into gang violence. Inside they said they found 14 children ranging in age from one to nine, including eight tied loosely to their cribs.

The Carbajals explained they tied the children to the cribs so they couldn't crawl out during the night.

The children were grandchildren and others related to the Carbajals.

Cold air in southeast

By The Associated Press

Cold air forced its way into the southeastern states today, pushing light rain ahead of it from the Ohio Valley through the lower Mississippi Valley and into the Southeast.

Behind the cold front, temperatures dropped into the upper 40s as far south as southern Texas. Readings in the 20s were found through much of the central Plains.

Unseasonably cold temperatures were also found from the northern Plateau through the Rockies, the northern Plains and the upper and middle Mississippi Valley.

Light rain fell in portions of Michigan and New York and there was light snow in eastern North Dakota and northwestern New England.

Early morning skies were mostly clear from the south and central Plains through the Rockies, the Intermountain region and the Pacific Northwest. Skies elsewhere were partly cloudy or cloudy.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 12 at Craig, Colo., to 82 at Key West, Fla.

Today's national weather forecast: rain was likely from the northern and middle Atlantic Coast states across the Appalachians, the Ohio Valley and into the Great Lakes region. Some snow was expected in the northern Great Lakes region. Thundershowers were expected in the south Atlantic Coast states. Mostly sunny skies were forecast for the remainder of the nation.

Temperatures today were expected to be cooler from the Ohio Valley to the lower Mississippi Valley, and to continue quite cool through the Great Lakes region and northern New England. It was also to be cooler in the northern Plains. Warmer temperatures were predicted from the middle Mississippi Valley across the central and southern Plains into the southern Rockies.

Small business seminar

A seminar for persons considering starting their own small business will be offered Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

Subjects discussed will include financing, location, management, accounting, taxes, insurance and other related matters.

Cost of the workshop will be $10.

For further information, persons may call the Chamber at 622-1256.

Reports on research

"The Reverend Sun M. Moon: A Study of Heresy and the Birth of a New Religion" is the subject of the Pomona College Thursday Report on Research, to be presented at 11 a.m. in the Carnegie Building on the college campus.

Frederick Sontag, professor of philosophy, will be the speaker in this second report offered in the fall semester series.

The events are open to the public. Following the reports there will be a community lunch in Olney Dining Hill, at a charge of $1.30 for the general public.

Other reports to be presented on Thursdays are:

"Actor-Spectator Transactions in Shakespeare," by Steven C. Young, assistant professor of English, Nov. 4; "Business as Usual: A Case Study of an American Business in Nazi Germany and Occupied France," by Steven S. Koblik, associate professor of History, Nov. 18; "Salt and Water Balance in Polychetes, of A worm's Eye View of Life in an Estuary," by Larry C. Oglesby, associate professor of zoology, Dec. 9, and "Can Susie Still Sell Her Sea Shells by the Seashore," by Daniel A. Mazmanian, assistant professor of government, Jan. 13.

He wins by losing

Jerry Schell of Upland raised $463 for a Lose-A-Thon sponsored by the Diet Workshop.

He recently was invited to New York City to help present a check for $60,000 to CARE, the international relief organization. The money was raised in the contest that ran from February through April of this year.

During that time, Diet Workshop members throughout the United States, Canada and Bermuda lost weight so that others might eat.

Schell was the runner-up in the fund-raising contest. He did well in losing despite the temptations placed in his path by business associates who left candy bars on his desk in the effort to stave off paying their pledge.

Kennedy Park

Kennedy Park Community Center is offering varied activities for valley residents this fall.

Bank anniversary

Arthur D. Morgan, vice president and manager of Bank of America's City of Commerce office, recently observed his 40th anniversary with the bank.

Morgan, of Diamond Bar, joined the bank as a clerk in 1936. He has been manager of the office since 1960 and was promoted to vice president in 1965. He formerly worked as a lending officer in several Los Angeles area branches.

He is president of the Rotary Club of Commerce-Bell Gardens and a past director of the Industrial Council of the City of Commerce. He and his wife, Nelle, are the parents of one daughter.

Completes 30 years

Kenneth Corkill, assistant vice president for loans at Bank of America's Pomona Main Office, observes his 30th anniversary with the bank.

Corkill, of La Verne joined the bank's Chula Vista office in 1946. He advanced to note department head at the National City office in 1952 and five years later to loan officer. He assumed his present post in 1975.

Corkill is a member of the Pomona Host Lions Club.

DONALD WHITE

Law Center Assn. names its president

Attorney Donald White of the Glendora law firm of Tscharner, Douglas and White has been named president of the newly formed La Verne College Law Center Alumni Association.

Lawyers elected to serve with White are Stanley Posnack, vice president, Walter M. Douglas, secretary, and Tom Nuckolls, treasurer.

White earned his law degree at La Verne in 1971. He is a member of the California and American Bar associations and the American Society of Hospital Attorneys. He is also a panelist for both American Arbitration and the Los Angeles County Bar Association.

Claremont group to discuss 3 propositions

Pros and cons of county propositions A, B, and F will be discussed at the Claremont Foothill Association's general meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Condit Elementary School.

Prop. A would provide for the election of a county mayor. Prop. B would increase the number of county supervisors in Los Angeles County from five to nine. Prop. F would create Canyon County out of the northwest portion of Los Angeles County.

Representatives of the Claremont League of Women Voters will be present at the meeting to present the background and pros and cons of the three ballot measures on the Nov. 2 election ballot.

CFA members also will be invited to comment on Claremont's general plan for its sphere of influence which would affect CFA members living in Piedmont Mesa, Live Oak Canyon and the hillsides.

Discussion will be held on the future of the Foothill Freeway, and members are invited to join a study committee.

Walrus hide

The walrus's tough, hairless hide cloaks a six-inch layer of blubber that keeps the animal warm in icy polar waters.

3 plead guilty, receive jail terms

A Rowland Heights man and two others have been sentenced to jail terms ranging from three to six months after each pleaded guilty in Los Angeles federal court to conspiring to sell cashiers checks worth $8 million.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Manuel L. Real suspended five-year prison sentences for each of the three men and placed them on five years' probation. He ordered the three to perform 1,200 hours of charitable work as a condition of the probation.

Ronald J. Polo, 41, Rowland Heights; Fred A. Hamilton, 40, and Richard Gatees, 39, both of Huntington Beach, were arrested after they allegedly agreed to sell 24 stolen checks to an undercover FBI agent for $20,000.

Defense attorneys said the three men had helped authorities determine who had given them the checks, but the defendants said they did not know who stole them from the Hollywood branch of Lincoln Savings and Loan Association.

Polo was sentenced to 90 days in jail, Hamilton to 120 and Gates to 180.

Dodger theft case solved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mystery theft of $1,200 worth of baseball equipment from the Los Angeles Dodgers' clubhouse was solved when police spotted three youths wearing Dodger jerseys that were much too large for them.

The three led investigators to two more youths and police arrested all five, aged 13 to 16 years, and all residents of the Reseda area. They subsequently were released into the custody of their parents pending a juvenile court hearing.

Christmas Seal regional chairman named

Mandy Williams of West Covina will serve as San Gabriel-Pomona Valley regional chairman of the 1976 Christmas Seal Campaign according to Earl B. Smith, president of the sponsoring Los Angeles County Lung Association.

Williams, an automobile dealer, will work closely with Mrs. Jerry Welker of Azusa, the Lung Association's regional council head, in the countywide drive to raise $1.5 million to fight emphysema, asthma, TB, other lung diseases and air pollution.

Funds raised regionally and throughout Los Angeles County will aid the Lung Association's free breathing machine service, asthmatic children's camperships, other community health services, health education and medical research.

United Way campaign reaches out to many

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

One out of every three people benefits from services supported by the United Way campaign.

While two separate campaigns are underway in the valley, many of the local agencies served are supported by both. Included in this group are Visiting Nurse Association of Pomona-West End, Old Baldy Council of Boy Scouts of America, Mt. San Antonio Council Camp Fire Girls, Spanish Trails Girl Scouts, Ontario-Pomona Association for Retired Citizens, Salvation Army, Boys Clubs, the YMCAs and YWCAs.

Funds raised by the West End United Way and the Los Angeles County United Way, East Zone of Region 2, also help support many other statewide agencies offering services in the valley. Among these are Childrens Hospital of Los Angeles, Orthopedic Hospital, Catholic Big Brothers, and numerous agencies assisting the elderly and the needy.

In the eastern section of Los Angeles County, John Felton of Claremont is heading the East Zone campaign. The goal for the zone this year is $304,000, or a 10 per cent increase over last year's total of $276,872.

The zone's campaign is off to a healthy start with Tom Watterson, executive director of McKinley Home for Boys in San Dimas, heading the ' early bird'' campaign which exceeded its goal.

T. Stanley Warburton is general chairman for the West End United Way campaign which also reports a successful start. The area's advanced gifts topped $80,000 before that campaign officially began. The area goal is $576,550.

The United Way campaign is a combined program in partnership with Red Cross chapters in the Southland. The campaign is the largest single voluntary organization in the community through which citizens may express and channel their concern for their fellow man.

Between 80 and 90 per cent of all voluntary health and social services in the community are provided by United Way agencies. By combining the fund-raising efforts of the various agencies, the cost of conducting the campaign is kept to about 7 per cent.

This means that almost 93 cents of each dollar donated goes directly the agencies and services that help people where they live and work.

Donrey purchases publishing corporation

The Donrey Media Group based in Fort Smith, Ark., has agreed to purchase the stock of Glasgow Publishing Corp., Glasgow, Ky.

Carroll Knicely is president of Glasgow Daily Times and the weekly newspaper, The Glasgow Republican. Donrey will acquire a web offset commercial printing plant along with the 7,500-circulation newspaper.

In the announcement, Knicely said, "I am pleased to transfer operating ownership of these newspapers and the printing operation to the Donrey Media Group. They are nationally known, well-experienced and highly competent people. We make the change with full confidence that the independence, integrity and high level of community service we have endeavored to provide will not only continue but hopefully be enhanced."

Knicely, principal stockholder of Glasgow Publishing Corp., said he and all other stockholders have agreed in principle to the sale. Actual transfer of the operation will probably occur Nov. 1, 1976.

Donald W. Reynolds, president and founder of the Donrey Media Group, and Ross Pendergraft, vice president of Donrey's eastern newspaper division, announced Knicely will remain with the newspaper as publisher. No other personnel changes are anticipated.

"The purchase of the Glasgow Daily Times marks Donrey's first venture into Kentucky," Pendergraft said. "We think we have acquired a high-quality newspaper with a talented and aggressive staff. Donrey is extremely pleased that Mr. and Mrs. Knicely have selected us as the successors here, and it is our intention to continue the newspaper's contribution as a vital and integral part of the Glasgow area."

When this sale is complete, the Donrey Media Group will own and operate 31 daily and 23 weekly newspapers in 11 states. Donrey also operates three television stations, five radio stations and seven outdoor advertising companies.

Knicely, who also publishes the Pineville Sun and the Cumberland Courier, Pineville, Kentucky, said the sale of the Glasgow operation will in no way affect the Pineville newspaper. It will continue to be owned and published under Knicely's direction.

Poly hosts New Games Tourney

The public is invited to participate in a New Games Tournament on Sunday at Cal Poly Pomona.

The largest tournament of its type to be held to date in the Southland is scheduled from noon to 4 p.m. on a large grassy field between the football stadium and the main gymnasium on the campus.

New Games events bring people of all backgrounds and ages together to play games that the whole family can participate in. Size and skill differences are not barriers to full participation and enjoyment.

Several hundred people are expected to join in the free activities, according to the sponsors, the New Games Foundation of San Francisco and the Cal Poly Recreation Club.

The activities are designed to require cooperation, encourage family togetherness and reduce competition.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Bill Michaelis at Cal Poly Pomona, 598-4623.

Alta Loma Program

The Alta Loma Junior High School will be holding its annual back to school night Thursday beginning at 7:15 p.m.

Following a short meeting, parents follow their child's schedule in classrooms.

PULLING HIS WEIGHT — Even this youngster pulls his weight in a giant tug-of-war, one of many activities planned at the New Games Tournament open to the public Sunday on the campus of Cal Poly Pomona.

4 valley physicians named FACS

Four valley physicians became Fellows of the American College of Surgeons during formal ceremonies held recently in Chicago.

Initiates from the area are Dr. D. Frederick Knudsen, 162 Nemaha St., and Dr. Robert Hale Sorosky, 297 W. Artesia St., both of Pomona; and Dr. Robert Mark Kirk, 1175 E. Arrow Hwy., and Dr. Kenneth C. Lay, 1230 E. Arrow Hwy., both of Upland.

The American College of Surgeons is the world's largest organization of surgeons. Fellows have earned the right to use the designation FACS after their name, indicating that they have fulfilled comprehensive requirements of acceptable medical education and advanced training in general surgery or one of 11 surgical specialities recognized by the college.

The ceremony was held at a five-day program which also includes exhibits, postgraduate courses, research reports and panel discussions.

Hooks needed

The Coast Guard says boat hooks are not required equipment, but they are valuable when mooring or when needed to retrieve pets, preservers and people "over the side."

Only U.S. mounting swine flu campaign

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — America's swine flu vaccination program is not exactly a shot being felt around the world.

World Health Organization (WHO) officials say at least 10 countries are presently producing swine flu vaccine and others are prepared to import it but that only the United States is mounting a campaign to inoculate most of its citizens.

The WHO spokesman said there have been no new swine flu cases since those at Fort Dix, N.J., last January and that there are no indications now that a worldwide epidemic is likely to break out. However, he praised those countries preparing for a possible outbreak.

"It certainly will give added safety to vaccinate as many people as possible, particularly as this would make it much easier to contain the disease should it break out," the spokesman said.

He said those producing their own vaccine in addition to the United States are Britain, Japan, Romania, the Netherlands, Canada, Australia, Belgium, West Germany and Yugoslavia. He said some countries apparently plan to import it from the United States but named only Switzerland among them.

Italy was not among the countries mentioned by the WHO spokesman, but the Italian government said it has ordered pharmaceutical companies to produce three million doses by November, to be used in case of need.

Several European countries producing the vaccine said they would use it only in case an outbreak developed or for persons who want to get inoculations from private physicians.

"We don't consider it enough of a threat to undertake a campaign of mass vaccination," said a British government spokesman in London.

The French government has taken no action regarding swine flu. The regular flu voluntary vaccination campaign is under way in France, encouraged by widespread government advertising. But it is confined to protection against current flu types circulating or thought to be approaching Europe, which do not include swine flu.

An Austrian official said a possible swine flu outbreak was seriously doubted there and that no more was being done to vaccinate against flu in general than in past years.

In Yugoslavia, people are getting shots against other types of flu on a voluntary basis. The Immunological Institute of Zagreb said it has produced live swine flu vaccine and can quickly produce it in quantities sufficient to protect the entire population if an outbreak becomes apparent.

Japan is producing enough swine flu vaccine to inoculate one million people but has not yet decided what kind of inoculation program will be carried out, a spokesman for the Health and Welfare Ministry said in Tokyo.

He said an estimated 20 million Japanese came down with flu during the 1918 epidemic and 300,000 died from it.

Fire danger awareness is urged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fire department officials from across the nation say there must be a vast increase in public awareness about both the cause and prevention of fires if there is to be a significant decrease in fires and the resultant loss of life and property.

The fire officials, meeting in Los Angeles, said Monday that a cross-section study of nearly 2000 homes across the nation showed that a majority of those surveyed did not or could not identify even such common fire hazards as stored gasoline, defective stoves and ovens or careless use of matches and lighted cigarettes.

Camera has taken over

Artist claims painting finished as art form

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Painting is finished as an art form and photography has taken over, says Charles Biederman, an American artist who has gained greater fame in Europe than in his own country.

"Painting has run its course; the camera has taken over," Biederman said in an interview. "Painting, sculpture and the other media were forms appropriate to their time.

"... Let me tell you, there are no Rembrandts, Titians, no more Courbets. They've disappeared. I don't care about this Andrew Wyeth or anything else. ... Yes, he's popular, but mediocrity is always popular, isn't it?"

Biederman, 70, has lived since 1942 in a quiet, wooded country area outside of Red Wing, Minn., working in relative isolation from his neighbors at his modest farm home.

While Biederman has remained relatively unknown in America, examples of his New Art have been acquired by European museums.

This week, a major retrospective of his works from 1927 to the present opened at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. The show is only his second major exhibition in North America.

His mature reliefs are rectangular or square aluminum flats with many smaller squares and rectangles set on the large flats and on each other in varying angles to form geometric patterns.

Each work is painted in oil, with the smaller brightly colored pieces retaining the lively and varying hues of nature while avoiding direct imitation of natural objects.

"I've tried to resolve the structure of nature in terms of the structure appropriate to painting, which was the same approach that Cezanne took," Biederman said. "He began to develop his art slowly, working carefully from the premise of how to most simply represent the three-dimensional nature of the work itself."

In Biederman's work, a viewer will not see a vase of flowers, a human face or anything representational concealed abstractly within the geometrical figures.

SAYS CAMERA KING — Artist Charles Biederman of Red Wing, Minn., claims that the camera has taken over and that painting has run its course, that it is finished as an art form. Here he views one of his brightly colored aluminum reliefs on display.

Parents threaten suit

Board supports principal who made 2 boys eat cigarettes

HUME, Mo. (AP) — When the high school principal caught three teen-aged boys with cigarettes in their pockets, he gave them a choice of punishments: take a paddling or eat the cigarettes.

Two of the boys chose to eat a total of 18 cigarettes and have developed health problems as a result, their parents said recently.

When the boys' mothers went to a school board meeting to protest, the board voted to uphold the principal's actions. Board member Joe Brooks said the principal's authority would be damaged unless the board supported him.

"I feel like if the kids make up their own mind, it's up to them," Principal Kenneth Hightower said shortly after the incident late last month. Hightower said he always offered the same alternative to other students who broke the rule against carrying cigarettes, but all had chosen paddling.

Hightower had caught Terry Weatherman, 15, Bill Adkins, 14, and another youth with the cigarettes. He told them they could have two swats with a paddle or eat the tobacco they were carrying.

The unidentified boy chose the paddle, but Terry and Bill divided the tobacco from 18 cigarettes and swallowed it.

Both boys soon began to vomit, their parents said.

Mrs. William Adkins said she took Bill to a doctor 20 miles away that night after he began spitting up blood. She said tests showed he had a small ulcer, which doctors said had been developing over a long period but could have been made worse by the tobacco. She and her husband are threatening legal action against the school.

Mrs. William Weatherman said Monday that Terry has been sent home from school three times recently because of illness. She said she is still awaiting results of medical tests.

The incident in this town of 350 persons has sparked criticism from health experts around the country.

"That's a very dangerous form of punishment," said Dr. Paul Larsen, a pharmacology expert who studies effects of tobaco at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond. "I bet they were very, very sick.

"There are a number of incidents of people being poisoned in one degree or another from eating cigarettes."

He said fatalities are rare because the victim usually vomits.

Dr. George Wise, director of the poison control center at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City, Mo., said he knows of cases of people dying after being injected with nicotine to rid them of certain diseases.

Dr. Daniel Horn, director of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health in Atlanta, said that swallowing tobacco could be harmful, but he had no record of anyone dying from it. "People don't normally go around eating cigarettes," he said.

The parents of both of the boys knew they smoked.

"I really don't approve of smoking," said Mrs. Weatherman, who said she knew Terry had been smoking since last November.

Bill's father, William Adkins, said, "At first I didn't approve of his smoking. Then later on I did. He's a very nervous child."

END BEFORE FINISH — Smoke billows up from a fire which caused an estimated $500,000 to $1 million damage to an apartment complex under construction near the University of Nevada (Las Vegas) campus recently. Three firemen were injured fighting the blaze.

Treasure find leads to more woe, not less

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rafael Hurtado, an octupus fisherman, thought his troubles were over four months ago when he stumbled upon a Spanish treasure in shallow water off Mexico's Caribbean coast.

But the treasure of bars, bracelets and medallions of gold has led him to at least a year in jail.

Last Saturday, a federal judge declared that there was ample evidence Hurtado sold the treasure and had not told authorities of its discovery as is required by Mexican law.

Under the Napoleonic code of justice which Mexico still uses, Hurtado is guilty until proven innocent. He can be held in jail for up to a year until his innocence or guilt is proven.

If found guilty, the fisherman could get up to 10 more years in jail.

Hurtado, in an interview with a Mexican newsman, reportedly said he sold the treasure so he could buy shoes for his children and to buy materials for building his own house. Hurtado, federal investigators said, soid the treasure to a jeweler for $3,000.

The investigators estimate the value of the gold by its weight alone at $25,000. Authorities say the value is incalculable.

The treasures was recovered from the safe of the jeweler, who was also jailed for up to a year while awaiting trial.

"It was in the seas and didn't belong to anyone but me because I discovered it," the fisherman said after being arrested.

Hurtado says he found the gold in six feet of water just outside the port of Veracruz on Mexico's southern Caribbean coast.

Government archeologists say the discovery is the one of most important of gold in Mexico, exceeded in value only by that of a grave in Monte Alban and by the palace of the Indian chieftan Xochila in the Pacific Coast state of Aoxaca.

Hurtado's discovery includes 51 pieces in all—two gold bars marked with a double x, a golden horse shoe, medallions and bracelets.

Investigators have searched the reported locale of the discovery for more artifacts, but so far have been unable to find anything.

The archeologists say the treasure was part of a Spanish galleon that apparently was on its way to Spain in the early 16th Century.

There is some debate about which of the gold artifacts are Spanish work and from which emperor the Indian jewelry might come.

Both parties wage spending spree to get out the vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican party is spending almost $3 million finding GOP voters and urging them to the polls, and the Democrats are spending nearly $2 million on voter registration for the Nov. 2 election, party officials said Tuesday.

Richard Thaxton, director of political research for the Republican National Committee, told a breakfast group at the National Press Club the Republican effort aims at reaching 10 million persons by telephone before election day, using nationwide telephone banks with 6,000 phones.

Michael McClister, a consultant to the Democratic National Committee, said that party's efforts have been concentrated on registering new voters and it now is conducting a drive to get them to cast ballots.

McClister said the effort had added over three million new voters to the rolls in 35 states, in addition to several million more registered by other drives or normal channels.

"This is the largest, most successful voter registration effort in the Democratic party's history," McClister said. He predicted a record registration for this election, although he said actual voter participation may follow the downward trend of recent years.

A national poll taken last July indicated that more than half the eligible voters in the United States may not cast ballots on Nov. 2, and voter apathy is a factor that has been recognized by many campaign officials and candidates.

Democratic presidential contender Jimmy Carter, in a speech in Florida on Monday, called on voters not to ignore the election, saying the government can be effective "provided the American people don't give up."

Thaxton said the new federal election law with its restrictions on campaign spending had forced political parties and committees to be more selective in their operations than with unlimited spending of years past.

U.S. home kitchens receive low rating

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government survey indicates that 63 per cent of American home kitchens are "high risk" zones for the 2 million to 10 million estimated cases of food poisoning each year.

The risks are higher if the cook is under 50 years old, better educated and part of a family with $15,000 or more income a year, according to the report by Judith L. Jones and Jon P. Weimer of the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service.

The nationwide survey, using a scientifically selected sample of 2,503 representative households, was conducted in 1974. The analysis of the findings is being published this month.

The focus of the study is the "High risk" homemaker. The researchers applied that designatedion to 63 per cent of the sampled households, those with an unnecessarily high potential of sickness due to possible contamination of food.

Too much faith on the part of the cook is a major part of the problem, the report says.

"Homemakers may place undue reliance upon government inspection functions for prevention of bacterial contamination of raw meat and poultry products," it concluded. "Many homemakers are unaware of the existence in the environment and human body of the intrinsic sources of food-poisoning types of bacteria."

IT'S DIVORCE OR LOSE STATE AID — Louise Schnebelt, 22, ministers to her quadraplegic husband, Dale, 23, whose arms and legs were paralyzed in a high school canoeing accident. The Flint, Mich., couple, married Aug. 14, have been told they'll have to get a divorce if they want to continue to receive $270 monthly aid that enables Louise to care for her husband.

To continue $270 payments couple must get a divorce

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Dale and Louise Schnebelt have been told they'll have to get a divorce if they want to continue receiving a $270 monthly payment from the state that enables Louise to care for her crippled husband.

Dale, 23, has been a quadraplegic since being injured in a high school canoeing accident. He met Louise, 22, at a nursing home where she was a nurse's aide and he was a patient.

After he moved out of the nursing home, Louise quit her job and took care of Dale full time, getting a $270 monthly "chore provider payment" from the Michigan Department of Social Services. Dale also received $192 a month in Supplemental Security Income for his disability.

The couple got married Aug. 14 and now the state is telling them they are no longer eligible for the $270. Without the money, Dale would be forced to return to a nursing home.

Social Service workers say a clause in state regulations states "Payment cannot be made if the service is available from a responsible relative." The Schnebelts say caseworkers advised them to have the marriage annulled and simply live together.

"But I won't do it. I've been very happy being married to the woman I love," Dale says. "Our happiness means more to us."

The couple says they will appeal the state's decision to cut off the payments.

Ethlyn Boatwright, head of program services in Flint, says "the state would save thousands of dollars" by keeping Dale out of nursing homes and paying Louise to take care of him.

"But the law says we have to discontinue the payments," says Mrs. Boatwright. "And if the (appeals) judge goes by the letter of the law, he'll have to uphold the cutoff. We're hoping he can find some way for Mrs. Schnebelt to take care of him, though."

READY TO GO HAUNTING These three ghastly creatures are "all smiles" as they anxiously await visitors to Campus Life's new haunted house in West Covina. The house, located in the Fashion Plaza, will be open from 6:30 to 10 p.m. for 10 days starting Thursday. From left, the "monsters" are Shelley Farnsworth of Glendora, the "eye," Carey VanLoon, La Puente, "mortician," and John Sjordin, Glendora, the "rock monster."

Haunted House opens Thursday

Campus Life's Haunted House will once again come "alive" Thursday, for 10 days, to strike fear and fun into the hearts of all who dare enter.

Located next to the Broadway in the West Covina Fashion Plaza, this year's Haunted House features an all new "earthquake" room, where walls crumble and the floor moves.

Special effects lighting and 20 sound tracks combined with "live monsters" have created an atmosphere that Campus Life describes as "frightening." For this reason no one under 12 years of age will be admitted.

The Haunted House, one of the 90 sponsored nationally by Campus Life, is a 25-minute excursion through 26 rooms.

In addition to the "earthquake" room, there is a wax museum, a "Jaws" room, a dungeon and operating room.

Survivors of the tour may be lucky and win one of the 1,000 pumpkins to be given away opening night.

A cast of more than 150 monsters, technicians, and security personnel are required to run the house every night. These volunteers are from local high schools, colleges, and service clubs.

Campus Life, with headquarters in Covina, is a local non-profit youth organization working among high schools with Campus Life clubs and youth guidance camps. All proceeds from the haunted house are used to fund a year-round Campus Life program involving over 6,000 teenagers.

Motion made to hold an election

Pomona board rejects transfer plan

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Assistant City Editor

Pomona school board on a 3-1 vote Tuesday night took action to oppose the transfer of four North Diamond Bar schools serving 2,752 students from Pomona to Walnut.

The motion to take this position was made by board member C. Allen Braswell and seconded by board President Mary Montes.

The no vote was cast by board member Gene Whitlock. "I do not oppose and I do not protest," said Ken Pine who abstained. This was the third time the transfer proposal had been before the Pomona board.

To accommodate the some 250 people in attendance, including a large group from Diamond Bar, the meeting was moved from the Education Center board room into the auditorium.

In a second motion, Braswell proposed that the board request the county superintendent of schools to call an election in the Pomona Unified School District in March 1977 "to permit the electorate to determine this issue."

This motion was seconded by board member Don Donnelly who said, "It is important that our citizens have the same rights to make this determination given Walnut citizens."

The Walnut school board Monday night voted to file written opposition to the transfer proposal, initiated by the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, leaving the decision to the voters there.

Had neither board taken an opposing position, the decision on the transfer could have been made by the county school board and the county Board of Supervisors. It already has the approval of the county Committee on School District Organization and was scheduled for consideration by the county school board on Oct. 26.

Pomona administrators and board members will attend that meeting to state Pomona's position.

A third motion made Tuesday by Braswell died for lack of a second. He proposed that the board authorize county counsel to file suit against the county school board and the county superintendent of schools to determine if voters may vote on the transfer of schools "in a manner which would have a negative effect on the racial balance of Pomona schools."

When no second was offered, Mrs. Montes suggested that Supt. Charles Carpenter check on the constitutionality of voters deciding the transfer matter.

"That should be clear before it goes to an election," she said.

"This is an issue that must be decided by the court," Braswell countered. "It is essential that this be established, settled, before the election is held."

In his discussion, Braswell said there were four basic issues to the transfer: "educational, financial, social and constitutional.

"This election," he said, "determines the will of the majority. The purpose of a court action is to determine the rights of the minority. I see no conflict."

In a written opinion from Deputy County Counsel Melanie E. Lomex to Carpenter, she said, "It is well established that boards of education must take whatever steps are reasonably feasible to alleviate racial imbalance and must refrain from taking action or omitting to take action when the result of such action or omission would perpetuate or facilitate the segregation of students on the basis of race."

Should the transfer be approved and Diamond Bar students be withdrawn from Ganesha High School, administrators estimate the school's enrollment would be approximately 37 per cent white and 63 per cent minority.

George Resh, a director with the Diamond Bar Home owners Association, was one of six individuals who addressed the board on the transfer.

"We want our sovereignty," said Resh. Diamond Bar, he said, is racially, ethnically and religiously integrated. "I beg you, please do not protest this action," he said.

Chamber president offers communique

The transfer of North Diamond Bar schools from Pomona to Walnut "would not be in the best interest of the Pomona Unified School District nor the people it serves," Pomona Chamber of Commerce President Joseph A. Gendron told Pomona school board in a written communique Tuesday night.

"The entire planning for the school district has included Diamond Bar residents. Our present three major high schools were set up with this in mind.

"The Diamond Bar transfer would adversely affect this planning. The transfer would leave Ganesha High School with an insufficient number of students to offer a comprehensive program.

"If the remaining 1,100 students were divided between Garey and Pomona high schools, these campuses would have to be expanded in order to accommodate the students.

"Likewise, Walnut High School would have to go on double sessions to accommodate the new students there. These moves would be costly to both districts.

"We feel the transfer of Diamond Bar would have an adverse effect on the housing market in West Pomona and could likely have a negative impact on future residential development.

"Regarding the effect of the transfer on the ethnic balance we still believe there are serious legal considerations.

"For these reasons, the executive board of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning unanimously voted to urge you to oppose the transfer of the Diamond Bar schools to the Walnut school district."

Mikesell successor to be named Friday?

A new San Bernardino County supervisor may be named Friday to succeed Daniel Mikesell of Ontario, who resigned Sept. 28.

Public interviews of 30 candidates who filed for the vacated seat got underway today in supervisors' chambers in San Bernardino.

The four remaining supervisors have 30 days from the date of Mikesell's resignation to choose his successor. Otherwise, they would give up that right to Gov. Brown.

Interviews are being conducted today, Thursday and Friday. Each interview today and Thursday will last 20 minutes and is expected to be held between the hours of 10 a.m. and noon and 2 and 5 p.m.

Several finalists will be selected to return for a more extensive interview Friday, according to board clerk Leona Rapoport. The successor to Mikesell may be announced Friday, but board members could decide to hold over the selection until Monday.

The 30 candidates will be asked five questions relating to county government. They were sent the questions in advance and will be asked to respond verbally and in writing.

Sheriffs searching for a specific murder suspect

Los Angeles County sheriff's homicide detectives revealed today that they are looking for a specific individual for questioning in the Oct. 7 fatal stabbing of a student at Azusa Pacific College.

Lt. Stanley Backman said the individual lives in the area of the college, but investigators have been unable to locate him since his name came out during interviews of witnesses. Backman declined to reveal the man's identity until it appears the public's assistance may be required in locating him.

Backman said that the victim, David Kim Brunk, 20, was stabbed because of a dispute over the affections of a young woman. Brunk, a music student, was stabbed many times, principally in his neck and upper chest, in a music room of the college late that night.

Brunk was a native of Seoul, Korea, and lived with adoptive parents in this country most of his life. He was a member of a religious music group headed by his father which has appeared throughout the San Gabriel and Pomona areas.

Massage parlor hearings rescheduled for Nov. 9

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Hearings for four Pomona massage parlors accused of being public nuisances under the state "Red Light Abatement" law were continued without action Tuesday until Nov. 9.

The four massage parlors are Sultan's Adult Talk Center, 705 N. Garey Ave.; Cover Girl Modeling Studio, 360 E. Holt Ave.; Swedish Massage Parlor, 1273 N. Garey Ave.; and Pomona Valley Health Spa, 1567 N. Orange Grove Ave.

In a separate but related action Tuesday, attorney Paul Mahoney, representing Clyde Warren, argued that Warren should not be included as one of the defendants in the action against Cover Girl.

Warren, said Mahoney, is the owner of the property but is not involved in any way in the operation of the premises, which is under a three-year lease to Ed Marion.

Representing the city, attorney Ken Milestold Superior Court Judge Paul Egly that all persons with legal interest in the property were required to be listed as defendants.

Mahoney argued that the city had not presented sufficient facts to indicate that the business was a nuisance, and that even if the allegations of lewdness and prostitution against the business are found to be true it is beyond the control of Warren.

Judge Egly took the matter under advisement.

The four massage parlors granted continuances Tuesday are among the seven originally charged by the city.

A week ago two others were closed. They were Cleo's Health Salon No. 1, 400 N. Gibbs St., and Cleo's Health Salon No. 2, 956 N. Garey Ave., both operated by Tommie Whitlock.

It was incorrectly reported at that time that Judge Egly had signed permanent injunctions against the establishments.

Instead, Miss Whitlock agreed not to operate the businesses any longer and canceled her business licenses.

She later told the Progress Bulletin that she closed her businesses voluntarily and that it was only a coincidence that she chose to do so the day before appearing in court.

She denied the allegations made by police against the businesses.

Those allegations, and the allegations against each of the other massage parlors, are in the form of transcripts of tape recorded visits to the massage parlors by undercover police.

The transcripts of the conversations between the officers and employes of the businesses include discussions between the officers and female employes of certain sexual acts and their cost.

Such acts were not committed, only talked about, according to the recordings.

The city contends, however, that since the transcripts show that acts of prostitution are readily available at the businesses, they are therefore public nuisances and should be abated under the "red light" law.

In addition to the four massage parlors receiving continuances until Nov. 9, another, Athenas, 560 E. Mission Blvd., had previously received a continuance until early December.

Woman, son hurt in crash

A Claremont woman and her young son were injured early Monday morning in a traffic accident at 11th Street and Euclid Avenue, Upland police reported.

Jane Ellen Conway, 30, and her son, Michael, 7, of 2142 Wilkes Court, Claremont, were transported to San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland, where they were treated and later released.

Police said that a car driven by Angelo Otillio Torta, 58, of 615 Euclid Ave., Upland, crashed into the rear of the Conway car stopped at the intersection.

This campaign is a disgrace

It's a good thing the candidates have one more debate coming up. They desperately need this final joint appearance on a national forum to attempt to redeem what has degenerated into one of the most unappetizing and unedifying presidential contests in many years.

For a while it appeared to be less a question of which candidate would win the election than which one would lose it; less a question of which man would persuade a majority of Americans to vote for him for president than which one would most effectively talk himself out of the job.

In the beginning, Jimmy Carter had the field to himself, with his ethnic purity remark and Playboy magazine confession. But then everything suddenly changed and the tone of the campaign has been getting lower and lower ever since.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz found himself the real butt of a "joke" he told, and Gerald Ford showed he could shoot from the lip as well as any man with his astounding announcement that the Soviet Union does not dominate Eastern Europe — er, that is, what I meant to say was . . .

This was like found money to Jimmy Carter. Never having been comfortable when pressed for the specifics of what he proposed for the nation in the next four years, he immediately seized upon the Ford gaffe and has been playing it for all it is worth, especially among ethnic Americans.

Yet while he condemns the President's remark as irresponsible, it does not seem to occur to Carter that it is even more irresponsible of him to suggest that a Carter administration could do any more to help the Poles, Czechs, Lithuanians and others than any previous administration has been able to do.

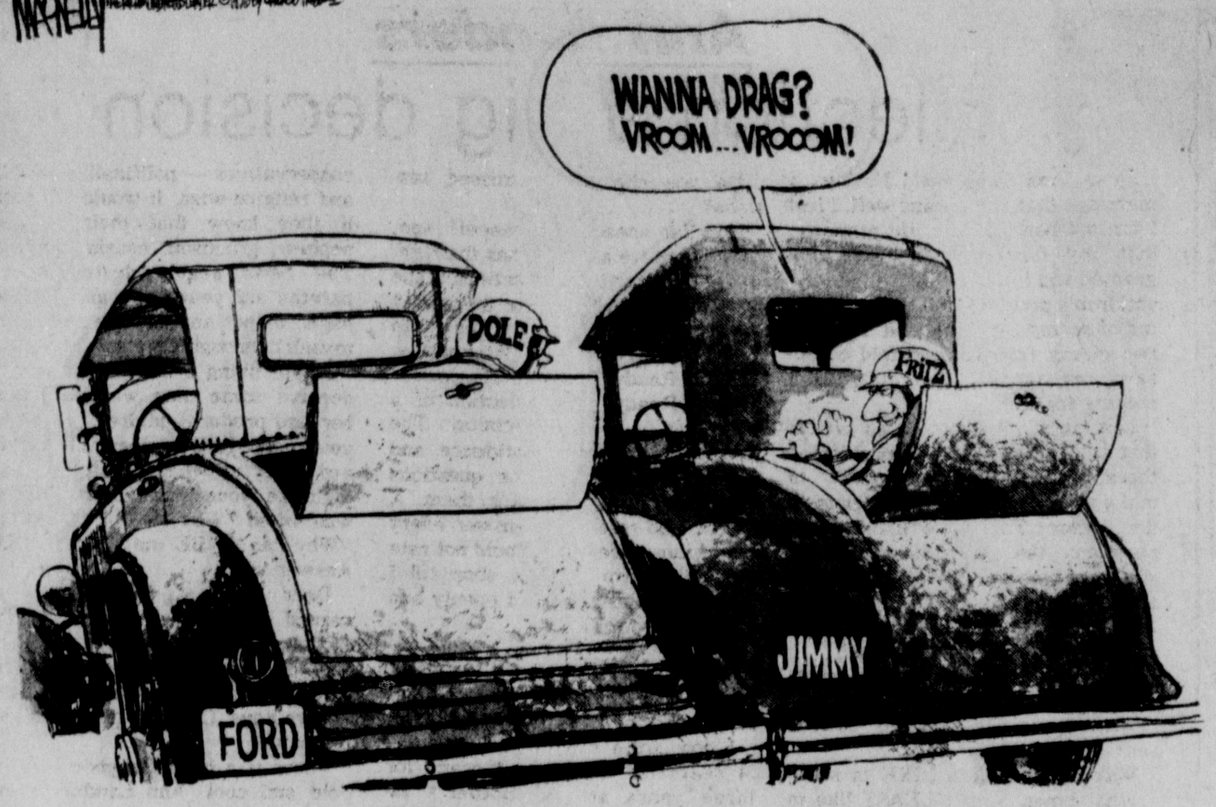
The Ford camp, of course, is far from having to concede second place in this game.

The President tried his best, for example, to have everyone believe that his opponent advocated confiscating the incomes of everyone earning over $14,000 and redistributing them to everyone earning less than $13,999.

He has taken an eminently sensible Carter suggestion that the purely business and profit-making activities of churches and religious groups be taxed and attempted to distort it into an attack on religion by Carter.

To borrow a word Jimmy Carter uses to describe everything he can saddle his opponent with, this campaign has become a disgrace.

No wonder so many people are taking the advice retired diplomat Averell Harriman gave Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev the other day: Don't pay any attention to anything the American candidates say.



The public forum

A special set of values

Dear Editor:

History furnishes us with an example and is influencing our vote in the Nov. 2 Claremont annexation election which includes 1,500 acres north of Baseline.

What happened in 1883 in Ontario is relevant today. In that year Chaffey brothers filed a subdivision map for 10,000 acres extending from the mountains to the Southern Pacific. On March 17 they provided a special train to bring several hundred representatives of the California Editorial Association to Ontario for Chaffey college groundbreaking ceremonies. They provided a handsome endowment for the college. They filed an Ontario townsite map including 640 acres of which 480 acres were set aside for "villa" lots of two and a half acres selling for $250 an acre. The balance of the land was plotted for 10-acre agricultural plots, with water carried in concrete pipes to each parcel.

The subdivision was a tremendous success. Nine years later Ontario was incorporated, had six churches, a flourishing business district, good roads, many splendid homes, a gravity or mule car extending to San Antonio Heights — all enhanced by matchless Euclid Avenue extending across the valley. The collapse of the real estate boom in 1889 did not stop Ontario.

On the other hand, many other subdividers, hoping to duplicate Chaffey's success, but not adhering to the Chaffey ideal, flooded the land with subdivisions. Many of those, with thousands of lots 30 feet wide, were located on the Santa Fe, completed in 1887. Most of these were only paper subdivisions. Speculators lost fantastic sums.

Today we are seeing another boom. Developers are falling over themselves to get land under option. Claremont, north of Baseline is one of the "hottest" areas. A total of 1,078 homes are in the works in areas already annexed to Claremont under "non-inhabited area" rules.

The issue in the annexation is whether we shall continue under county regulations where 10,000 square foot lots and even trailer parks will be permitted, or whether we shall annex to the city to keep our semi-country status where prezoning provides for acre gross (35,000 square foot net) minimum lots, or in another provision for 20,000 square foot minimum. The annexation zoning also permits the owner to keep a horse, and on some streets, widths are restricted. An unique provision is that an owner may build a guest house of not more than 900 square feet. We know in our own experience a secondary unit was a happy experience. My husband's parents spent the last 25 years of their lives in the apartment attached to our home.

We cite more personal experiences. Both my husband and I lived in our early years on Euclid Avenue in Upland, growing up there and graduating from Chaffey High School and Chaffey College. Except for the first year of our married life we have lived in Claremont, including 47 years on our still producing lemon grove in the proposed annexation area. Our children knew the joy of owning horses and the freedom which space provides.

We therefore have a special love for both Upland and Claremont. We speak from experience and not from theory.

There is a special set of values in a college community. Claremont has something special to offer. Let the people who want 10,000 foot lots and trailer parks go elsewhere.

We firmly believe that larger lots will not inflict economic hardship on the owners of larger parcels. Look at how values on large Euclid Avenue lots have been maintained.

Of course, annexation will increase our taxes by about ten per cent. But that is an insurance policy to assure us that our land will remain desirable. We are voting "yes" on annexation.

Just in jest

Why, I sometimes wonder, are we making such a fuss about California's school children being below the national average in scholastic skills? Already they have solid state pocket calculators to do their arithmetic for them. They have tape recorders on which they can dictate their thoughts and thus avoid the necessity of writing. So why spend thousands and thousands of the taxpayers' dollars on remedial study courses when all that really needs to be done to get California student's grades back to normal is to invent a machine that will do their reading for them?

Brown vetoes health board

By EARL G. WATERS

Efforts to reestablish the State Board of Health have been shot down by Governor Jerry Brown in the veto of a bill authored by Senator Anthony Beilenson. His veto message that he was not "persuaded that adding yet another layer of authority to the health department will help" indicates both a complete awareness of the difficulties the department is experiencing and a lack of knowledge of the history of the board and the reasons for it.

For the Beilenson bill was not "adding yet another layer of authority" but reinstating a board which, until 1974, had existed for more than 100 years. It was eliminated in the grand scheme conjured up by former Health-Welfare Agency Secretary Earl Brian for the reorganization of the state's health and welfare services.

Brian, an M.D. with little experience in the practice of medicine, had been appointed to the position by Governor Ronald Reagan. Totally without administrative experience he nevertheless mesmerized Reagan into the belief that he was his "most capable executive". Holding that view Reagan the outspoken foe of "big government" permitted Brian to build the biggest bureaucracy the state has ever known.

In bringing together under his jurisdiction the health and welfare departments and some sundry agencies, Brian rode roughshod over all who stood in his way. He viewed as unnecessary impediments the numerous boards which had been created to assist in the management of the programs. He may have been right in some cases, particularly those which were advisory only.

But the abolishment of the Board of Health was coldly calculated by Brian to eliminate a fetter which served to restrain his actions. It had been established soon after California became a state for the specific purpose of adopting regulations for the protection of the public's health and to set the policies for the department. Composed of medical doctors and other health authorities it provided the expertise resulting from the judgements of professionals independent from bureaucratic goals or domination. Under the board guidance the department of health ran smoothly for years.

Lacking such a board a department director has the power to adopt regulations which have the same force as laws enacted by the Legislature. And can run the department as desired without any peer control.

It was the realization of the power a director would have without the board over the lives of every citizen in the state which compelled the board members, all Reagan appointees, to erupt in violent opposition to Brian's plan.

As Dr. F. Harold Johnson, M.D., the board's president at the time stated, "Basically there is a need for an appointive board because government is too unresponsive and such a board would ensure that bureaucratic would be accountable." He was supported by board vice president Dr. William C. Herrick who said "the board permitted the people to have something to say rather than one person (the director) having everything to say".

Most significant was the statement by Dr. Louis F. Saylor, both a former board member and director of the department. "As a long time bureaucrat," he observed, "I share your suspicions of the bureaucratic ingenuity and ability to think through a problem to the best interest of everyone."

The mess in which the health department now finds itself can be attributed to the lack of that policy making board and to the unmanagable size of the monstrous empire created by Brian. It also testifies to the wisdom of the Beilenson bill and the Legislature in passing it and the absence of it in the governor's veto.

Out of the stands

When the last pitch is thrown and the last man is out in the 1976 World Series, it will mark not only the end of this year's baseball season but the end of an era.

The company that has made every baseball ever used in the major leagues since they began play in 1876 has announced it will no longer do so.

"The decision to sever ties with the major leagues was a purely economic one," explains Richard M. Geisler, president of Spalding. Only about 10 per cent of the company's annual production of 2.5 million baseballs went to the majors and "we reached the point where we could no longer absorb the loss incurred on each ball."

Ordinarily this item would appear on the sports or financial pages. What makes it of general interest is what it says about changing American lifestyles. Americans are increasingly becoming sports participants rather than mere spectators.

"Twenty years ago we were more team-sport oriented. Now it's physical fitness, exercise and participation," says Geisler, pointing out that Spalding will continue to make baseballs, but also more and more golf balls, tennis balls and other sports equipment.

The reason is easy to find. According to the National Sporting Goods Association, Americans spent more on recreational equipment in 1975 than in any other year. Sales of sporting goods alone are expected to reach $11.9 billion in 1976.

AID officials fret over image

WASHINGTON — Behind their fashionable walled villas high above Port-Au-Prince, American AID officials are in an absolute tizzy over our criticism of their lifestyle.

We questioned whether they should draw hardship pay for distributing aid to the hungry people of Haiti. They are supposed to help develop the impoverished nation and to feed its malnourished millions.

They manage to do this in a style that is the envy of stateside tourists who pay premium rates for a few days of similar pleasure in Port-Au-Prince. For as we reported last August, the AID officials live in tropical luxury. They swim in private pools, are waited on by gracious servants, belong to exclusive private clubs and attend lavish cocktail and dinner parties.

To help them endure the tribulations of such an existence, they collect "hardship" allowance — a bonus of about 15 per cent above their regular salaries. They also draw generous housing and educational allowances so they can live in the grand manner and put their children through special schools.

Our reports infuriated the AID bureaucrats, who kept the wires burning between Port-Au-Prince and Washington as they speculated on ways they might repair their image. Donor Lion, a high muck-a-muck temporarily in charge of Latin-American aid assured his minions in Haiti that the home office was "taking issue with Anderson column."

Lion pledged that headquarters intended "to demonstrate to AID field personnel our continuing support of their efforts." He requested "as much information as possible" from Haiti "to respond to Anderson and to congressional and other inquiries concerned over Anderson's charges."

Yet try as they might, the AID contingent in Haiti couldn't refute the facts that we reported. Their responses were cabled to Washington by U.S. Ambassador Heyward Isham, who made a valiant effort, at least, to present all the mitigating circumstances.

"It is true," he acknowledged in one cable, "that some Americans live in comfortable houses with swimming pools." But he contended that there simply was too little housing "that would be acceptable by American standards, except those owned by wealthier Haitians. Many of these are built with swimming pools."

Actually, some middle-class houses are available in Port-Au-Prince. Our reporter, Hal Bernton, stayed in one. But these homes might not be adequate for families.

It costs the taxpayers an extra $4,600 to $6,900 a year in housing allowances, which are paid to the AID officials to help them meet the higher rents for their hillside villas. But Ambassador Isham pointed out that diplomats from other countries live in equal splendor in Port-Au-Prince.

E. Europeans aren't subservient

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In the flurry of charges and countercharges over what President Ford said about Eastern Europe during the second televised debate with Jimmy Carter, we're losing sight of the point.

Certainly, Soviet troops move at will in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Hungary and East Germany. Certainly, when the Soviet Union wants a man jailed, he is jailed. Certainly, the Soviet Union can issue oppressive laws and hammer at church going. And clobber free public speech.

But are the Poles, the Rumanians, the Czechs, the Hungarians and East Germans dominated by this?

Most certainly in their hearts they are not. None of these great peoples acknowledged the right of Moscow to rule them. They may give outward obedience. Inside, it is clear they are their own men and women. They are not subservient.

That is a most important point.

Leonid Brezhnev knows this, as Nikita Khruschev knew it in his time. And the Russian military. The inside reports this country receives from the Soviet Union make it clear that Moscow places little trust in the reliability of Polish, Hungarian, Czech and East German troops in time of war. The Kremlin likewise places little trust in the political reliability of the bureacracies, the businessmen, the farmers, students or professionals, of these remarkable nations. There is strong distrust too among the knowledgeable in the Soviet Union as to the reliability even of the native East Eureopean Communist chiefs.

The Russians find it necessary to make every effort to bolster those few men on which it has a stranglehold. Then, not even trusting these few syncophants, the Russians take repeated secret checks on their reliability.

In other words, the Soviet Union has learned there are limits it cannot cross without backfires it is unwilling to face. Despite strong Soviet pressures against religion at one time or another, religious observances attract wide followings — openly in some instances, privately in others. Despite a heavy Soviet clampdown on economic associations with Western lands, the Rumanians have built those associations, slowly to be sure, but persistently. Though the Soviet Union has time again clamped down harshly on those who listen to free world broadcasts, indications are that the listening audience is great. Though free speech is banned, these courageous people find ways to communicate. The Berlin Wall is a monument to Soviet failure.

Both men were saying during the debate that we in the United States hear them — though both said it poorly, especially Mr. Ford.

Both seemed at a loss as to what action to take. That question was never answered.

Perhaps it cannot be answered by us.

For the problem we face is how this nation can work toward the right of self determination worldwide without becoming the world's policeman, a role we find it most difficult to play.

Example- We were not successful in preserving the right of the South Vietnamese to determine their own destiny.

Nevertheless it may be that over the longer run, the spirit of the South Vietnamese and their inner determination to be free will — sometime in the future, — enable them to free themselves from the hard-fisted rule of Hanoi.

So it may be in Eastern Europe.

Joyce Hifler

Think on these things

No prisoner ever loved his jail. And the same holds true for every kind of prisoner — a dog on a leash or a human being tied to a responsibility. If they are there of their own free will and because they have a sense of belonging — then the connecting link is made of love.

Freedom to be an individual with the right to make even small decisions is a precious possession. Freedom to come and go can build faith and trust. The rigid rules of constant prodding and questioning of a free spirit will force him to find freedom — for we only keep that which we allow to go free.

Ann Landers

Selection a big decision

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in a marriage that is not going well. I feel I am not handling my life properly, that my husband takes me for granted and I am overreacting to my children's problems. I've been thinking of seeing a psychiatrist although two of my friends have told me to save my money. Psychiatry did nothing for them.

Last night I ran across an article that said anyone who is considering therapy should "shop around" to make sure he (or she) can relate to the doctor. The piece listed some questions the prospective patient should ask the therapist. Here they are:

Where did you get your training?

What is your marital status?

How long have you been in practice?

What types of problems do you see?

What types do you LIKE to see?

What types do you LEAST like to see?

Do you routinely suggest a physical examination before therapy begins?

How long, on the average, do you see someone?

What is your fee?

Do you charge for missed sessions?

How far ahead can I cancel? Ann, do you believe a person has the right to ask a doctor these questions if she is considering him as her therapist? What if the doctor refuses to answer? I'd like your thinking. — Getting Ready To Make The Move

Dear Ready: The selection of a therapist is a big decision. The patient must have confidence and faith in the doctor. The questions listed are good ones. Ask them. A doctor who refused to answer every one of those questions would not rate very high with me. I'd shop till I found one who answered openly and without resentment.

Dear Ann: When I read the letter from "Why Me?" I knew I couldn't keep quiet any longer. I had to write.

I, too, am a homosexual — male, 24 years old. I was in therapy for three years at my mother's insistence and am now convinced I will never be straight. I'm not happy about the situation but I can handle it.

The problem is my family. Although my parents know, no one else does. My relatives are all ultra-conservatives — politically, socially and religion-wise. It would kill them if they knew that their brother, nephew, grandson, cousin was gay. The news nearly destroyed my parents six years ago and I'm not eager to put anyone else (including myself) through that hell again.

I hate living a lie. I don't want to deceive some nice woman, marry her and produce children (gays can, you know) just to please my family and cover up what I really am.

Unlike your other correspondent who asked "Why Me?" I am asking, "Why can't I BE me?" — Need An Answer

Dear Need: As far as I'm concerned you CAN. I would have no trouble accepting you as you are. The question is, do you have the courage to come out of the closet? Others have. Only you can make that decision.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Wild animals can return

DEAR DR. MILLER: Early this year, we rescued a young possum from a crow. It was too tough to die, and grew to be a very strong and increasingly aggressive little beastie. We finally released it just a few weeks ago near the spot where we first found it. It quickly scuttled off in the brush and we've never seen it again. We often wonder, though, if it's making it in the wild? — K.K.

DEAR K.K.: Rescued wild animals raised to be released again have a reasonable chance for survival — provided they're raised not as pets, but as wild animals. They need, in other words, adequate living space with provision for security and seclusion, and they should be enjoyed from a distance, not as pettable pets. The diet of such youngsters should be, as much as possible, a duplicate of their wild fare. For example, while the young opossum once weaned will do well on canned dog food, it shouldn't be raised on such a diet because it would be ill-equipped to forage for itself when released in the wild (even if you gave it a can opener). As much as possible, its diet should be roots, fruits, live insects and live rodents. Then it would be able to forage for itself on release. Under these circumstances, your possum would have a reasonably good chance of survival.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I think I've heard that dogs get diabetes. Could our dog get diabetes from drinking a lot of water? — J.L.

DEAR J.L.: Diabetes in dogs? Unfortunately, yes. But yours wouldn't get diabetes from heavy drinking (of water) — though you could expect him to be a heavy drinker if he had diabetes. Since dogs are driven to drink from diseases other than diabetes, the veterinarian has to determine just what is going on. He should have by now, of course. Apparent heavy increase in fluid consumption is often a sign the dog is in need of urgent medical attention.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're planning on breeding Mittens, our Manx, but the breeders insist that we bring her out to the stud. That's convenient for them, I'm sure, but I know Mittens is a homebody and I think the whole thing would work better if he were brought over here. Doesn't that sound logical? — S.A.

DEAR S.A.: It might sound logical, but probably isn't. The queen is actually more likely to refuse the male's advances in her own boudoir, more likely to accept in his.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Missy Two is doing just great with her home training, and she never even sees other dogs. Is there any reason, then, why I should expose her to all those dogs and people that would get into a training class? Would it really be worth the hassle to both of us? — K.K.

DEAR K.K.: Many well-trained dogs are not graduates of an obedience class. Still, a well-run class could provide Missy Two with important benefits. Of these, the exposure to other dogs and people might be the most important. Her home training, smooth though it may be, might suddenly fair her should she be confronted with new dogs and strange people. Canine classrooms condition their pupils to cope with such confusing confrontations.

What's so grand about opera?

Now that the New York City Opera is preparing its annual safari to the Los Angeles Music Center, it's time to get our tuxedos and evening gowns out of the mothballs and brush up on highlights of the musical theater. No sense going to an opera if you don't know the score.

The New York company will open Nov. 17 with something called "A Ball at Prince Orlofsky's," but since tickets cost $30, I'll probably be watching "Barnaby Jones, Barnaby Jones." It's a benefit concert and a lot of people will attend. I hope they have a ball.

The first opera is Puccini's "La Boheme," a seedy little tale of underprivileged artists knocking about in a garret in Paris, trying to make a living with music and poetry and trying to make out with assorted grisettes. The star-cross'd lovers are the poet Rodolphe and Mimi, who embroiders hats. She dies mysteriously in Act. IV. They say it was consumption, but I think she was poisoned by Musette, who is no better than she should be. (Sopranos always die in grand opera, and not a decible too soon.) A highlight of "La Boheme" is Rodolphe's aria, "Che gelida manina" (Your hands are like jelly).

In Verdi's "La Traviata," the soprano again goes screeching off with consumption, a popular and ill-defined ailment on world stages. This opera is a spinoff from "Camille" but it's not as good as the movie with Robert Taylor and Greta Garbo. The opera is about a courtesan (high class word for expensive mistress) and how she wins a lover, gives him up because his Daddy says it's a no-no, and finally takes refuge in dying of consumption. Before wasting away she rips out a chandelier-rattling "Addio! del passato," which roughly translated means "Good riddance."

One trouble with dying of consumption is that most sopranos are built along the lines of a Ram defensive tackle and the willing suspension of disbelief is put to an extreme test. Other singers depart in a more credible fashion — in "Carmen" she is stabbed by Don Jose (of the Seville dons), and in "Rigoletto" poor little Gilda gets bagged and stabbed by mistake. In "Madame Butterfly" and "Tosca" the heroine stabs herself, acapuncture on the high C's.

In "Carmen," see, this luscious cigar maker is arrested for beating up on a fellow worker after Don Jose has sung the moving "Mia Madre io la rivedo" (My Mother is a riveter). Carmen wins the heart of the young Spanish captain, so he is not donhearted anymore, and he frees her and flees with her, followed by a chorus of soldiers singing "Do you know the way to Don Jose?" Carmen soon tires of her lover and deserts him for a handsome bullfighter — he doesn't fight handsome bulls, I mean he's a bullfighter who's handsome. So Don Jose follows her to the arena and stabs her in the mezzanine. Very colorful show.

"Madame Butterfly" is sort of an early "South Pacific," except the betrayed heroine, Yum-Yum, commits hara-kiri, which sort of cuts down on the fun and games.

Naval engagements are also featured in "H.M.S. Pinafore," which the New York City Opera will do a couple of times but in the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta the Lass Who Loved a Sailor does not take to the knife — in fact she marries the guy. He turns out to be a captain and not a simple foremast hand, so they live happily everafter, which never happens in grand opera.

One other thing you should remember when the opera season opens: do not fall asleep until Act II. Your snoring will spoil the overture.

Skeptical about vitamin E

DEAR DR. LAMB — The enclosed advertisement appeared in our daily paper. Do you know anything about the "New Super-charged" vitamin E pill? Would it be worth one's time and money to invest in some or do you think it is a wild scheme to "bleed the public?"

DEAR READER — The advertisement you sent me proclaims in headline format "Sexual potency quickly improves with new E-Pill." The rest of the ad is equally as misleading.

The truth is that vitamin E does not improve sexual performance in human beings in any way. It is useful in improving fertility in rats, if you want to increase the rat population. It also helps in some animals with metabolic systems entirely different from man.

In fact I have received several letters recently from wives who complained that their husbands became impotent after starting vitamin E pills.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-12, Vitamin E: Miracle or Myth, to give you some facts to go along With your healthy skepticism. Others who want facts on vitamin E can send 50 cents, and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Also I am sending the ad you included to the Federal Trade Commission with a request that they look into it on the basis of false claims.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I think you have an obligation to comment on your statement in one of your columns about the ratio of unsaturated to saturated fats. You seem to say it doesn't really matter. That seems strange in view of the amount of space you devote to informing the reader about the nature of various fats in various foods. Is one to conclude that it makes no difference whether one consumes Crisco, lard, safflower oil or olive oil?

DEAR READER — You have certainly taken liberties with the actual statement in my column and I hope others have not. The statement you underlined says, "The general thinking today is that significantly increasing the polyunsaturated fat level above the 10 per cent of the total calorie intake probably doesn't help at all, but you do need a small amount."

The statement means exactly what it says. The principle is that you should restrict ALL fat — saturated, monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fat — to no more than 35 per cent of your total calorie intake. Increasing the amount of polyunsaturated fat above 10 per cent of your calories will not help. There is no evidence-that getting a greater portion of your 35 per cent fat calories as polyunsaturated fat either helps or hurts you. The amount of SATURATED fat SHOULD be RESTRICTED to no more than 10 per cent of your total calories.

The problem is that a number of investigators hoped that consuming lots of polyunsaturated fat would prevent atherosclerosis (fatty cholesterol deposits). Many people still erroneously believe this and in their zeal eat far more than the 35 per cent calorie allowance for total-fat intake.

The obvious reasons then why people need to know the fat composition of food are 1) to limit the total fat intake of all kinds in relation to the total calorie intake; and 2) to limit the per cent of calories as saturated fat. The Inter Society Commission for Heart Disease does not believe there is any advantage in adding polyunsaturated fat beyond the 10 per cent of your total calorie intake.

Most popular first names

Among the 29-year-old women in this country, the most popular first names in descending order are Linda, Mary, Barbara, Patricia, Susan, Kathleen, Carol, Nancy, Margaret and Diane. Among the 29-year-old men, Robert, John, James, Michael, William, Richard, Joseph, Thomas, Stephen and David. Now consider the most popular first names among the 12-year-old girls: Lisa, Deborah, Mary, Susan, Maria, Elizabeth, Donna, Barbara, Patricia, Ann(e) and Theresa. And among the 12-year-old boys: Michael, John, Robert, David, Steven, Anthony, William, Joseph, Thomas, Christopher and Richard.

Here's to Johanna Monahan of Idaho — clink! — the nation's first woman broncbuster. At the turn of the century, she intrigued numerous onlookers by showing up at rodeos in cowboy pants.

That word "indolence" originally meant "free both of passion and pain."

RACING

Q. "Which can run faster, a racehorse or a kangaroo?"

A. No horse in the world can beat a healthy grownup kangaroo. That bouncing beast can go 44 mph without even getting winded.

No doubt there's no significance at all in the fact that four summer Olympic games in a row turn up at cities whose names begin with the letter "M" — Mexico City, Munich, Montreal, and upcoming, Moscow. Nominations are now open for towns to host the 1984 games. Missoula, Miami, Memphis?

Earliest pineapples taken into Hawaii were simply regarded as weeds. Wasn't until somebody wrapped a can around same that the big industry got started.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE

No NFL pro football team averaged a larger attendance per game last season than did either the University of Michigan or Ohio State. Maybe you knew that. But can you name the NFL team that did have the highest average attendance? Credit the Buffalo Bills, they with a certain running back who has such a dandy smile he could probably campaign for president. It's said by some that O.J. Simpson might hold more political clout than any other man in the country, providing he never tries to exercise it, which is another contradiction in terms, what?

Each sort of flowers that a fellow might send to a lady is supposed to deliver a particular message. Or at least that's the notion the florists would like to sell. Orchid, "You are beautiful." Daffodil, "Why don't you return my love?" Dogwood, "Frankly, my dear, I couldn't care less," or words to that effect. Sweetpea, "Thanks, Honey, it was beautiful." And peony, "You goofed, Baby, and I don't like it, hear?"

Thoughts

But let him ask, in faith, with no doubting, for he who doubts is like a wave of the sea that is driven and tossed by the wind. For that person must not suppose that a double-minded man, unstable in all his ways, will receive anything from the Lord. — James 1:6, 7.

"Always vote for a principle, though you vote alone, and you may cherish the sweet reflection that your vote is never lost." — John Quincy Adams, 6th U.S. President.

Gubernatorial races

Women could increase control of state capitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women have an opportunity to increase the number of state capitols they control from one to three in the Nov. 2 elections when voters in 14 states select governors.

Four governorships, in Illinois, North Carolina, West Virginia and Delaware, seem likely to switch parties. Four others could — in Utah, North Dakota, Washington and Vermont. In any case, Democrats are expected to hold their nearly 3-1 domination nationwide.

In Washington and Vermont, women are vying to join Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut as heads of states. Both races are regarded as close.

Dixy Lee Ray, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and State Department official, won Washington's Democratic nomination in a blistering fight with Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman last month.

She is facing John Spellman, executive of the state's largest county and the favorite of retiring Gov. Dan Evans, the nation's senior GOP governor.

In Vermont, the Democratic nominee is Stalla Hackel, who beat the organization choice in a three-way primary. She was a utility lawyer who then headed a state employment security agency for 10 years before becoming state treasurer two years ago.

Her opponent is Richard A. Snelling, a sports equipment millionaire who is now majority leader of the state House. They've been sparring on taxes and state economic development. Some Democrats have declined to support their nominee, saying she is too conservative.

Illinois is the only one of the 10 most populous states with a gubernatorial contest this year. James R. Thompson, a Republican and former U.S. attorney in Chicago, is favored over Michael J. Howlett, the current secretary of state and candidate of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's Democratic organization.

If Thompson wins, he'll be propelled into prominence, at least temporarily, as a possibility for the GOP national ticket in 1980.

Thompson has contrasted his record as a prosecutor of politicians and organized crime figures to what he has cast as Howlett's image as an agent of the Daley organization.

Howlett defeated maverick Democrat Gov. Daniel Walker in a bitterly contested primary last March. The battle aggravated wounds within the already fractious Illinois Democratic party, and it was months before Walker even stated that he would back Howlett.

The candidates have clashed over taxes, with Howlett promising no new levies and Thompson saying he can't promise what might or might not be needed. The Chicago Sun-Times' random straw poll of selected areas in the state shows Thompson leading Holwett by 60.9 per cent to 39.1 per cent.

Utah Republican Atty. Gen. Vernon B. Romney has a slight edge on polls over Scott M. Matheson, who is bidding to succeed three-term Democratic Gov. Calvin L. Rampton. Democrats in Utah are worried about defections because of the sex offense trial of U.S. Rep. Allan T. Howe and his refusal to drop off the party's ticket.

In North Dakota, incumbent Democrat Arthur A. Link is considered ahead of Public Service Commission president Richard Elkin. Elkin's main issue is Link's alleged indecisiveness on coal development. Link has won 28 straight elections since entering politics 30 years ago.

Democrat James B. Hunt Jr., the present lieutenant governor, is the favorite to capture the North Carolina governorship held by retiring Republican James E. Holshouser Jr. His opponent is David T. Flaherty, former state secretary of human resources under Holshouser. Reaction after a debate between the two earlier this month was that they had more similarities than differences on issues.

John D. Rockefeller IV, who lost a run for the West Virginia governorship four years ago, is the favorite this time over former Republican Gov. Cecil H. Underwood. Rockefeller is a nephew of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and son-in-law of Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois — but he's a Democrat.

Rep. Pierre S. duPont IV, of the wealthy chemical company family, is favored to beat incumbent Democrat Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt in Delaware. Tribbitt says he's kept the cost of government down, but duPont criticizes the Democrats for late drafting of the state budget; he also assails Tribbitt for continued escapes at the state prison and financial acts that duPont says will create a huge budget deficit next year.

If the four expected statehouse switches occur and the Democrats win the four closest races, they'd increase their national margin in governorships from 36-13 to 37-12. If the Republicans won the four closest races, the Democrats' edge would be 33-16. A split of the four expected close races would throw the over-all total somewhere in between. One governor, James Longley of Maine, is an independent.

Here are the other states with governor contests this year:

Missouri: Incumbent Republican Gov. Christopher S. Bond is favored to win a second term against Joe Teasdale, a Kansas City lawyer and former prosecutor. Teasdale is blaming Bond for utility rate increases in the state, but the Democrats' party organization is in disarray.

Indiana: Republican Otis L. Bowen expects to become the state's first two-term governor since its 1851 constitution took effect. A change allows him to succeed himself, and he is the heavy favorite in both parties' polls to beat secretary of state Larry Conrad.

Arkansas: Gov. David Pryor, a Democrat, is regarded as a sure winner of a third two-year term against Leon Griffith, a Pine Bluff plumber with no political experience.

Rhode Island: A recent poll by the Gallup organization puts Democrat J. Joseph Garrahy ahead by nearly 2 to 1 over James L. Taft Jr. in one of the nation's most strongly Democratic states. Gov. Philip Noel made a run for the senate but lost his party's nomination, enabling Lt. Gov. Garrahy to bid for the top job.

Montana: Democratic Gov. Thomas L. Judge is favored over Atty. Gen. Robert Woodahl, who is presently under a contempt of court citation from the state supreme court for discussing pending cases in public. Judge points to a $50-million budget surplus accumulated during his term, but Woodahl says that means taxes were too high.

New Hampshire: Conservative Republican Meldrim Thomson is favored for a third term over Harry V. Spanos, former vice president of the state senate. Spanos is counting on a healthier-than-usual party organization and the after-effects of Jimmy Carter's long campaigning in the state, but he is apparently suffering from his refusal to pledge a veto of any state sales or income tax.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Women served the cause of the Revolution, both on the battle front and behind the lines. Besides relieving the tedium and loneliness of long marches and camp life, women performed essential tasks such as cooking, washing and mending. Their most valuable contribution may have been their influence on the soldiers' cleanliness. In a war where disease caused more deaths than battle wounds, the women "put the men upon washing their hands and faces, and keeping themselves neat and clean," The World Almanac reports.

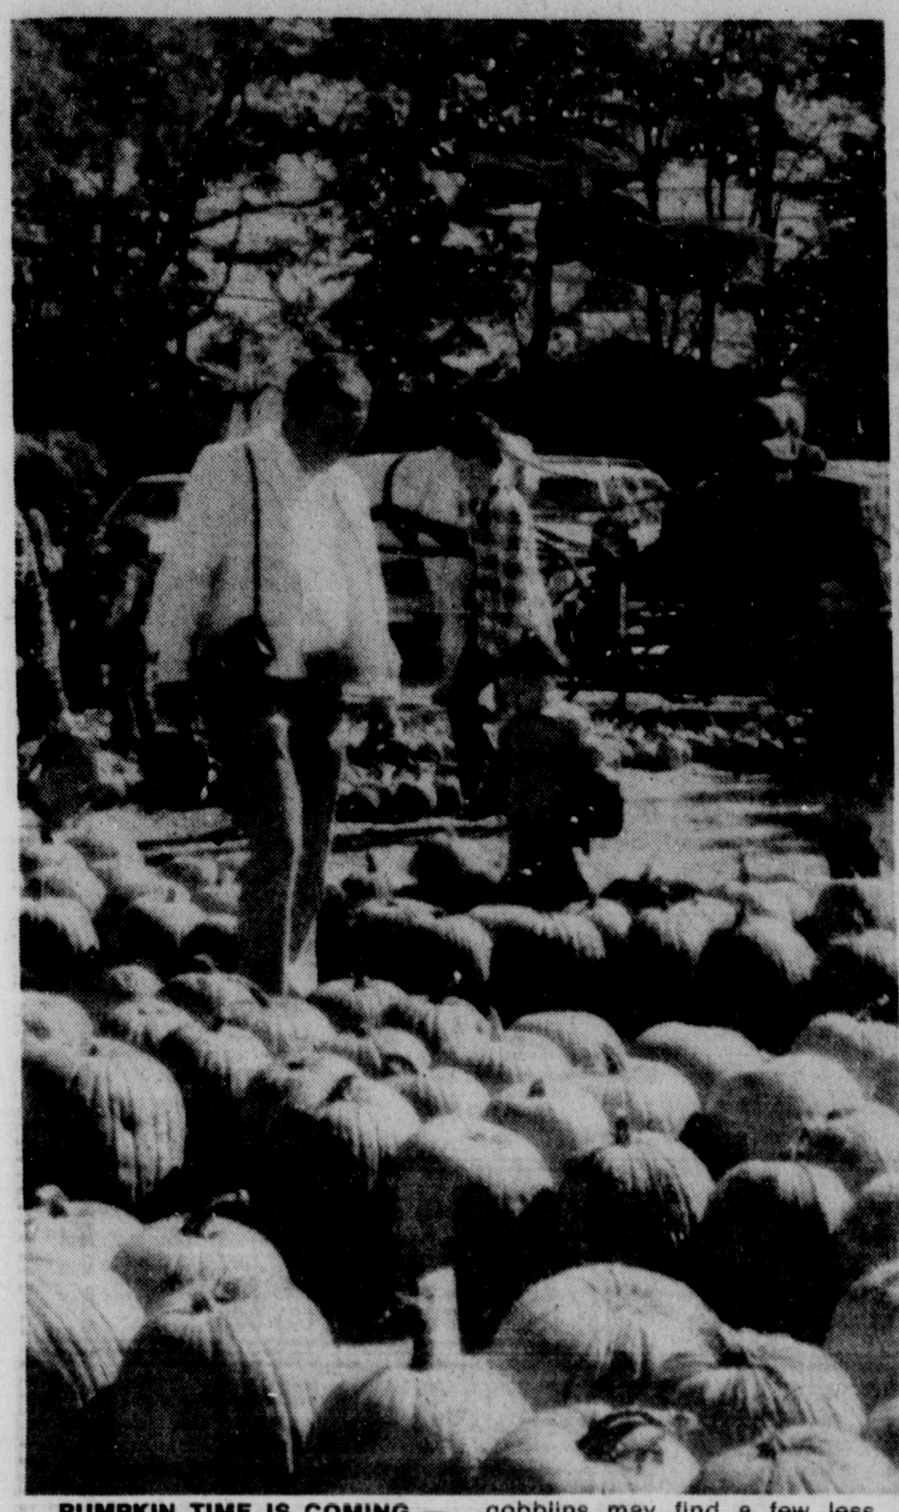
Plenty of pumpkins for lanterns



PUMPKIN TIME IS COMING — Some customers shop around through rows of bright orange pumpkins at a roadside stand on Long Island. In background on a wire is a witch with a broom catching customers' eyes. Would-be ghouls, ghosts and gobblins may find a few less pumpkins than usual in stores and roadside stands this Halloween, but a spot check shows there should still be plenty of the bright orange vegetables to carve into jack-o'-lanterns.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Would-be ghouls, ghosts and goblins may find a few less pumpkins than usual in stores and roadside stands this Halloween, but a spot check shows there should still be plenty of the bright orange vegetables to carve into jack-o'-lanterns.

There have been scattered reports from individual growers in the Midwest that this year's pumpkin supply was down. But the U.S. Department of Agriculture doesn't keep statistics on over-all pumpkin production. And one USDA spokesman noted that rumors of small crops are common just before big selling seasons.

While the federal government has no way of keeping tabs on the pumpkins that are sold at roadside stands, usually only a few miles from where they are grown, it does measure the number of pumpkins at 41 major terminal markets.

The 1976 figures are not yet complete. But a smaller crop would be a reversal of a trend. From 1974 to 1975, for example, the amount of pumpkins by weight, unloaded at the terminal markets, increased from 27.6 million to 29.8 million pounds, a boost of about 8 per cent.

(Note: these figures include only what are known as fresh market pumpkins; they do not cover the millions of pounds of pumpkins and squashes used for processing in canned and frozen foods.)

Retail prices of pumpkins vary, but they are generally higher than last year. Cost depends on size, with the big pumpkins favored for jack-o'-lanterns usually ranging in price from $2.50 to $4.50.

Checks with growers and sellers indicated that the pumpkins that are available are top quality.

"The size is excellent this year," said Gerald Huber, a Starlight, Ind., grower. "Our size over-all is probably bigger than it has been in the last five years."

Huber said, however, that the acreage devoted to pumpkins in his area has decreased as farmers turned to other, more profitable crops. "The volume is way off," he said.

John Reichert of Springfield, Ill., agreed. Reichert planted pumpkins on about four acres of land this year. He is selling most of them at his own garden market for prices ranging from 59 cents to $3.

"Pumpkins are more scarce," he said. "Not that they didn't do well. There just aren't as many. They are good in quality."

Reichert blamed dry weather during the summer for the smaller supply. He said that the pumpkins he didn't sell at his own store went to supermarkets at a wholesale price of $50 a ton, up from $40 a ton last year.

According to the USDA, Illinois is the country's largest pumpkin producer, followed by California and New Jersey. About 80 per cent of all pumpkins are sold in October.

The pumpkins are often cheapest when purchased at or near the field where they are grown.

A New Jersey farmer with a roadside stand offered customers all the small pumpkins they could carry last year for $2. In Germantown Hills, Ill., a local lumberyard simply stacks the pumpkins outside and lets people take their pick for $1. At the farmer's market near Metanora, Ill., the cheapest pumpkins are 25 cents; the most expensive are less than $1.50.

While most people think of pumpkins by the piece, David Newhouser talks about pumpkins by the ton.

Newhouser works for Libby, McNeill & Libby in Morton, Ill. The cannery — which claims to be the world's biggest pumpkin processor — has nearly 4,000 acres of pumpkin land under contract, with each acre producing 21 tons.

"We had some drought conditions that may have brought us down a little," said Newhouser. "But the quality is excellent."

Kuwaitis strangers in their own land

KUWAIT (AP) — The young Palestinian walked into an office at one of Kuwait's biggest trading companies and inquired in Arabic: "Where is Mr. Ghoneim's office please?

A blank stare was all he received in return.

He moved to another office, repeating the same question. Again, only silence from the roomful of clerks and secretaries.

Then he tried the inquiry in English and the faces lighted up. For the first time, the employes understood what he wanted. They were all Indians and Pakistanis — unable to understand Arabic.

That's the way it is in this Persian Gulf sheikdom, one of the richest and most important Arab countries. Slightly more than half the one million residents are foreigners. Thousands are not even Arabs.

The Gulf oil boom has brought foreigners flocking in to get a share of more than $8 billion a year mostly in oil revenues filling Kuwaiti government coffers and millions more spinning off in private banking and trade.

Foreigners occupy key posts in government ministries, banking and the press, leading some Kuwaitis to fear they could lose control of their own country.

The presence of so many strangers, many uneducated workers without their families, also has created social tensions in this Arab Emirate with a conservative Moslem heritage.

If a visitor stays at a Kuwaiti hotel, chances are he'll check in with a Lebanese clerk, eat food prepared by a European and served by an Egyptian, and have his room cleaned by an Indian houseboy.

The newspaper he reads will probably be edited by a Palestinian. His airplane will most likely be piloted by a Briton on a schedule set up by an American consulting firm. Even the Kuwaiti constitution was drawn up on advice from a French-trained Egyptian lawyer.

The foreigners come because nowhere in the Arab world are opportunities better for those who want to work. Kuwaitis welcome immigrants to handle menial jobs they are too well off to accept or high-technology work they don't have the skill to take over.

"I'm here like most Americans are — to make money," said computer analyst Charles Allen, 28, of Minneapolis, Minn. "The market is wide open for the kind of work I enjoy doing, and they pay you well to do it."

But, Kuwait, which affords its citizens nearly total welfare benefits, jealously guards the privileges of its nationals and protects access to Kuwaiti passports.

This has led to bitterness among some long-term foreign residents, who consider themselves lorded over by native Kuwaiti superiors only because of their nationality.

"I am surrounded by ignorance," complained a Palestinian employe whose Kuwaiti ministry chiefs handed down new orders he didn't agree with.

Only Kuwaitis can own land here. Business ventures must have at least one Kuwaiti partner. Kuwaiti children get first crack at scarce places in free government-run schools.

Citing discrimination, some foreign workers packed up and left several years ago. In response, Defense and Interior Minister Saad al-Abdullah alSabah set up a five-man committee to receive applications from non-Kuwaiti Arabs who want to become citizens.

California legislator heads drive

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Pro-casino forces are making a strong effort for the black vote and have hired a prominent black California legislator to lead the drive.

California Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, the state's most prominent black legislator, has been paid $5,000 and another $2,035 in expenses so far—and is due another $5,000 before the end of the campaign.

The Committee to Rebuild Atlantic City is paying Brown to help organize black voters in northern New Jersey cities to vote in favor of the Nov. 2 casino gambling referendum.

The pro-casino committee, made up of resort businessmen and officials, said it also has paid $4,826 to Charles Mills of the NAACP's Atlantic City branch, and $6,466 more to the branch itself, for "travel expenses" in an effort to register and organize black voters for the casino question.

The payments to Brown, Mills and the Atlantic City NAACP were noted in the committee's first official report to the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission.

A spokesman for the national NAACP was not immediately available for comment.

"This is nothing unusual for me or Willie. To our surprise, it is somewhat unusual here," said Sanford L. Weiner, the San Francisco political campaign manager hired by the pro-casino group to head its statewide drive.

"Willie's always been a great help to me in organizing the black vote in any state I've worked in. He has a tremendous amount of national prestige," Weiner said.

Brown, 42, a San Francisco attorney, is a flamboyant and outspoken leader in civil rights and black political movements across the country.

As co-chairman of California's delegation to the 1972 Democratic National Convention, he was in the spotlight during a McGovern-Humphrey fight for delegates and at one point cried out on national television "Give me back my delegation!"

Weiner said Brown is spending three or four days a week in New Jersey working on the pro-casino campaign, commuting from San Francisco. In Atlanta, he also is involved in the Jimmy Carter campaign.

Brown organized a meeting of New Jersey's black officeholders about six weeks ago to work out voter registration and get-out-the-vote drives among blacks in each county, Weiner said.

The Californian is working "basically in the black centers of the state," Weiner said, particularly in Jersey City and Newark, where he is a casino campaign liaison to Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson.

"Logically, when you count up the number of black voters of the state and realize they've been neglected, we knew we needed that kind of organization and that it would be a very strong point of the organization," Weiner said.

Atlantic City Commissioner Pierre Hollingsworth, who also is president of the resort's NAACP branch, said payments to Mills and the branch are for the state NAACP organization.

He said the pro-casino committee came to the NAACP "with the thought in mind—and it's a thing that the NAACP does with any group—that if they register a certain number of blacks. They will be able to go after that vote."

Boris Schapiro says today's hand was played in a rubber bridge game. Maybe so or maybe Boris made it up. In any event it is a beautiful hand.

South bid rather slowly because West had bid his seven-card suit and North his void. But after North went past game, South jumped to the slam.

West opened the king of hearts. The contract appears to be a hopeless one. It would have been against a club lead, but after considerable thought South found a way to bring it home.

He ruffed the heart at trick one. Then he ruffed a low diamond and played out four rounds of trumps in order to pick up the four held by East. He discarded a diamond and club from dummy on the last two.

Then he cashed his ace of hearts just in case West had opened the bidding with a four-card heart suit. Next came a successful finesse of the queen of clubs followed by the play of the ace-king and the nine of diamonds. East was in the jack. He was stuck and had to lead a club to give dummy the rest of the tricks.

Ask the Jacobys

An Illinois reader wants to know if there is any difference between a trick awarded because of a revoke and a trick taken normally. The answer is a decided "No."

As an example, let's take a four-spade contract. Declarer makes nine tricks, but an opponent has revoked. He is deemed to have made an overtrick at his four-spade contract. If declarer revoked, he is three down.

Farm labor housing backed

LIVINGSTON (AP) — A proposed farm labor housing program could help solve "critical" overcrowding, Merced County officials say.

County representatives supported the state's Farmworkers Housing Assistance Plan at a hearing held here.

The $5 million proposal, which would be financed equally by loans and state grants, envisions construction of 7,000 new homes throughout the state which farm worker families would buy during the next five years.

It also calls for 5,500 rental and cooperative units and upgrading of existing migrant labor centers.

"There's a shortage now and it will worsen," warned William Norman, county environmental health director. "The need for seasonal units is critical."

Pete Cassinerio, chairman of the county supervisors, said farm workers are in "dire need" of more housing. It was noted that Merced County officials cannot fill 500 requests for farm labor housing.

Assemblyman John Thurman, D-Modesto, said passage of Prop. 1 at the Nov. 2 general election would establish a state housing authority to provide low interest loans for low income families.

Cassinerio said federal money rather than local funds should be used to match federal grants, and Thurman contended that Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has refused to use federal money which is available for housing.

The hearing was the sixth of eight being held around the state by the State Department of Housing and Community Development.

Struggle for Israel's premiership building up

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A titanic struggle for Israel's premiership is building up between Premier Yitzhak Rabin and Defense Minister Shimon Peres.

The governing Labor party is expected to decide the outcome at a convention in February to select candidates for elections seven months later. The decision could have a far-reaching effect on future American diplomatic moves in the Middle East.

Some old-guard politicians express concern about the bitter rivalry in the Labor party. Others say they hope it heralds a long-awaited revolution in Israeli politics.

Diplomatically isolated and constantly threatened by war, Israel must stand united. But political insiders say the divisions between Peres and Rabin have become too deep to be mended before February.

Political and personal differences divide the two men.

Rabin is pro-American, a middle-of-the-roader who, during five years as ambassador to Washington, came to admire the American style and respect American might.

Peres is far more reluctant than Rabin to follow the American formula of trading captured Arab land for political treaties. Peres has always stood slightly to the right of his party's moderate line, a faithful lieutenant to Moshe Dayan, the former defense minister who now is a lone wolf in the party.

Peres has been giving tacit support to Gush Emunim, a movement of Jewish nationalists who want all captured lands annexed to Israel. Rabin says Emunim is "a threat to our democracy."

Lately Peres and Rabin have been bickering about how to handle a dispute over oil rights in the Gulf of Suez. Peres wants Israel to sort it out directly with Egypt. Rabin prefers bargaining with the Americans, who are helping Egypt drill for oil in the gulf.

Virtually every Israeli policy success — such as the rescue of hijack hostages from Entebbe airport in Uganda or agreement of the United States to major arms deals — touches off a scramble for the credit by the Rabin and Peres camps.

These disagreements are magnified by the vastly dissimilar personalities of the two men.

Rabin, 54, a former military chief of staff, is shy, yet prone to sudden bursts of temper. Political observers say his inexperience in politics hinders him in uniting his cabinet. The result, they add, has been a lackluster leadership.

Peres is a 53-year-old extrovert who writes poetry. A defense minister who never held army rank, he is regarded as an intellectual who enjoys friendly audiences and, his critics complain, the whir of television cameras.

The acrimonious, table-thumping clashes between Peres and Rabin have become almost weekly occurrences at cabinet meetings. "Invariably, a clash of personalities is at the bottom of all their arguments," says one well-placed informant.

Neither man has formally announced he will seek the premiership, but this reticence is probably due to Israel's political style of playing hard to get. Former Foreign Minister Abba Eban once said: "The cardinal sin is to display a desire to advance in politics."

Rabin has thrown out an indirect challenge by saying publicly that a minister who competes for the premiership must resign from the cabinet. Peres disputes this but dodges questions about his plans.

Peres has reason to be confident. Thirty months ago, when Golda Meir resigned as premier, Rabin only narrowly outpolled Peres for the top job at a party convention. The lack of public confidence in Rabin's cabinet boosts Peres' prospects for winning the next convention ballot.

Unless a compromise is found, the Rabin-Peres struggle could debilitate the party, which is already slipping in the polls against its traditional rival, the right-wing Likud bloc.

Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinovitch and other leaders of the party warn that unless the party closes ranks, Israel risks "losing its worker hegemony."

Likud's politicians say the feud in Labor could break the party's 28-year rule of Israel.

"The Socialists ruled Sweden for 32 years, but eventually they fell," said one Likud man. "They'll fall here too."

Blended bugs used in fight on pests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Florida peanut farmer's experience with grinding bugs in his blender may be the answer for other farmers who are unsuccessful in beating pests with chemicals, reluctant to use chemicals on food crops or just tired of paying the price for them.

A copyright article in this month's Organic Gardening and Farming magazine describes the success of Frank Batey, who got his approach from Gainesville, Fla., pest-control specialist Mike Sipe.

Sipe, in turn, had read an article outlining the process in the magazine almost four years ago, the publication said.

What Batey did was collect samples of the pests eating up his crop: cabbage looper, stink bug, army worm, velvet-bean caterpillar, granular cutworm and others. He said he then ground them up and mixed about 5 cubic centimeters of the juice with 25 gallons of water to apply to the fields with his fungicide solutions.

That works out to about four ounces of juice in 1,500 gallons of spray. A half-pound of the worms provided enough basic ingredient for a spray to cover his 74 acres.

"So effective has the method been over two years that, in 1976, his third year, he didn't even have to spray the bug juice on his fields," the article said.

Batey said that he had been spending about $2,000 a year for chemical pesticides on his land and a 39-acre section he sharecrops nearby.

In the first year of using the juice, the magazine said, Batey's average yield was about 5,300 pounds of peanuts an acre, compared to yields of 2,000 to 3,000 pounds reported by others in Alachua County.

The latest USDA crop-production report indicates that 1974 statewide peanut yields in Florida were 3,100 pounds, second only to Georgia's. This year the indicated yield in Florida is about 3,000 pounds an acre.

Sipe told the magazine he thinks three factors may be responsible for the ground-up bugs killing their uncaptured fellows:

—Some of the pests in the collected cupfuls are bound to contain viruses, bacteria, fungi and other disease organisms that could trigger an epidemic among live bugs.

—The odor of the solution, similar to the odor of a buginfested field, may attract the pest's natural enemies.

—The substances in the insects' bodies that trigger their responses to distress may be released in the blender and, in the spray, may repel the species once on the fields.

Reds get last laugh about DH rule

ANOTHER DESIGNATED HIT

Cincinnati's Dan Driessen, the National League"s first designated hitter, follows the flight of one of his three hits that helped beat the Yankees Tuesday night in New York.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The designated hitter is still a joke to baseball."

So spoke Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

He, Dan Driessen and the rest of the Reds are laughing all the way toward their second straight World Series championship.

Anderson hates the DH, an American League innovation in which a batter hits for the pitcher each time the pitcher's turn comes up.

It had never been employed in a World Series until this year, when it was foisted upon this October classic by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Driessen, the first and thus far only DH in the National League, rammed a home run and two other hits Tuesday night in firing the Reds to a 6-2 victory over the New York Yankees. Cincinnati now has a seemingly unbeatable 3-0 lead in this best-of-seven series.

The Reds can wrap it up tonight—unless Yankee righthander Ed Figueroa or the weather can slow down the careening Big Red Machine. Gary Nolan, also a righthander, will start for the Reds, bidding to become the first NL team since the 1921-22 New York Giants to win the World Series in successive years.

Rain has been forecast for tonight's fourth game. Billy Martin, the Yanks' feisty manager looking for a way to break the Reds' momentum, was asked if a delay might help achieve that end.

"Nah," he replied. "A postponement wouldn't do a thing for us now. It would've helped us before the Series began."

This series would seem to be virtually over. As Thurman Munson, the Yanks' catcher muttered: "If we've been trying to make them overconfident, we've reached our limit."

When someone pointed out that no team in the previous 72 World Series had come back from a 3-0 deficit, Martin said: "Listen, we're no quitters. I'm not a quitter and my guys aren't quitters. We've come back before and we plan to come back again. We'll be out there fighting all the way. They'll still have to beat us...But I must admit we're not in a very good position."

Beating the Yanks is all the Reds have been doing so far. They did all they had to do Tuesday night with a three-run burst in the second inning against Dock Ellis. And it was Driessen who started it all with an infield single off Ellis' glove.

He stole second and came home when George Foster pumped a one-bounce groundrule double over the right-center field fence.

Johnny Bench followed with another infield single, this one off Chris Chambliss' glove at first. Cesar Geronimo's force-out grounder scored Foster to make it 2-0. Then Geronimo swiped second and came in on Dave Concepcion's single to left

"Bloop hits, that's all we've been seeing," Martin moaned, picking up on his alibi of the first two games. "Bloopers, bloopers and more bloopers."

The next time Driessen batted he didn't exactly bloop the ball. He drove it hard and long, about 400 feet into the rightcenter field stands for a 4-0 Cincinnati lead.

Did those two diverse hits by Driessen, and the wasted two-out double he stroked in the sixth inning, change Anderson's view of the DH?

"I'm more convinced now than ever that the DH has no place in baseball," he said. "It's not right to send up a big bomber for the pitcher. It's a joke to baseball. The pitcher is a part of this game."

Then would he consider sending a pitcher to bat in view of the Reds' commanding lead? "No, we'll stay with the DH," he replied. "If that's the ground rule they want to lay down, we'll use it."

Under previous ground rules, Driessen might never have swung a bat in this World Series. Was he, then, pleased about being a DH? "In a situation like tonight, I like it," he acknowledged, "but I'd rather play."

The Yanks finally nicked winning rookie Pat Zachry for a run in the bottom of the fourth on Chambliss' single, a walk to Graig Nettles and Oscar Gamble's single to center. They sent Zachry to the showers in the seventh when Jim Mason, who had hit only one homer all season, hit another one—a line drive to right that cut the Reds' edge to 4-2.

What, Zachry was asked, had he thrown to the light-hitting Mason? "A home-run ball," he grinned. "It was a fat fastball right over the plate. The first pitch was a ball and I thought he'd be taking. He took it, all right—right out of the yard."

For Zachry, pitching in Yankee Stadium was the realization of a boyhood dream—except he was in the wrong uniform. While growing up in Waco, Tex. he'd practiced pitching in his back yard, wearing the Yankee pinstripes in those make-believe games. "And the Yanks would always win 15-0," he recalled.

How did those dreams match up against the reality?

"It was a hell of a lot noisier out there tonight. I'll tell you that," he laughed.

With Zachry out, Will McEnaney was in. He slammed the door on the Yanks with 2 1/3 innings of two-hit relief, a far cry from his generally poor showings this year. "I don't know how long it's been since I was as effective as this," he said. "I don't think I can remember that far back.

"Frankly, I surprised myself the way I threw. I kept the ball down and I kept throwing strikes," McEnaney added. "I felt great warming up—but then I always feel great warming up. Somehow I seem to leave my best pitching in the bullpen."

Grant Jackson, who had replaced Ellis in the fourth to shut down a Cincinnati threat, was sent packing by the Reds in the eighth when they tacked on their final two runs.

It was all over but the shouting—and it appears there will be none for the Yankee fans this year. There was little of it Tuesday night. Instead of the thousands who rampaged on the field last Thursday night when the AL pennant was theirs, there was one lone younster who ran onto the field in the ninth inning, shaking hands with a few of his Yankee heroes.

He was booed.

Jaworski or Haden?

Knox yet to choose a QB

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Coach Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams predicts a rugged game in New Orleans on Sunday and he still hasn't decided whether Ron Jaworski or Pat Haden will be his quarterback.

"We'll decide later in the week, after they practice," Knox said Tuesday. "It depends on their health and what the game films show."

Quarterback injuries have plagued the 4-1-1 Rams with James Harris, the regular starter, out with a shoulder injury, Jaworski coming back after breaking a shoulder on Sept. 12 and Haden suffering a concussion last Sunday.

"Changing quarterbacks so often tends to make the offense a little sporatic," Knox told newsmen. "We don't have continuity."

At the start of the season, Haden wasn't expected to see much service but the Rhodes Scholar from the University of Southern California already has started two regular season games and could start again this week.

Jaworski was rusty when he came into last Sunday's game after a five-week absence, but still managed to mount two scoring drives in the fourth quarter for a 20-12 victory over the Chicago Bears.

New Orleans, 2-4, also has quarterback problems with Archie Manning out.

Bobby Scott, in his fourth year with the club, has taken over.

Asked if changing quarterbacks often might completely jumble the offense, Knox said, "On some teams it might. We have the philosophy that each player does his job and doesn't worry about the quarterback situation."

However, the Rams' coach said his club still hadn't come up with a game with simultaneous great performances by the three units—offense, defense and special teams.

On most occasions, the defense and special teams have picked up the slack from the offense.

Asked if he were satisfied with the club's record since there had been so many injuries in the quarterback corps, the coach answered, "The only way I'd be satisfied is if we were 6-0."

Currently the Rams trail San Francisco by one-half game in the National Football Conference West.

"Playing three quarterbacks is pretty tough to do," Knox admitted. "The rhythm affects the passing game. The cadence count shouldn't be different, but the type of ball thrown is different with each quarterback."

Haden, knocked out when hit by the Bears' Wally Chambers and Waymond Bryant, will henceforth wear a different type of helmet—a type with airinflated protection. Heretofore he's worn a suspension type.

Asked if he considered putting the rookie back into the game, Knox said, "No. He didn't have recall."

If Jaworski hadn't been able to come back to action, the quarterback job would have gone to Rob Scribner, a pro allpurpose halfback who was a reserve quarterback in his collegiate days at UCLA.

Bell's Heisman hopes won't dictate offense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Robinson said he'd most certainly like to see Southern California tailback Ricky Bell win the Heisman Trophy this year. But the Trojans coach quickly added that Bell's chance at college football's top award does not dictate how USC runs its offense.

Robinson, responding Tuesday to printed allegations that Bell was carrying the ball an inordinate number of times to enhance his chances for the Heisman, said: "I've read that, but I don't really take it seriously. We take whatever the other team gives us.

"We don't put in Heisman Trophy plays for Ricky Bell. We'd play him at wide receiver if that was what it took to win, and he'd be the first one to say okay."

Bell carried 51 times, picking up 347 yards Oct. 9 against Washington State. Robinson, however, said both he and Bell were surprised late in that contest when they found out how many times he'd carried.

The Trojans, off this past weekend, fought off Washington State 23-14, and Bell, supporting his coach's philosophy of going with what's working, averaged 6.8 yards per carry against the Cougars.

"Most teams go with what's working best," Robinson said. "I know when the Pittsburgh Steelers ran Franco Harris 41 times against Cincinnati, they did it because it was working. I think carrying the ball 41 times in a pro game is rougher than carrying 51 times in a college game."

The USC coach, while readily admitting that Bell is the heart of USC's offense, still points with a certain amount of pride to the Trojans' balance.

"We're constantly trying to maintain a balanced offense," said Robinson, whose Trojans are averaging 315 yards rushing and 169 passing per game.

"I'm pleased with our eight touchdown passes. All last year USC threw only four."

Robinson said he thinks it's necessary for any team to establish its running game in order to be successful, although he added, "Hopefully Ricky won't have to carry 51 times again."

The seventh-ranked Trojans this Saturday host Oregon State, a team that shocked California 10-9 last weekend.

"Oregon State frightens us," Robinson said, adding that he wasn't shocked when the Beavers, 1-5, upset California. "They beat Cal by outplaying them," the Trojans coach said. "Defensively, Oregon State is now one of the better teams in the conference."

Robinson said his Trojans, bumps and bruises healed after their bye, are anxious to get started again.

"We had a sober beginning this season against Missouri (the lone USC loss)," he commented, "and I think we've come a long way since then. This is what we've waited for."

Night game lifts ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — The NBC television network announced that 65 million viewers watched the World Series game between the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds Sunday night.

The network said this was a 52 per cent increase over the 42.8 million who watched the second game of the 1975 World Series between the Reds and the Boston Red Sox. That game was played on a Sunday afternoon.

Walnut savoring Hacienda upset

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Sports Writer

Walnut High coach Ken Gunn has a couple things to be happy about this week.

One is his team's 21-8 upset of touted Alta Loma last Friday which put the Mustangs back in the thick of the Hacienda League pennant chase.

The other is the fact that his squad won't have to play Alta Loma again, at least not during the regular season.

"Heck no, they weren't overrated at all," the personable Mustang mentor remarked when quizzed about Alta Loma, which had entered the game with Walnut unbeaten. "They are an awfully good football team.

"We were very fortunate to recover four of their fumbles in the game, otherwise they had the edge on us. I think it was just a case of them not having played any team quite as strong as the top teams in our league. I'm sure they will be a better team for having played us, and I hope we're a better team for having beat them.

"Maybe somebody else thought they were overrated, but I sure didn't. I'm just glad we don't play them again!"

The win over the Braves had to be the biggest of the year for Gunn's young Mustangs. Walnut entered the season rated as one of the top teams in the CIF 2A division but losses to Nogales and San Dimas had dimmed its Hacienda hopes until the big victory over powerful Alta Loma came along.

"We're a relatively young club," explained Gunn, "and it is taking a while to get our kids familiar with their positions and what they are supposed to do. We just lacked experience early in the year, but with the win over Alta Loma I think we should be okay. It was a real shot in the arm for us."

Mustang running back Kevin Morgan had another big game against the rugged Brave defense, with 139 yards rushing. A.L. had allowed only 104 yards on the ground all year to all teams prior to meeting Morgan and Company.

Gunn was also very pleased with the play of senior linebacker Dirk Lindley. Lindley, the only returning Mustang starter on defense, now has 47 unassisted tackles this year, two blocked kicks, two pass interceptions, two fumble recoveries and three fumbles caused.

"Dirk is doing a super job for us," Gunn remarked. "He was kind of overlooked last year but is having an outstanding senior season."

The Mustangs, now 3-2 on the year, have what looks at first glance like a breather this week, vs. Gladstone Thursday night. However, the veteran Walnut skipper isn't buying that notion.

"Gladstone is just waiting to upset one of the big boys in our league," he notes. "They held San Dimas scoreless most of the first half last week and look mighty good doing it.

"The thing that people are overlooking about Gladstone is the fact that they have four or five very good high school linemen, in addition to a good passing attack. I'm sure they are going to beat a couple teams before the end of the year, I just hope that we're not one of them. I hope they don't catch our kids napping."

Actually, the Mustangs could really get rich this week if they can beat Gladstone and if San Dimas stumbles vs. Royal Oak.

Giant gridders show improvement

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

If scores are any indication, Ganesha High has been the most steadily improving football team in the San Antonio League.

The Giants started out with a 32-6 loss to South Hills, then ranked No. 1 and now No. 2 in the CIF 4A writers' poll. Next came a pair of close losses, 13-6 to Torrance and 21-14 to Damien in the league opener.

Ganesha then won for the first time this year, 18-14 over Claremont, and followed that effort with a 27-3 walk over Chino.

"We're getting better," said coach Garry Norvell, "especially on defense."

But Norvell's offense is doing quite a bit better too. "We started out having the ball for 36 plays (against South Hills)," he said, "and now we've got it up to 45 or 50 plays a game. And we only had one turnover against Claremont and one against Chino. We were averaging five turnovers a game (during the three losses)."

Both offensively and defensively, the Giants have benefitted from a couple of position changes Norvell has made. He took a pair of players that started the season at linebacker and moved one (Craig Parm) to fullback and the other (Nathaniel Phipps) to middle guard.

"Moving Parm to fullback meant we could use Bennie Gooden as a halfback, and that's helped us a lot," Norvell said. "Parm (5-foot-10, 180 pounds) is a better blocker than Gooden (5-10, 170) and Gooden has taken some of the pressure off Floyd Eddings."

Eddings, a 9.6 sprinter as a junior last year, has gained over 430 yards in the Giants five games. In Friday's win over Chino, Eddings rushed for 95 yards and Gooden gained 122. Each scored two touchdowns.

"Teams were just stacking up on Floyd's side," said Norvell, "but now they can't do that. I think Gooden actually starts a little quicker than Eddings. But the thing about Floyd is, once he gets wound up, you just can't stop him."

But the Giants' defensive development is what has pleased Norvell the most over the past weeks, and he gives the Lion's share of the credit to his three down linemen — tackles Charles Lundstrum and John Melton and middle guard Phipps.

"Moving Phipps to middle guard helped us a couple of ways," said Norvell. "He's a big kid (5-8, 192) and he's done a good job there. And moving he and Parm from the linebacker spots brought Mike Brown and Tony Chambers into the lineup. They're small (Brown is 5-7, 140 and Chambers is 5-7, 155) but they're fast and can cover the ground."

Norvell also likes the play of defensive ends Kevin Jones and Earl James and feels his defensive backfield "has improved about 50 per cent" since the beginning of the year.

Quarterback Joe Madrigal is developing steadily, according to Norvell. "Madrigal's improving and doing a good job of running the option and passing when he has to," said the Ganesha coach. "Other teams can't really stop our Wishbone running game and the pass both — one or the other they can stop, but if we've got both working we're in good shape."

The Giants will meet Pomona Friday at Mt. San Antonio College.

NBA full of new faces

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're one of those fans who can't tell the players without a scorecard, watch out for the upcoming pro basketball season.

Due to the demise of the American Basketball Association, more new faces than ever before will be breaking into the National Basketball Association this winter. Among the newcomers are the cream of the ABA as well as the top collegians, including many of the heros of the U.S. squad which captured the gold medal at the Montreal Olympics.

Under terms of the merger agreement, four teams were absorbed intact from the ABA, bringing the NBA roll to 22 clubs. Players from ABA teams which fell by the wayside went through a dispersal draft and were distributed among the 22 survivors.

This influx of talent from the ABA, added to the usual crop of collegians, means more new players than ever before will be wearing NBA uniforms this season.

And they'll be playing for an unusually large number of new coaches, as well. Eight teams made coaching changes during the off-season, and a ninth, Detroit, will be starting its first full season under Herb Brown.

The new coaches are Hubie Brown, Atlanta; Tates Locke, Buffalo; Ed Badger, Chicago; Tom Nissalke, Houston; Jerry West, Los Angeles; Jack Ramsay, Portland; Doug Moe, San Antonio, and Dick Motta, Washington.

The Denver Nuggets, Indiana Pacers, New York Nets and San Antonio Spurs are the four teams absorbed from the ABA into the NBA. Some players from other clubs in the defunct league were distributed throughout the NBA via a dispersal draft, while some signed on as free agents.

Others, however, are out of work—and feeling out of place.

"It'll get bad right at the height of basketball season when I'm working at some 9-to-5 job," said Jimmy Dan Conner, a rookie with the ABA Kentucky Colonels last year who was not picked up by any NBA team. "I'll miss it then."

Those more fortunate include Artis Gilmore, the top pick in the dispersal draft who has become the Chicago Bulls' starting center; center-forward Maurice Lucas, expected to strengthen Portland's front line; forward Marvin Barnes, who will give Detroit added scoring and rebounding; center Caldwell Jones, one of the better ABA pivotmen who should help the Philadelphia 76ers, and forward-center Moses Malone, picked by Portland in the dispersal draft but traded Tuesday to Buffalo.

Other ex-ABAers to find new homes include guards Mack Calvin and Don Chaney, at Los Angeles; center Mike Green, at Seattle; forward Willie Wise, at Denver, and guard Ticky Burden, with the New York Knicks.

All 17 players chosen on the first round of the college draft—the New York Knicks forfeited their pick in the abortive attempt to sign George McGinnis a year ago and the four ABA teams did not take part in the lottery—have been signed by their NBA teams, so there should be plenty of rookie talent around the league as well.

Among them are Olympians Mitch Kupchak, heir apparent to Wes Unseld at center for Washington; Adrian Dantley, the bullish Notre Dame forward expected to start for Buffalo; Scott May, the smooth cornerman from NCAA champion Indiana who will miss the early part of the season with Chicago due to mononucleosis, and Quinn Buckner, the Indiana playmaker who may be the quarterback the Milwaukee Bucks have lacked since Oscar Robertson retired.

The Midwest Division, weakest in the NBA last year, is the one most strengthened by the influx of new talent.

Denver, the class team of the ABA led by David Thompson and Bobby Jones, and Indiana, which features a brilliant forward in Billy Knight, were added to the division in their entirety.

Chicago, worst in the league with a 24-58 record last year, is looking for a quick turnaround thanks to the addition of Gilmore and May and the coaching change with Badger replacing Motta, who had a running feud with some of his players.

The 7-foot-2 Gilmore averaged 22.2 points and 17.1 rebounds per game in five ABA seasons and also is a first-rate shot-blocker, the kind of dominating center the Bulls have lacked for years. May will eventually join potent scorers Bob Love and Mickey Johnson at forward, while a rejuvenated Norm Van Lier heads a backcourt crew bolstered by high-scoring Willie Smith of Missouri.

Detroit, for years lacking in forwards, saw Curtis Rowe blossom into an all-star last year and has added the mercurial Barnes and capable M.L. Carr from the ABA. Top draft choice Leon Douglas provides insurance for center Bob Lanier's chronically ailing knees and also may see action at power forward.

Kansas City will have a new look after dealing Nate Archibald to the Nets and dropping Jimmy Walker. ABA all-stars Brian Taylor and Ron Boone will team up at guard, while big things are expected of 6-10 Richard Washington of UCLA up front.

Milwaukee won the division last year with a scrappy young team that really did not have a playmaker, and Coach Larry Costello is hoping rookie Buckner can fill the bill.

Other collegians to watch include smooth guard John Lucas, the first player taken in the draft who will share time with Mike Newlin and Calvin Murphy at Houston; forward Wally Walker of Virginia, expected to be a big scorer for Portland; center Robert Parish of Centenary and forward Sonny Parker of Texas A&M, who add depth to Golden State, and guard Ron Lee of Oregon, a fine all-around performer who should fit it well at Phoenix.

Also, guards Armond Hill of Atlanta, Chuckie Williams of Cleveland and Larry Wright of Washington; swingman Bob Wilkerson of Seattle; forwards Earl Tatum of Los Angeles, Terry Furlow of Philadelphia and Norman Cook of Boston, and center-forward Lonnie Shelton of the New York Knicks.

Tony Dorsett nears record

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Down to a walk-on quarterback, Pitt's nationally second-ranked football team naturally turned to Tony Dorsett to carry the ball—down the field and in the huddle.

Dorsett ran for 227 yards and three touchdowns Saturday in a 38-19 victory over Miami, Fla., that kept Pitt undefeated after six games, despite the loss of two veteran quarterbacks. The Heisman Trophy hopeful even helped call the plays.

"Under the circumstances, I'd say this was his greatest game ever at Pitt," said Coach John Majors of the performance that earned Dorsett the honor today as The Associated Press' Back of the Week for the second time this season.

"He might have had more yards on other days, but what he did Saturday was outstanding," said Majors.

Dorsett, averaging 145 yards per game rushing this season, has run for more than 100 yards in 14 straight games. He is 108 yards short of being the first player in the history of college football to rush for 1,000 yards in four consecutive years.

But more importantly, Dorsett is only 152 yards shy of Archie Griffin's major college rushing record of 5,177 yards. And he is 15 carries short of being the greatest collegiate workhorse.

He also is pretty good in the huddle. Dorsett overruled thirdstring, non-scholarship quarterback Tom Yewcic and called a screen pass that developed into a 40-yard touchdown run against Miami.

"We were going to run something else," said Yewcic, who replaced Bob Haygood and Matt Cavanaugh.

D.B. Kickers stay unbeaten in 3-2 win

The undefeated Diamond Bar Kickers kept their perfect record alive last week by edging the Torrance United B team, 3-2, at Claremont's El Roble Intermediate School.

Coach George Ratajczak's Kickers will visit the West Covina Royals in a 3 p.m. game Saturday at Palmview Park in West Covina.

Early goals by Paul Caligiuri and Guy Pagan gave the Kickers an early 2-0 lead. After Torrance scored, Phil Adams scored for Diamond Bar in what turned out to be the winning goal.

Ratajczak praised the defensive play of goalies David Mackenzie and David Price plus the play of Rusty Lansford, Rocky Grisp and Jeff Ratajczak.

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Funeral services have been set for Thursday for Johnny Villaflor, the longtime boxing manager and trainer who died Monday.

Villaflor, a veteran of four decades of handling fighters, died of arteriosclerosis at his home after a lengthy illness. He was 75.

Favela Chavez, the bantamweight champion in the 1940s, was perhaps the best-known fighter managed by Villaflor, and, working with promoter George Parnassus, Villaflor trained numerous champions, including Bobby Chacon, Juan Zurita and Ceferino Garcia.

Services for Villaflor will be held at Forest Lawn in Glendale. He is survived by his widow, Rita, and two daughters.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers acquired wide receiver Jim Lash from Minnesota Tuesday, sending running back Sammy Johnson to the Vikings in a National Football League trade.

49ers Coach Monte Clark said Lash, a four-year veteran, is being counted on as the replacement for injured starter Willie McGee "but it would be very difficult for him to step right in this week."

McGee, who caught four touchdown catches in the 49ers' first five games, broke his left leg in Sunday's 33-3 victory over New Orleans. He will undergo surgery Thursday and miss the rest of the season.

MEMPHIS (AP) — Memphis State Coach Richard Williamson says there appears to be no further personnel problems with his football team after 22 black players, who boycotted practice, returned for drills.

One report said the blacks did not practice Monday in support of Ralph Griffin, one of two players who quit last week.

It was reported there was a promise of money payments to Griffin's ailing mother, a promise made by persons outside the current athletic department. When the payments were not made, Griffin decided to leave the team, according to a black football player who asked not to be identified.

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Braves have acquired Moses Malone from the Portland Trail Blazers in a move expected to help the Braves' rebounding and depth.

Buffalo paid $232,000 and gave up its No. 1 pick in the 1978 National Basketball Association draft for the 6-foot-11 Malone, a forward-center now in his third pro season.

Malone, 22, passed up college to sign a seven-year contract with the Utah Stars of the old American Basketball Association, reportedly for $3 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — Forego, the two-time Horse of the Year, will not race any more in 1976 because of an ankle injury, owner Martha Gerry announced today.

This means the big gelding will miss Saturday's $300,000 added Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Quarterback Pete Tereschuk is hospitalized until Thursday and listed as a doubtful starter for San Diego State at home Saturday against Fullerton State.

SAN MATEO, Calif. — Nickels and Dimes, $12.20, posted a three-quarters of a length victory over Mystic Behavior in the feature at Bay Meadows.

'Pack posts pool triumph

Marty Jackson scored four goals to lead Claremont High's water polo team to an 8-7 win over visiting Ramona Monday afternoon.

The Wolfp

Ganesha on the upswing

(Cont. from page 21)

"We've got a real toughie this week," said Norvell. He has good reason to worry — not only do the Giants and Red Devils have a natural rivalry, but the winless and frustrated Devils are coming off three consecutive SAL losses by two points each.

"We never have what you'd call a quiet game with those guys, and this one should be a real donnybrook," Norvell said.

But while that matchup will be important in terms of rivalry and emotion, it won't be the week's most important SAL game in terms of league standings.

Undefeated Garey and defending SAL co-champion Damien will clash on the Spartan field Friday to determine sole possession of first place. Both the Vikings (4-0-1 on the year) and Spartans (4-1) have won three league games without a loss.

Friday's games

Upland at Chino, 7:30 p.m.
Claremont at Montclair, 7:30 p.m.
Garey at Damien, 7:30 p.m.
Ganesha vs. Pomona at MSAC, 7:30 p.m.

That game will match the valley's second most productive offense (Damien has scored 115 points in five games for a 23-point average) against the No. 3 defense (Garey has allowed its opponents 30 points in five games, a 7.8 average). The victor will be in the SAL driver at least temporarily, but certainly not home free as far as the league title is concerned. Recent seasons have demonstrated the low probability of an undefeated season for any SAL team, and a number of teams are sure to be breathing down the leader's neck the rest of the way.

Friday's two remaining SAL contests will send Claremont to Montclair and Upland to Chino.

The Wolfpack has bounced back from a pair of non-league losses to post a 2-1 league record, but probably won't have an easy time on the Cavalier field. The improved Cavs have already won more games than they did all last year in taking two of their first five.

Upland's appearance at Chino will bring together two teams that are desperate for a victory. The Cowboys, defending league co-champs, have lost four times since trying their initial contest of the year, while the Highlanders have just one win in five starts.

Chino has scored only 38 points and Upland 36 in five weeks, with the Scots still looking for their first extra point.

Mustangs impress

If the Saints should drop Friday's tilt, they along with Royal Oak, Walnut and either Bonita or Alta Loma would all have 3-1 Hacienda League marks. However, a San Dimas victory and a loss for Walnut would just about end the Mustangs' hopes for a second straight H.L. title.

Royal Oak 14, Ontario 2
Bonita 32, Sierra Vista 0

Thursday's games

Gladstone vs. Walnut at MSAC, 7:30 p.m.
Sierra Vista vs. Ontario at Chaffey High, 8 p.m.

Friday's games

Royal Oak vs. San Dimas at Bonita High, 8 p.m.
Bonita vs. Alta Loma at Chaffey College, 8 p.m.

Alta Loma will have to rebound from its disappointing defeat to Walnut this week, as the Braves face a Bonita team which has shown its ability to beat the best on a given night.

Actually, if someone can knock off San Dimas the league may well end up much like it did last year, when three teams tied for the top spot. It's possible that the only teams out of the running at the midway point of the loop season will be Sierra Vista and Gladstone, with even Ontario having a shot at at least a CIF playoff spot if the Jags can pull off a couple upsets in the late going.

Ontario will host Sierra Vista Thursday to round out the week's action.

Five games into the season, Walnut's Morgan is still the leading rusher in the league, with 605 yards on 108 rushes. San Dimas' Bob Pleasant is second with 518 yards on 61 attempts.

Bonita's Keith Brandt, with 22 catches good for 495 yards, is far and away the leading pass receiver in the league at the midway mark of the schedule. The Bearcats' Sanford Coggins tops the loop in total offense with 953 yards, 631 via the airways and 322 rushing.

T-T tourney goes Sunday

Eugene Wilson, a veteran of over 40 years of championship play, has been added to the list of entries for Sunday's Montclair Table Tennis Club Fall Tournament at Monte Vista School.

Wilson has won hundreds of trophies and titles and most recently placed second in the 60-and-over division at the Philadelphia Nationals in July. In 1967 he won the U.S. championship for men over 50, and other credits include two terms as president of the California Table Tennis Assoc.

Sunday's tourney will be open to the public free of charge. Call (714) 626-0124 for further tourney information.

Dryden has that shutout feeling again

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — For Ken Dryden of the Montreal Canadiens, the National Hockey League's top goaltender in two of the past four seasons, some shutouts are just not too exciting.

Dryden posted his 28th career shutout Tuesday night, a 6-0 victory over the Washington Capitals, but it was pretty much a ho-hum blanking.

"Shutting out a team like Washington doesn't give me a large charge," Dryden said of the team starting its third NHL season. "But I don't like to let in goals any time, so I'm relatively happy, and will be until I let in the next goal.

"A shutout rarely gives me an overwhelming feeling, except occasionally when the score is 1-0 or 2-0, and then largely because it was close and I was a factor in the outcome. When I'm not a factor, it has little significance."

In other games Tuesday night, goalie Gilles Meloche of Cleveland blanked Chicago 3-0 and Glenn Resch of the New York Islanders stopped Vancouver 5-1, blanking the Canucks for the final 55 minutes.

Even in a 6-5 victory by St. Louis over Boston, a goalie played a key role. Rookie Ed Staniowski replaced Ed Johnston after the Bruins took a 4-2 lead and permitted only one Boston score over the final 36 minutes.

By winning, St. Louis moved into a tie for the Smythe Division lead with Chicago, which played without Bobby Orr. The superstar defenseman was ordered to take a rest following another flare-up of soreness in his tender left knee.

Montreal's defending Stanley Cup champions extended their lead in the Norris Division, the Islanders moved ahead of Atlanta and took over first place in the Patrick Division and Boston stayed atop the Adams Division despite its loss.

The 29-year-old Dryden, who won his second Vezina Trophy for the lowest goals-against average last season, shut out Washington for the fourth time.

The reason for his lack of enthusiasm is obvious, however. The Canadiens have won 13 consecutive games over Washington, outscoring the Caps by a whopping 93-18 margin.

Washington started with a burst, taking four shots in the first 66 seconds and outshooting Montreal 14-8 in the first period. But by the end of the period, Montreal was ahead 2-0 on goals by Doug Risebrough and Jacques Lemaire.

"A team like Washington gets more encouraged the longer it stays close," Dryden said. "If they had scored early, it might have been a different game."

"We came out fired up," said Coach Tom McVie of the Caps, "but Dryden stood his ground. Then their defense took over, the forwards jumped into the holes, and the machine that they are just shifted into gear. It's an amazing team."

Barons 3, Black Hawks 0

Jim Pappin scored late in the second period, triggering Cleveland's victory over Chicago. Pappin, a long-time Chicago star, picked up his first goal of the year on a pass from Dennis Maruk.

Maruk added his fifth goal of the year plus another assist in the third period, clinching the victory.

Islanders 6, Canucks 1

Bobby Nystrom and J.P. Parise each scored two goals and Resch continued to provide strong goaltending as New York beat Vancouver. Nystrom scored two New York goals in the first period as the Islanders erased an early 1-0 Vancouver lead. Parise gave the Islanders a 3-1 advantage in the second period and capped the New York scoring with a goal late in the third period.

Resch turned back 31 shots in winning his fourth straight game. He has allowed only two goals in the four games.

Blues 6, Bruins 5

Claude Larose and Garry Unger scored 42 seconds apart in the third period, leading St. Louis over Boston. Larose collected his second goal of the game at the 8:11 mark, rapping a shot into the Boston net with Bruins goalie Gerry Cheevers sprawled in the goal crease.

Unger, scoring a goal in his fourth straight game, then fired a 15-foot backhander through Cheevers' legs, helping the Blues snap Boston's four-game winning streak.

SAL volleyball action begins

The opening of San Antonio League play highlighted Tuesday's girls volleyball action on the prep level.

In SAL varsity openers, Upland downed Montclair, 15-3, 15-11; Ganesha beat Chino, 15-9, 15-5; and Claremont bested Garey, 15-6; 15-13.

On the J.V. scene, it was Chino over Ganesha, 15-12, 15-6; Upland topping Montclair, 15-7, 15-0; and Garey over Claremont, 16-14, 15-13.

Other matches around the valley saw Bonita beat Ontario, 15-3, 15-11 and Brethren down Ontario Christian, 15-9, 15-13.

The Pomona High-Pomona Catholic match was not reported.

Top players Tuesday were Garey's Evonne Carter, who sparked her team to the win over Claremont on the J.V. level, and Bonita's Wendy Edelbrock, who did the same for the Bearkitten J.V. squad in a victory over Ontario.

Mounties to host annual C-C run

Mt. San Antonio College will be hosting its 28th annual cross country invitational meet this Friday on its Walnut course.

The event, the nation's largest cross country invite, will be conducted over two weekends this year, with the college runners meeting this Friday and the high school athletes running Saturday, Oct. 30.

More than 200 colleges and high schools have entered the meet. 65 races of 100 harriers each have been scheduled to accommodate the hundreds of runners expected.

Friday's college division should be a good preview of the upcoming state junior college finals. Entered is undefeated American River JC of Sacramento, the state's top northern CC team.

MSAC, which narrowly lost to four-time defending state titlist Grossmont last Friday, is one of the top teams to go after American River on Friday, along with Grossmont, San Diego Mesa, Fullerton, L.A. Valley, Fresno, Citrus and Chaffey.

Chaffey, the newly-crowned Mission Conference dual meet champs, could be the surprise team of the MSAC Invitational this year. The Panthers, under coach George Colbath, have assembled a strong cast of freshmen runners, including Upland's Scott McKeon, Montclair's Mike Roza and Ontario's Tim Mattison.

The host Mounties will be led by Joe Ebiner, who set a new school record for the Grossmont course with his fast 19:58 clocking last Friday.

Other Mountie harriers to watch include David Tillery, Billy Jones and Barry Boettcher, a freshman from Pomona High.

Friday's action gets underway at 12:45 p.m. The public is invited to attend and no admission will be charged.

SAL net leaders win

San Antonio League girls tennis leaders Claremont and Upland continued to win Tuesday.

The Claremont girls downed Garey 6-0 in varsity and 5-0 in J.V. action. Upland bested Montclair 6-0 on the varsity level and 5-0 in J.V.s.

The other SAL match played Tuesday saw Chino best Ganesha on both the varsity and junior varsity levels.

Claremont remains atop the SAL net standings with a perfect 6-0 mark, while Upland is 5-1.

Coggins regains scoring honors

In a continuing see-saw battle, Bonita High's Sanford Coggins has once again taken the lead from Walnut's Kevin Morgan in the Progress Bulletin's prep scoring derby.

The Bearcat quarterback scored two touchdowns Friday, giving him eight for the year. Those TDs and one two-point conversion total 50 points for Coggins.

Morgan, meanwhile, was held to a two-pointer against Alta Loma, giving him a total of 46 points on seven touchdowns and two conversion runs.

Damien's Leo Burke retained third place by scoring a TD to give him 38 points on the year and San Dimas' Bob Pleasant ran for three six-pointers against Gladstone to move into fourth place with 36.

Chaffey's Frank Fernandez and Alta Loma's Bill Pisciuneri are tied for the No. 5 spot and Ganesha's Floyd Eddings is seventh.

Alta Loma remained the leader in team scoring with 25.4 points per game but lost the lead in defense to Webb, which has surrendered just 17 points in four contests. Six teams — Alta Loma, Bonita, Chaffey, Garey, San Dimas and Walnut — are among the leaders in both offense and defense.

MSAC in top spot

The unbeaten Mt. San Antonio College football team has taken over the number one spot on the Southern California JC grid poll.

The Mounties, the only large division team in the state that's still unbeaten, nipped Grossmont 25-24 last week while previous poll leader San Diego Mesa lost to Orange Coast.

Citrus moved up to third on the poll with its 20-5 win over San Diego City College.

Quotes

"It's the first time this year we've put it all together. We finally played like the Redskins defense of the past, and that's the way it's going to be from now on." — Washington Coach George Allen after the Redskins beat Detroit 20-7.

Hoople picks Damien, A.L.

By AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Predictor

Major Hoople's Football Forecast

Egad, dear readers, this week should reap profit aplenty for local manicurists, as a raft of nail-biters loom among the valley's prep teams!

There is little doubt that the races in the San Antonio and Hacienda leagues are heating up to a boiling point, as some classic showdowns go this weekend. The SAL outcome will become a lot clearer after Friday, when league leaders Garey and Damien clash head-on at Damien. And, in the Hacienda League, no less than two titantics are on tap, Alta Loma vs. Bonita and San Dimas-Royal Oak. Jove, yet another weekend of excitement for your fearless forecaster!

After due consideration, here's the way the mighty Hoople system picks 'em: In that SAL battle, look for Damien to nose out Garey in an offensive-minded contest, 24-19, to take sole possession of first place. Alta Loma figures to rebound in H.L. activity with a hard-fought 21-16 win over Bonita, while San Dimas will stay atop the league standings with another thriller, a 21-17 victory over Royal Oak.

Other SAL games on tap Friday will feature Chino's long-awaited first win, a 14-13 squeaker over Upland, and another win for surprising Claremont, this one a 21-18 nod over Montclair.

Two Hacienda matches slated for Thursday are strictly mismatches. Walnut will bounce punchless Gladstone 30-7 while Ontario will rout pitiful Sierra Vista 27-0. Kaff-kaff, if all games were as easy to tab as those two your favorite pigskin prophet would be batting 1.000 this fall!

Moving over to the junior colleges, good news awaits all three locals. Mt. San Antonio will continue to rule the roost in the South Coast Conference with a 24-14 victory at Cerritos, and Citrus will stay atop the Mission Conference standings with a 21-10 besting of San Bernardino. To complete the sweep for the JCs, Chaffey will nab an exciting 19-17 win over visiting San Diego CC.

Our local four-year schools should also do well. Cal Poly won't have any trouble with USIU, 30-7, La Verne will start SCIAC play on the right note, 14-10 over Whittier, and Claremont-Mudd will better arch-rival Pomona-Pitzer 29-21 in a slam-bang affair.

Nationally, there are headline matchups from east to west and north to south this Saturday, and the Hoople system is equal to the task with a couple stunners for you football fanatics.

Here is how they line up starting in the east and working across the country. At Annapolis, the Navy stalwarts entertain the rugged Pitt Panthers; at Philadelphia, Penn will host Yale in an important Ivy League contest, and at Morgantown, the hometown West Virginia Mountaineers will joust with the back-on-the-track Penn State Nittany Lions.

At College Park, the Maryland Terps and the Duke Blue Devils will meet in an Atlantic Coast Conference shootout. Meanwhile, the Kentucky Wildcats and Georgia Bulldogs will chew each other up in Lexington.

Moving out to the center of the country and starting west, we have Ohio State tackling Purdue and Michigan taking on Indiana in a pair of Big Ten encounters. And in the Big 8, there's a pair of tough ones on tap as Missouri's Tigers journey to Lincoln to meet the Nebraska Cornhuskers, and long-time rivals Oklahoma and Oklahoma State get together for the 71st time on the Sooners' field in Norman.

In the Far West, in a very, very important Pacific Eight showdown, and one that will go a long way toward determining the conference Rose Bowl representative, UCLA and California will get together on the latter's field.

Here is how our scouts rate these contests. Navy is no match for Pittsburgh despite the latter's quarterback problems. Make it Pitt 35, Navy 10. We look for Yale to prevail 17-14, and for Penn State to take West Virginia 21-18.

The Maryland lads are in for a surprise as the Duke Blue Devils squeeze out a last-minute 22-17 victory. The Duke club has been getting better each week. And in another mild surprise, the Kentucky Wildcats will outlast Georgia to win, 28-25.

In the Big Ten contests, Ohio State will take Purdue 24-14, and Michigan will roll over Indiana, 42-13.

The UCLA-California donnybrook will be a classic showdown between the UCLA infantry tactics, good for approximately 380 yards per game, and the California aerial attack, good for about 250 yards each Saturday. We look for the Bruins to grind it out for a 26-18 triumph.

No talent pool of NASCAR drivers

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — What will happen to Grand National stock car racing when Richard Petty, David Pearson, Cale Yarborough, Bobby and Donnie Allison and Buddy Baker retire?

Will there be talent equal to theirs to replace them?

No, not as things stand now, contends Humpy Wheeler.

Wheeler, an officer of Charlotte Motor Speedway, is worried that the minor leagues of National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing aren't doing the job of producing talent capable of running in Grand National, the major league.

"The tremendous problem in Grand National now is that six of the seven top drivers are over 35 years old," Wheeler observed. "I'm afraid we're headed for the same situation we had in the mid-1960s when Fireball Roberts' death triggered the retirement of Junior Johnson, Freddie Lorenzen, Marvin Panch and Dick Hutcherson.

"Fortunately we had Richard Petty, Buddy Baker and a couple of others who were coming along pretty good then to take over.

"We don't have that now."

Wheeler, in a telephone interview from his North Carolina speedway said he believes the situation can be corrected by beefing up NASCAR's Late Model Sportsman division, and he is writing to NASCAR President Bill France Jr. at NASCAR headquarters here to suggest just that.

"I believe we should create a second circuit for Grand National cars called Grand Sportsman—an elite division for the sportsman drivers, using the superspeedways Grand National is running on now and the tracks that were once a part of the Grand National schedule," Wheeler explained. "We would retain the 100-mile races on short tracks and continue to expand their schedules on the big speedways."

Eventually, Wheeler would like to see every track that hosts a Grand National event required to also put on a major sportsman race.

"In football, basketball, baseball and most other sports you can practice every day," Wheeler said. "But a race driver doesn't get daily practice.

"It's very difficult to bring new people in. And sponsors aren't willing to put their money on any unproven products. That's why we have so many unsponsored cars today.

"It takes a great deal of experience and maturity to drive at a place like Daytona. Very few drivers these days have that kind of background."

He added, "Fifteen to 20 per cent of all drivers in Grand National racing today shouldn't be on the speedway."

Darrell Waltrip and Neil Bonnett, believes Wheeler, are the only true up-and-coming stars in NASCAR. Both are under 30, and should be around for quite awhile, barring unforeseen problems.

"Within a few years all the big names we know now will be retired. It's time to start thinking about that now," Wheeler noted.

WAITING ITS CHANCE — Rocket-powered SMI Motivator driven by Hal Needham will try to break world land speed record. Vehicle has been moved from Salt flats to Oregon.

De Coster gets third win in row

BUCHANAN, Mich. — Roger De Coster scored his seventeenth career Trans-AM overall victory — and third straight win this season — at the fourth round of the 1976 Series run last Sunday near Buchanan, Michigan.

De Coster went 5-3 in motos to take the OA, and was followed closely by his Suzuki Teammate Tony DiStefano who was 3-6 for second place. De Coster has now won three of the four Series events run so far and is threatening to pull decisively away from the pack in his bid for an unprecedented third straight Trans-AM Series Championship.

De Coster's GP Teammate Gerrit Wolsink — second in the overall Trans-AM standings the last three events — scored a sixth in Michigan with a 6-10 effort. Billy Grossi rounded out the Open Class for Team Suzuki with a 14-4 for eighth OA. With six events to go the Team has placed five riders in the top twelve positions on the leader board. De Coster is number one, Akira Watanabe is sixth, Grossi and Tony D are eighth and ninth, respectively, and Wolsink is currently in twelfth.

Southland racing

IRWINDALE—Fun and grudge drag racing is scheduled from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. tonight at Irwindale Raceway. A CMC motocross is on tap Friday starting at 7:30 p.m. E.T. bracket drag racing is slated Sunday beginning at 1 p.m.

CORONA — Final point races of the season will be staged Saturday night at Corona Raceway. Several drivers in each division will be battling for championships. Jack Twitchell of San Dimas leads the Figure 8 division and Pomona's Opal O'Neill is a close second to Riverside's Bev Arnold in the Powder Puff class.

SAN BERNARDINO — Football replaces auto racing this week at Orange Show Speedway in San Bernardino. Racing resumes Oct. 30.

EAST IRVINE — Fun and grudge drag racing and a CMC motocross are on the agenda for Orange County Raceway tonight. The drag racing starts at 5 p.m. and the motocross at 7 p.m. E.T. bracket drag racing is scheduled Saturday starting at 7 p.m.

GARDENA — The 10th running of the Pacific Coast Open sprint car championships will be held at Ascot Park Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights beginning at 8 p.m. each night. FEAR figure 8 100 lap open competition is scheduled Sunday starting at 7:30 p.m.

Poly women hit the road

Cal Poly's women's field hockey squad hits the road this weekend to play a pair of tough customers — Stanford and California. The Broncos meet Stanford on Friday at 2 p.m. and then move on to Berkeley for a 10 a.m. game on Saturday.

Both Stanford and Cal are "exceptionally strong teams this year" according to Poly Coach Jo Oliver. "UC Berkeley has a new coach this year (Donna Fong) and she should have a very strong squad. She and the Stanford assistant coach, Carla Sorocca, co-direct the prestigious San Jose field hockey camp every year."

The Broncos defeated Golden West College, 4-1, in last week's play. Poly also downed San Diego State by having 30 seconds more penetration time inside the Aztecs' 25-yard line. The actual goal count of the contest was 1-1. The Broncos made the week's action a complete success with a 1-0 victory over Long Beach State.

"Karen Celestino has been providing the scoring for us," said Oliver. "She had the only goal scored against Long Beach State, and that won the game for us."

"Cindy Koch (formerly of Upland High), our goal keeper, had at least 80 total shots taken at her in the three games last week and she allowed only two goals."

The Broncos who are now 2-1 in league play don't return home until next Tuesday for another league contest with Long Beach State.

Net clinic scheduled

FULLERTON — The Office of University Recreation Programs at Cal State Fullerton will be offering a special tennis clinic covering the strategy and techniques of the net game. The clinic will be held on Saturday morning from 9 a.m. to noon, on the Cal State Fullerton tennis courts.

The director of the clinic will be Dr. Ron Witchey, CSUF's men's intercollegiate tennis coach, and he will be assisted by several members of his team.

Signups will be taken in advance in the Recreation Office, Room 121, in the Physical Education Building at CSUF, or on the courts the morning of the clinic. For further information call 870-3978.

Handle With Care set a world record time of 3:01.4 in winning the one and one-half mile Hudson Valley Pace at Yonkers Raceway Aug. 21, 1976.

John Moffet sweeps field

Seven Mt. Baldy Aquatics AAU Swimmers under the tutelage of Coach Mike Sutton improved their times and finished well at the Barstow "Early Bird" meet sponsored by the Barstow Swim Association. The meet marked the first at the helm for Sutton, who is well known in local swim circles.

Outstanding for the Claremont and Upland-based team was John Moffet, 12. Swimming all A events, the Claremont youngster was clearly the class of the 11-12 year old boys as he clocked personal best times and swept the field in seven out of eight events.

The Southern Pacific AAU record appeared in jeopardy as young Moffet clocked a 1:02.8 in the 100 yard individual medley, less than half a second off the current standard; his fast 25.4 in the 50 freestyle came within 1.1 seconds of the record established by Mark Chatfield in 1966 and in danger of being shattered before the season ends.

Moffet went on to add more gold in the 200 free (2:04.4) the 100 free (56.5), 100 breast (1:09.8), 200 IM (2:18.9) and 50 butterfly (28.4), finishing with a fourth place 1:10.8 in the 100 backstroke.

Leila Fernandes, 15, swam to personal best times in all three of her entries as she garnered the gold in the A 100 breast (1:15.6) and 50 free (27.0) and finished the B 100 free in 1:02.9, good for third.

Swimming in her first AAU meet, 13-year-old Donna Sedgwick made an impressive debut in 13-14 competition as she clocked personal best times for blue ribbons in the C 100 free (1:02.8) and the B 200 IM (2:36.8). She scored with additional time drops in the B 50 free (29.0), 100 back(1:16.5) and 200 free (2:16.2), all good for second place awards.

Also dipping into AAU waters for the first time, Greg Leonard, 12, came away with second place fininshes in the B 50 back (38.2) and fly (35.1). Young Leonard swam his best time of 31.5 in B 50 free for fourth and a fifth place 1:20.9 in the 100 IM.

Jennifer Weck (age 10), competing in class A, swam personal bests in the 50 back (36.0), good for the silver medal, the 200 free (2:33.5) for fourth and the 50 free (31.7) for sixth. The Upland lass went on to place fourth in the 100 IM (1:20.6) and sixth in the 100 free (1:11.1).

Nine-year-old Steven Weck also swam his best times in the A 50 breast with 42.4 and the B 50 fly with 41.2, good for sixth and fourth places in 10 & under competition. Weck completed his schedule with a fourth-place 35.1 in the B 50 free.

Rounding out the roster for coach Sutton was Chris Ryan (10) who achieved her lifetime best in the A 50 back (38.4) and the B 100 IM (1:25.2) for sixth place.

Mt. Baldy Aquatics AAU swimmers are now preparing for the ABC meet being hosted by Riverside Aquatics on Nov. 6-7. Area swimmers interested in joining the AAU or novice programs of MBA may contact Dolores Weck (983-3430), Carolyn Easton (987-2886) or head coach Gary Troyer at Pomona College ext. 2206.

Poly poloists begin conference schedule

Cal Poly's water polo team will play its California Collegiate Athletic Association opener at home to highlight a three-game week of action for the Bronco poloists.

The Broncos (8-5) then have their first CCAA match against Cal State Los Angeles in the Cal Poly campus pool Thursday night at 7. The CSLA-Broncos encounter had to be re-scheduled from last week.

Coach Stan Jackson's crew concludes the week with a Friday afternoon game against Pepperdine University beginning at 2:30 p.m. in Malibu.

In the Broncos' only contest last week, they squeezed out a 15-14 victory over Fresno State. After a stunning seven-goal comeback by Fresno in the fourth quarter, the game was tied at 12-12 at the end of regulation time.

In the overtime period, the Broncos outscored Fresno State 3-2, with the winning goal made by Claremont's Craig Hildebrand.

"Scot Trautz (a junior goalie from Mt. Sac) played an outstanding defensive game in the second quarter (Saturday)," said Jackson. "He is a smart and capable goalie."

Sure-handed

WEST POINT (AP) — One of the best pass catchers in college football really put on a show in Army's first two home games. He's Clennie Brundige.

Against Lafayette and Holy Cross, the sure-handed flanker caught a total of 19 passes for 258 yards and two touchdowns. He led the nation's collegians by averaging 9.5 yards per catch.

Cast off for Jones

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The cast on the pitching arm of ace San Diego Padre hurler Randy Jones comes off today, but doctors remain puzzled about his ailment.

Jones underwent surgery at a Los Angeles hospital Oct. 6 after complaining of a "little throbbing" in his left arm, the one he pitches with.

Initially, there had been talk of a possible torn or detached biceps tendon, but the operation ruled that out.

"Actually what Randy has is that the nerve isn't functioning at all due to a stretch or to some abnormality which isn't quite clear," said Dr. Robert Kerlan, one of the orthopedic surgeons handling the case.

"There are all kinds of things we don't know the answer to and we don't pretend to know the answer," he said.

Evert takes on Casals tonight

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Betty Stove captured a 6-4 7-5 victory Tuesday night over Australian Wendy Turnbull in the $200,000 Inaugural women's tennis tournament singles semifinal eliminations.

In a second qualifier, Julie Anthony of Santa Monica, Calif. defeated Iris Ridel of West Germany 6-2 6-3 to become eligible for the finals, which get under way today when Chris Evert, Billie Jean King and other top female players join competition.

The tournament is sponsored by Colgate.

Stove is to meet Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia and Anthony faces Francoise Durr of Phoenix, Ariz. tonight.

But the top attractions of the night will be the matches between number one-seeded Evert, Wimbledon and U.S. Open champion, who takes on Rosie Casals, while King faces Australia's Dianne Fromholtz.

Other highlight matches today include third-seeded Martina Navratilova against Britain's Sue Barker, fourth-seeded Virginia Wade facing Mona Guerrant and Kerry Reid of Australia meeting Nancy Richey.

Competition will climax in finals Saturday, with professional and celebrity matches Sunday.

BARCELONA, Spain — Top-seeded Raul Ramirez ousted Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 6-1, 6-0 in advancing into the third round of the Godo Tennis Tournament.

Sun risks 4-0 record

The Claremont Sun (4-0) will risk its perfect record in Pop Warner football Sunday with a 2 p.m. Midget Division game against the Ontario 49ers at Pomona College's Memorial Field.

In its four wins, the Sun has outscored its opponents, 114-0.

Claremont blanked the Diamond Bar Dons, 20-0, last Sunday in rolling up 309 rushing yards on 34 plays. Dwan Franklin (6-80) and Floyd Adams (9-82) led the attack. Other runners were Jeff Jarvis, Chris Clements, Gary Williams, Trak Sims, Randy Hart, Kelly Wyatt and Joe Glenn.

Sims scored two touchdowns and Adams one. Williams kicked two extra points.

D.B. team to host dinner

The Diamond Bar Pop Warner Chiefs' team parents are planning a wine tasting party and lasagna dinner on Saturday, October 23.

The event is to be held in the La Villa Guasti Reception Center at the Brookside Winery at the intersection of Archibald Avenue and the San Bernadino Freeway.

The wine tasting party is from 7-8 p.m., with dinner following at that time. Dancing will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Cost for the entire evening is $15 per couple. Anyone interested in purchasing party tickets should call Val Stokes at 595-8980.

Ghouls, goblins, ghosts tamed by pastry treat

Progress Bulletin
Food
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, October 20, 1976

Ghouls, goblins, ghosts, and witches cast their spells upon all less frightening spirits every Halloween, as millions of people partake in this traditional holiday by carrying four leaf clovers, avoiding ladders, and preparing for the joyful onslaught of the neighbor's small-fry contingent.

Halloween was originally a Druid festival in honor of Samhain, Lord of the Dead. Its pagan origins and rites were in direct contradiction to the Christian celebration of All Hallows Eve, which was initiated much later in the fourth century. But the church chose to honor its dead on this particular day because it was already associated in the popular mind with a thronging of spirits — though, ironically, Halloween spirits have always been "at war" with the souls of the church.

Many superstitions, especially those pertaining to Halloween, are derived from what seemed more than logical to the person of the Middle Ages. Today, superstitions are more fun than fears, but some have fascinating origins that should never be forgotten.

For instance, the colors of orange and black that have come to symbolize Halloween, stand for the harvest season and for the celebration of the dead.

There are many stories as to why the number 13 has become so dreaded throughout the world. The two most acceptable are that there were 13 persons at the Last Supper (Jesus and the 12 Apostles), and that all local witches' covens have 13 members (12 witches and the Devil).

Knocking on wood is associated with the cross. Not only do many people consider knocking on wood a lucky practice, but many churches around the world cherish pieces of wood that they believe might have come from the cross of Christ or that symbolizes it.

Another lucky symbol, the four leaf clover, was said to have been taken by Eve from the Garden of Eden to always remind her of the happiness she found there.

Horseshoes are said to be lucky because it was believed that witches feared horses and a horseshoe at the door of the house would scare the witch away.

Walking under a ladder is bad luck, they say, because the ladder leaning against the wall forms a triangle, and to walk through it is a defiance of a sacred religious symbol.

The black cat is a familiar bad luck symbol and if one crosses your path on Halloween — watch out! Actually, cats were thought to be companions and familiars of witches, sometimes even transformed witches themselves. Medieval Europeans burned black cats alive on Halloween (after burning humans was outlawed) as a sign of the destruction of evil.

Lights and torches have always been burned to frighten away supernatural beings. The Jack O' Lantern, carved out of a rutabaga in Scotland and Ireland, was set on every doorstep on Halloween, its grotesque face lit by a candle, for this very reason. The legend of Jack, who outwitted the Devil once too often and was left to wander eternally between Heaven and Hell with only a coal-lit pumpkin to guide him, is a fittingly scary story for Halloween.

In the highlands, on the last day of October, the children go forth to gather dry ferns and branches for fires. The gleanings are piled on the highest spot near the house and the fire is lit. Whole districts are bathed in the glow, various households vying with one another to have the biggest blaze — thus keeping the most goblins away.

Folks have always gathered together for feasting and games on Halloween. The adults nibble on nuts and apples, traditional Halloween fare, and sip Drambuie or any of the other romantic liqueurs such as Peter Heering from Denmark, Tia Maria from the island of Jamaica or Napoleon's favorite cognac, Courvoisier. They exchange Halloween legends and stories in whispers, while the children spend the evening playing games of divination.

These games, the outcome of which predict the future, were supposed to be guided by the fairies that abound on this night. Scottish and Irish children brought them to America, where today they survive most notably in the pastime of ducking for apples. In the original game each apple was marked with the name of a playmate. The apple that one ducked out of the water foretold future marriage commitments.

Other games of divination played by European children included putting pairs of nuts named for two "lovers" on the hearth. If both burned evenly, then their union would be happy. If one or both cracked or jumped into the fire the couple would quarrel and separate. If one caught on fire and the other didn't, then one person would love madly and the other would be rejected.

A third game, often played quite seriously by girls, was to pare an apple into nine pieces while standing in front of a mirror. She would see the face of the man she would marry over her shoulder in the mirror, asking for a piece of the fruit.

A typical Halloween divination cake would have a ring, key thimble, penny and button baked into it, foretelling marriage, a journey, spinsterhood, wealth and bachelorhood for the children who found them in their slices.

"Trick-or-treat" has its origins back with the Druids, who visited farmers to collect money for the gods. If the farmer gave he would prosper; if not he would reap vengeance. Irish children would collect contributions for Muck Olla, a doubtfully existent god. In England, even today, "soulers" walk through the streets singing and begging to remember the souls in Purgatory. If you contribute they say an extra prayer for your dead relatives. Soul cakes — buns decorated with currants — fill bakers shops.

Soul cakes adapted from early English recipes make delicate party buns with a Halloween authenticity. Here is a modern version of an old Shropshire formula. Serve them hot with lambswool — a Halloween drink consisting of milk to which roasted crushed apples and an ounce of Drambuie are added — the milk for goodness, the apples for harvest, the liqueur to celebrate.

SOUL CAKES

- 6 cups sifted flour
- ½ cup butter
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 envelope active dry yeast
- ¼ cup lukewarm water
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1½ cups milk
- 3 tsp. Drambuie
- 4 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 tsp. salt
- ⅛ tsp. nutmeg

Cream butter and ½ cup sugar. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water to which a teaspoon of sugar has been added. Set aside. Scald milk and add to creamed mixture. When cool, add yeast mixture and blend thoroughly. Sift together flour, salt, spices and Drambuie and add to mixture. Knead into soft dough. Set dough to rise in a warm place in a greased, covered pan. When doubled in bulk shape into small round, oval or square buns. Brush tops with egg white. Bake at 400 degrees F for 15 minutes, then drop to 350 degrees F and bake until brown. (18-24 cakes)

BEANS OF THE DEAD

A gruesome appellation perhaps, but popular in many countries and a perfect "trick-or-treat" offering.

- 1/3 cup sugar
- 3 tbs. butter
- ½ cup finely ground almonds
- Orange and black food coloring
- 1 egg
- 2 tbs. flour
- 1 tbs. grated lemon rind

Combine sugar, butter and almonds. Beat egg and add, mixing thoroughly. Add flour, lemon rind and food coloring, orange to half the mixture, black to the other half. Work dough until smooth and make into two rolls about 1½ inch in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and refrigerate two to three hours. Then cut off bits of the dough and mold into 1-inch bean shapes. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 350 degrees F, 15 to 20 minutes. Cool five minutes. (24 beans)

Orange-Walnut Toast

A tea-time treat for long fall and winter afternoons. Combine 1 teaspoon grated orange peel, ¼ cup orange juice and ½ cup granulated sugar. Remove crusts from 6 slices of bread; toast. While hot, spread toast with butter. Cover with orange mixture and sprinkle with 1/3 cup of finely chopped, toasted California walnuts. Broil until tops are lightly browned. Wonderful citrus flavor combined with the mellow flavor of walnuts makes this a savory refreshment.

The little baked beans with big ideas. Burbank.

The twist off cap makes it easier to get to the great tasting beans inside. It also makes the jar resealable — and reuseable. Handy for eat-and-runners.

Burbank wants you to see how rich and thick our sauce is, so we put our beans in a brown glass jar. It looks like a bean crock.

Burbank uses only first quality small white beans. Because they're little, they're a little more tender than some other brands.

Then we use our special recipe and bake them in real brick ovens. All natural appetizing ingredients.

Burbank Brown Crock New England Style Baked Beans aren't the best known baked beans —yet. But you and your family just might say they're the best-baked beans you've ever tasted. That's the big idea.

Health food buffs tout artichokes, yogurt mix

Health foods aficianados are not the only ones to recognize the value of yogurt as a flavorful cooking ingredient. Good cooks everywhere are using it more and more for its tart flavor and creaminess. If weight watching is a factor, low calorie yogurt can be used.

When artichokes, those fun-to-eat vegetables from California, are on the menu, either of these two new yogurt sauces will be a delicious dipping accompaniment. It's easy to be creative with artichokes since they fit in as an appetizer, first course or vegetable, and are available year 'round. With so many possible variations in preparation and serving, they can become a family standby, as well as an elegant addition to that file of "company coming" special recipes.

When cooking artichokes, be imaginative. In addition to salt, lemon juice and oil (basic artichoke cooking directions follow), add one or more of the following to the cooking water for extra flavor: a little celery, leaves and all; a few onion slices; 1 or 2 cloves minced garlic; cracked red pepper; seasoned salt; herbs such as oregano, basil, dill weed.

Basic directions for cooking artichokes:

Wash artichokes. Cut off stems at base and remove small bottom leaves. If desired, trim tips of leaves and cut off about 1 inch from top of artichokes. Stand artichokes upright in deep saucepan large enough to hold snugly. Add ¼ teaspoon salt for each artichoke and 2 to 3 inches boiling water. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Cover and boil gently 30 to 45 minutes or until base can be pierced easily with fork. (Add a little more boiling water if needed.) Gently spread leaves and remove choke (thistle portion) from center of artichokes with metal spoon. Turn artichokes upside down to drain.

ARTICHOKES WITH YOGURT TARTAR SAUCE

- ½ cup low calorie yogurt
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 2 to 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons pickle relish, drained
- 4 medium artichokes, prepared as directed

Blend all ingredients except artichokes in small bowl; chill at least one hour. At serving time, spoon sauce into artichokes.

ARTICHOKES WITH HERBED YOGURT DRESSING

- 1 cup low calorie yogurt
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
- ½ teaspoon dried dill weed
- ½ teaspoon marjoram leaves
- ½ teaspoon oregano leaves
- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 4 medium artichokes, prepared as directed and chilled

Blend all ingredients except artichokes together in small bowl; chill at least one hour. At serving time, spoon sauce into artichokes.

TIC-TAC-TOE PIZZA

More treat than trick

'Tic-tac-toe' pizza makes haunting treat

Halloween has become a children's holiday. They are entranced with "trick or treat," dressing up in spooky costumes, and, more recently, with the popular store window painting contests held in many communities. But, best of all, kids love a Halloween party and its goodies.

As a special treat, the Lipton Kitchens have come up with a deliciously original Tic-Tac-Toe Pizza as the main attraction on the Halloween menu. Inspired by the game children have played for so long that designs for it are found in ancient Greek and Roman pavements, this pizza is bound to be the hit of the party.

Making the pizza has been reduced to the fewest, simplest steps. The dough, for instance, is made from hot roll mix. The pizza sauce is cleverly flavored with onion-mushroom mix. It is combined, right from the envelope, with tomato sauce, then added to browned meat. The tasty onion and mushroom bits in the mix, together with its built-in complement of seasonings, flavors the dish perfectly, all in one fell swoop.

To decorate, use thinly sliced pepperoni for the lines, and green pepper strips and tomato slices for the "X's" and "O's" so essential to the game.

With it, serve a refreshing tea punch that might be ladled out of a deep bowl concealed in a large plastic pumpkin.

TIC-TAC-TOE PIZZA

- 1 package (13¾ oz.) hot roll mix
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 envelope Lipton Onion-Mushroom mix
- 1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- 1½ cups shredded mozzarella cheese (about 6 oz.)
- Pepperoni, cooked sausage, or cooked meatballs, thinly sliced
- Green pepper strips
- Tomato slices

Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

Prepare hot roll mix according to package directions for pizza dough. With greased fingers, pat dough into greased jelly roll pan (15½" x 10½" x 1") forming ½ inch sides; bake 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, in large skillet, brown ground beef; drain. Stir in onion-mushroom mix, tomato sauce, and oregano; simmer covered 10 minutes. Spread mixture on crust; sprinkle with cheese. Use pepperoni to form tic-tac-toe board and green pepper and tomato for "X" and "O". Bake 10 minutes. Makes about 12 servings.

*Generic Term: 1 envelope onion-mushroom mix

Delight for youngsters

Culinary trick tip: 'Meatloaf-O-Lantern'

On Halloween, you've got to reach deep into your bag of culinary tricks to get a decent meal down the little ones. Here are two super ideas from the Test Kitchens of The R.T. French Company in Rochester, New York that will both nourish and delight your youngsters.

Idea No. 1 . . . Meatloaf-O-Lantern, a quick cooking meatloaf with a grinning pumpkin face. The surface of the face is easily made with instant mashed potatoes and shredded cheese. A bit of piniento makes a fine mouth and pieces of green pepper create the twinkling eyes and the stalk.

Idea No. 2 . . . Happy Apple Salad, made extra nutritious with carrots and raisins. A dressing boasting both peanut butter and prepared yellow mustard makes it super cool!

Round out your meal with milk and cookies any your youngsters will be well fortified to begin their ghostly chores.

Roasting

A 4-pound roasting chicken, baked whole in a 375-degree oven, will need about 2 hours of cooking.

MEATLOAF-O-LANTERN

- 1 egg
- ½ cup tomato juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 envelope (5 servings) French's Idaho Mashed Potato granules
- ½ cup shredded american or cheddar cheese
- Green pepper and piniento for garnish

Combine egg, tomato juice, salt, bread crumbs, and beef; mix lightly. Pack lightly into 9 or 10-inch cake pan or shallow casserole. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Prepare potatoes following directions on package; stir in cheese. Spread over top of meatloaf. Arrange pieces of green pepper for "eyes" and "stem", and piniento for "mouth." Bake 5 to 10 minutes longer, just until hot. 5 to 6 servings.

HAPPY APPLE SALAD

- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons French's prepared Yellow Mustard
- 2 tablespoons peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 4 to 6 apples, diced
- 1 carrot, shredded
- ½ cup raisins
- lettuce

Stir together mayonnaise, mustard, peanut butter, and honey until smooth. Combine apples, carrots, and raisins; add dressing and toss lightly. Serve on lettuce. 5 to 6 servings.

POLYNESIAN BEEF SLICES

Chuck wagon stew makes way for Polynesian beef

Remember the old cowboy cook with his chuck wagon stew? Translated into modern day living, that's a picnic served from the family station wagon — possibly before the big Saturday afternoon football game.

Instead of the cowboy's stew and biscuits, the modern hostess can choose from the thousands of offerings in the supermarket to come up with her choice of fare. Try Polynesian Beef slices, layered in super fresh sesame seed buns for your famished fans — or serve open-face for dieters in the crowd.

Surround the beef with a superb relish tray, with fruit and cheese for dessert and a sweet ending of petits fours or Toffee Squares. It's a menu that is hearty without leaving your diners feeling stuffed.

The key to any memorable meal is the freshness of the food, kept that way with plastic wrap. Foods should be wrapped separately to keep all of the flavor and moisture inside. An added bonus is the see-through quality that lets you set up the picnic without unwrapping until ready to serve.

For the beef slices, buy a good quality chuck, tenderloin or sirloin. Be sure it is thick enough to make nice sandwich slices. Tenderize the meat. Slice all of the meats diagonally into ¼-inch slices. Marinate in soy sauce, honey and sherry as directed in the accompanying recipe. Then braise until meat is barely tender, using a little of the marinade as the liquid. Avoid overcooking because meat slices are thin and too much heat will make them dry and tough. Thread the cooked meat slices on individual skewers for easy serving. This can all be done at home in the comfort of your own kitchen and at your leisure, then served just before the game.

Spread sandwich buns lightly with butter and mustard and keep very fresh in a wrapping of Saran Wrap. More than one good sandwich filling has been ruined with stale buns!

Arrange the relish tray with an eye to beauty and flavor. For an exotic touch, start with finger-size ears of cocktail corn to be nibbled cob and all. Cute? Sure, but delicious, too.

Add cherry tomatoes, sweet gherkin pickles, cauliflowerettes, carrot sticks and perhaps some pickled mushrooms. Center the platter with a sour cream dip of you choose. This can all be arranged at home, then tightly covered with wrap to keep relishes in place and the flavor sealed in.

Move on to fresh fruit and cheese. Apples, pears and green grapes make a good combination with Bel Paese, Gruyere or Edam cheeses. Wrap cheeses individually in Saran Wrap to avoid mingling flavors.

Finish off with petits fours or our Toffee Squares.

To wipe sticky fingers, borrow a technique from the Japanese and pass around wet wash cloths which have been wrung out then rolled up like fat egg rolls. Take advantage of Saran Wrap to keep these moist and ready to use.

Cowboys and chuck wagons may have their place in folklore, but most of us prefer foods kept fresh and flavorful with modern technology.

POLYNESIAN MARINADE

1 cup soy sauce
½ cup sherry
1/3 cup honey
1 clove garlic, minced

Combine ingredients; mix well. Pour over beef slices and let stand about 2 hours, stirring occasionally. Drain meat. Brown meat lightly, then add about ¼ cup marinade; cover skillet and simmer until meat is barely tender.

TOFFEE SQUARES
(Makes about 6 dozen squares)

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
1 egg yolk
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. salt
3 to 4 milk chocolate bars (about 1 oz. each)
¾ cup chopped nuts

Mix butter, sugar, egg yolk and vanilla. Stir in flour and salt and mix until dough is well blended. Spread in a rectangle about 13 x 10 inches on greased baking sheet, leaving about 1 inch all around edge of baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until nicely browned. Crust will still be soft.

Remove from oven. Immediately place separated squares of chocolate on top. Let stand until soft; spread evenly over entire surface. Sprinkle with nuts. Cut in small squares while warm.

At N.Y. State fair

Melting pot produces 'Celebration Caviar'

America's melting pot was the theme of food demonstrations at the annual New York State Fair, this year, where menus reflecting our culinary heritage were prepared for hundreds of adventurous food lovers.

Among the dishes created especially for the occasion and demonstrated by noted cookbook author, Helen Worth, were Celebration Caviar served with Nikolai In Ice, Chocolate-Amaretto Frost Cookies and Midas Oranges, 'gilded' with Myers's Jamaica Rum.

Celebration Caviar

Guest help themselves to caviar and toast the host with vodka encased in ice and poured into tiny glasses.

1 tablespoon instant minced onion
6 tablespoons sweet butter, creamed melba toast rounds
juice of 1 lemon
1 jar (6 oz.) red or black caviar

Soak onion in lemon juice about 15 minutes, or until juice is completely absorbed. Blend into creamed butter gradually, until it is sharply-flavored. Spoon into bowl and refrigerate about 2 hours to develope flavors. Serve at room temperature. Mixture keeps almost indefinitely and may be frozen. Makes 12 servings. To Serve: Center bowl of lemon-butter on round plate and circle it with toast rounds. Serve caviar separately, preferably encasing the bowl in ice.

Chocolate-Amaretto Frost Cookies

Don't limit this sexy Italian frosting to cookies.

½ cup Betty Crocker ready-to-spread vanilla frosting
¼ teaspoon salt
butter cookies
2 teaspoons Leroux Chocolate-Amaretto Liqueur (almond flavored liqueur enhanced with a hint of chocolate)
½ cup almonds, diced or sliced

Blend liqueur into frosting and add salt. Frost cookies and top with almonds, pressing them gently into icing before it hardens. This amount frosts at least a dozen cookies.

Midas Oranges

Any fruit of the season may accompany the oranges. The orange slices and syrup also make a good addition to a punch or to a Sangria.

3 cups water
2 cups sugar
4 medium-size navel oranges
¾ cups Myers's Jamaica rum
6 whole cloves, divided

Place in skillet, water, sugar, ½ cup rum and cloves. Bring to boil stirring only until sugar dissolves. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Cut oranges into ¼-inch slices and discard thick ends. Add slices to simmered syrup-mixture. Cover, and simmer until orange rind softens, about 15 minutes. Remove from heat, add remaining rum and chill. Keeps at least 5 days in refrigerator.

To Serve: For individual serving, circle about 4 orange slices around outer rim of plate. Add an inner circle of 2 sliced bananas and pile stemmed, seedless grapes in center. Spoon syrup over all the fruits. Approximately 1 orange, a half-banana, and ¼ cup seedless grapes make a serving.

Lunar presence flavors feast

By AILEEN CLAIRE
Food Editor

The harvest holiday period for the Chinese traditionally begins with the grand appearance of the first full moon of autumn. It combines the theme of romance inspired by lunar presence and one of thanksgiving for fall's bounty.

Fall also is harvest time in America and a time of feasting to celebrate. This fall, in addition to the typically American harvest dishes, why not try something different with an Oriental emphasis? This may include circular flat cakes, delicate soups, plump fruits and fresh vegetables for your Moon Festival dinner.

As an entree start with a harvest pepper steak which really is a quick stir-fried dish based upon a pepper steak mix. With this serve fresh zucchini, a Moon Goddess salad of fresh tomato slices and crisp white water chestnuts. Wind up with cupcakes with a yellow icing and crisp American Golden Delicious apples and tea, of course.

Cut ends from zucchini. Then cut into strips 2 inches long and one-fourth inch wide; set aside.

In wok or large skillet, heat 1 tablespoon of the oil with the garlic. Add beef and stir-fry until meat loses its red color, 4 to 5 minutes. Remove to bowl. To wok or skillet, add remaining oil. Add zucchini. Stir-fry until tender-crisp, 2 to 3 minutes. Add water, wine and sauce mix from box. Bring to boiling, stirring constantly. Add drained pepper steak, vegetables and meat. Mix thoroughly and heat through. Serve with soy sauce. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Arrange tomato slices in ring around edge of plate. Place water chestnuts in center. Mix remaining ingredients. Pour over tomatoes, cover and refrigerate until serving time.

Makes 6 servings.

Snack pizza

Savory snack pizzas coming right up! Simply flatten enriched refrigerator biscuits and top with sauce, cheese and your favorite pizza ingredients — mushrooms, green pepper, sausage or pepperoni. Pop them into a hot oven 400 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. In no time, you've fixed a quick and easy snack. Be prepared — you may have to make another batch.

Culinary open season set: quick-freeze hunting bounty

By GAYNOR MADDOX

This is the open season for hunting in many states. That means that deer, moose, wild boar, wild rabbit and squirrel will be plunked on the back doorsteps of the lucky shots and that of their friends.

Many a housewife must decide what to do. Should she can that hunter's loot and put it down for winter? A thrifty thought. But not entirely practical.

"Canning of meat should be left to the particularly skilled woman only. For the beginner, it may be fraught with danger. The ordinary canning equipment won't do. It cannot generate enough heat to destroy all threats of botulism. Meats being canned, because they are low acid foods, must be processed in a steam pressure cooker. That is vitally important," explains Mary Lou Williamson, head home economist at the Ball Corporation in Muncie, Indiana.

"For the inexperienced first-time meat canner, I recommend quick freezing instead. No danger and far less work," adds Miss Williamson, who is a specialist in canning techniques.

This is also the time when women begin to think of things to make as Christmas presents.

"The best fruits available this late in the season are apples, pears and, probably, plums. Put up in beautiful jars they will make ideal Christmas gifts," she explains. "They can all be processed in a waterbath. They combine simplicity of preparation, attractiveness and taste of the product.

"Why women should go to the trouble of putting up their own jams and jellies when the market offers the same thing?" she asks. "First, doing so seems to answer some inner urge. Second, often the homemade product is superior to the commercial one, but certainly not always. Women have been canning for a long time. But many technical and taste changes have taken place recently. Follow today's knowledge."

Here is a home canning recipe for pears that makes a good gift for men or women.

BRANDIED PEARS

Pare five pounds of ripe but entirely unblemished pears. Split and remove cores. In the meantime, make a syrup with three pounds of sugar and four cups water. Cook the pears in the syrup a layer at a time, until just tender — about five minutes. Lift out, cool slightly and pack in jars. Cook the syrup about 15 minutes longer or until thickened. Add two cups brandy and pour liquid over the fruit. Allow headspace of one-fourth inch. Use white brandy (Kirsch) if you wish white-looking pears.

Vegetable crepes accent Thanksgiving feast

Roasting a big turkey and preparing all the "fixings" for the feast may be the most mighty cooking effort of your year . . . especially if it's time for the clan to come to your house. It's effort with built in rewards, though.

There's the heart warming joy of a family gathered together and their genuine appreciation of good home cooking. Afterwards, if you've played it smart and roasted a bird of ample size, there'll be the bonus of leftover turkey. Now's the time to clip recipes for flavorful dishes using the cooked turkey. Here are three . . . each different and each one you'll be proud to serve.

Turkey-Vegetable Crepes is great for lunch or supper. Make the crepes in one of the new crepe pans or in a regular crepe pan following recipe here. Curried Turkey is a mild curried dish. Then, of course, there is turkey soup using the carcass. This one is hearty, seasoned right and thickened for good spooning consistency with corn starch. Corn starch is the magic ingredient that gives creamy consistency to the turkey-vegetable filling for the crepes and clear translucence and delicate thickening to the curry sauce, too. All three recipes are from the Kingsford's kitchens at Best Foods.

And, when you're thinking of making the most of the turkey, don't forget the importance of making plenty of gravy. You'll want enough for generous servings at the big dinner and plenty more for hot turkey sandwiches or other good turkey dishes to come.

To be sure of getting all the flavor into the gravy, make a stock the day before from the neck and giblets. For 6 to 7 cups turkey stock, use 2 quarts of water, To this add a bouillon cube, a teaspoon of salt, and a few peppercorns, a bay leaf, an onion or two and some sliced carrots and celery. Add neck and giblets. Simmer 1 to 2 hours until meat is tender. (Remove the liver after 10 to 20 minutes. Use in gravy or as desired.) When cool enough to handle, chop giblets and remove neck meat from bones. Strain stock. Refrigerate stock and chopped giblets in separate covered containers.

For the best possible gravy, start it right in the pan in which the turkey was roasted so that you can stir all the flavor richness of the browned particles in the pan into the gravy.

When the turkey is done, remove it and the rack from pan and pour off fat drippings into a measuring cup. To make about 8 cups of gravy, return cup fat drippings to pan, add 6 to 7 cups turkey stock and the chopped giblets. Cook over medium heat, stirring and scraping bottom of pan with edge of spoon to loosen all browned bits. Remove from heat, and, if desired, pour into a saucepan to finish gravy. In a small bowl, stir ½ cup corn starch and 1 cup cold water until smooth. While stirring constantly, slowly pour corn starch-water mixture into liquid in pan. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Taste. Add salt and pepper if needed. Let gravy simmer a few minutes to blend flavors.

Turkey Vegetable Crepes

6 tablespoons margarine
1 cup thinly sliced green pepper
1 package (10 oz) frozen peas and carrots
2 cups diced cooked turkey
3 tablespoons corn starch
1 cup milk
1 cup chicken bouillon
1¼ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon dried thyme leaves
1½ cups orange juice
½ cup slivered blanched almonds
½ cup raisins
¼ cup chopped chutney
2 cups cubed cooked turkey
1 can (11 oz) mandarin orange sections, undrained

In medium saucepan stir together corn starch, salt, curry powder, cinnamon, pepper and thyme. Gradually stir in orange juice until smooth. Stir in almonds, raisins and chutney. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Add turkey and orange sections with liquid. Cook, covered, over low heat 15 minutes, or until flavors are blended. Serve over rice.

Savory Turkey Soup

1 10 to 12 pound carcass from cooked turkey
Water
1 stalk celery, quartered
2 carrots, sliced
1 large onion, quartered
2 tablespoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dried thyme leaves
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2/3 cup corn starch
½ cup water

In large kettle cover carcass with water. Add celery, carrots, onion, salt, pepper and thyme. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer covered 2 hours. Strain; return broth, turkey meat and carrots to kettle. Add parsley. Stir together corn starch and ½ cup water until smooth. Stir into broth. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Makes about 10 cups.

Note: For larger or smaller turkey carcass use water to cover and salt to taste. Measure strained broth and use 1 tablespoon corn starch per cup of broth.

Mealtime football quickies

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Fall and football are a favorite American pairing. It's a time when weekend cooks find themselves sandwiching mealtime preparations between halves. In some families, serving of meals is keyed to the timing of favorite games being shown on TV. Special after-game entertaining also fits into a ritual as winners and losers wend their weary way home after time in the grandstands.

Appease hearty appetites with tasty grilled chicken and pork chops served with kraut relish, baked potatoes, a fruit salad and perhaps a wedge of a fresh pumpkin pie. For a different kraut dish include chopped fresh zucchini, mushrooms, onion and pimiento. Allow the combination to marry well by chilling for at least two hours or overnight.

Drain sauerkraut reserving 1 and one-half cups kraut liquid. Set kraut aside.

For Marinade: In large shallow dish, combine kraut liquid and remaining ingredients for marinade; stir until well mixed. Add chicken and pork chops; turn to coat well. Cover and chill at least 2 hours or overnight.

For Relish: In large bowl, combine reserved kraut and all relish ingredients. Toss to mix well. Cover and chill at least 2 hours or overnight.

To Grill: Remove chicken and chops from marinade. Place on grill over medium hot coals about 5-inches from heat source. Grill, brushing frequently with marinade, about 40 to 45 minutes for chicken and 25 to 30 minutes for chops or until well done.

To serve: Toss relish and serve with chicken and chops. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Combine all ingredients except pimiento in large saucepan. Simmer, covered, about 20 minutes. Add pimiento, toss and chill for at least 4 hours before serving. Makes 6 servings, about 2 and one-half cups.

Freezing

You can freezer-store those fruit and nut quick-bread loaves for two or three months. Thaw the loaves in their wrapping at room temperature

Good allies: green beans and apples

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press
Food Editor

There's a delicious sweet-and-sour dish made with green beans and green apples. Favored by European cooks, in our opinion it should be better known on American tables.

We first tasted it about a dozen years ago at a supper given by an English friend. She told us it was her Dutch mother's recipe. Recently another friend who learned to cook from her Viennese mother gave us a similar recipe; hers adds onion to the bean and apple combination. After trying this version, we think it's as interesting as the Dutch recipe and are happy to pass it along.

APPLE SNAP BEANS

1 pound snap beans, tipped and cut into 1-inch lengths
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion, chopped medium-fine
2 medium green apples, pared and coarsely chopped
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 and 1-3rd cups clear fat-free chicken broth
Salt to taste

Boil beans, covered, in a small amount of salted water until just tender-crisp — 7 to 10 minutes; drain. In a 10-inch skillet melt the butter; add onion and apple and cook gently, stirring often, until onion is softened and apple is cooked through — about 10 minutes. (The apple will probably be "mushy.") Stir in the flour; add the sugar and vinegar; gradually stir in the chicken broth; stir constantly over gentle heat until thickened and bubbling. Stir in beans and reheat, adding salt. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If you haven't homemade chicken broth to use in this recipe, you may substitute 1½ teaspoons chicken bouillon granules dissolved in 1 and 1-3rds cup water.

Double duty

SELECT A BEEF CUT FOR DOUBLE DUTY to save time and energy advise consumer information specialists from the California Beef Council. A chuck roast, for instance, can be divided into a steak for tonight's dinner and lean beef cubes for tomorrow's saute or stew. Steaks may also be sliced off a good sized cross rib and the remainder cooked as an oven roast.

Fish snacks meet entertainment needs

The season is merry, the holly and mistletoe are in place, and it's time to entertain. In spite of today's high food prices, smart young hosts and hostesses take entertaining in stride. They know that friends have more fun when the get-together is casual and the hospitality is warm. They are also aware that if the refreshments are tasty they don't necessarily have to be expensive. You can be creative and take entertaining in stride too with quick-to-fix, in-the-freezer fishery products.

Almost everyone enjoys fish sticks in satisfying sandwiches or as a hurry-up entree, but did you know that these versatile products also shine as nautical nibbles? That's right, fish sticks are easily transformed into delightful hors d'oeuvres with just a little imagination and know-how. The two variations of nautical nibbles listed below are easy to prepare and sure to make a hit with your guests. "Nor'East Nibbles" and "Nor'West Nibbles" are great to eat whether enjoyed as nibbles or as the appetizer prologue to a dinner party. Try these nibbles soon, you'll see how fish sticks can perform in the help-the-host-and hostess department.

NOR'EAST NIBBLES

¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Sea Sauce (recipe follows)

Cut frozen fish sticks into thirds. Roll each piece in cheese. Melt butter in a shallow baking pan, 15 by 10 by 1 inch. Place fish in pan. Bake in a very hot oven, 450 degree F., for 8 to 10 minutes. Turn carefully.

Bake 8 to 10 minutes longer or until crisp and brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with hot Sea Sauce. Makes 24 hors d'oeuvres.

NOR'WEST NIBBLES

8 frozen fried fish sticks
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup grated Cheddar cheese
Sliced stuffed olives or Pimiento stars or diamonds for garnishing
Sea Sauce (recipe follows)

Cut frozen fish sticks into thirds. Melt butter or margarine in a baking pan, 15 by 10 by 1 inch, in very hot oven, 450 degree F. Place fish in pan; turn carefully to coat with butter or margarine. Bake in oven 8 to 10 minutes or until crisp and brown; turn carefully, bake 6 to 8 minutes longer or until crisp and brown. Sprinkle tops with Cheddar cheese; return to oven until cheese melts.. Top each nibble with a slice of stuffed olive or a pimiento star or diamond. Serve with hot Sea Sauce. Makes 24 hors d'oeuvres.

Sea Sauce

1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
¼ cup chili sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon thyme
⅛ teaspoon sugar
Dash basil

Combine all ingredients. Simmer 10 to 12 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Makes approximately 1 cup sauce.

Vegetables 'recycled' in peanut butter

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

There are many ways to "recycle" leftover vegetables other than reheating them. You can make thrifty and nutritious use of such things as peas, green beans or spinach by combining them with mashed or riced potatoes, chopped onion and celery.

In a skillet heat butter and saute onion and celery until tender, about 5 minutes. Pour into a bowl with drippings. Stir in peanut butter, potatoes, egg and vegetables. Stir until well blended. Shape mixture into 6 patties. Roll patties in crumbs until completely coated. Fry patties in shallow preheated peanut oil (about 350 degrees) until brown on one side. Turn with a pancake turner and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper and serve as is or topped with your favorite tomato or mushroom sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Melt butter in large saucepan over low heat and add celery and onion. Cook until tender but not browned. Add flour and stir until mixture is smooth. Gradually add chicken broth and bring to a boil. Blend in peanut butter and simmer about 15 minutes. Stir in cream just before serving. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes 8 servings.

Slice tops from green peppers and remove seeds. Drop peppers into boiling salted water and parboil for 5 minutes. Drain and cool. In a large skillet heat butter and saute onions until golden brown. Stir in peanut butter, curry powder, kidney beans and rice. Use mixture to stuff green peppers heaping filling high. Place peppers side by side into a shallow baking pan. Add enough water to just cover bottom.

Here's one you should know.

The new symbol in the political arena is the raised hand of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee. When you see it in political literature and advertising, it means that candidate has sworn to wage an honest and ethical campaign, to condemn libel and slander, appeals to prejudice, corruption of the electoral process. And any candidate who sees an ad or statement by his opponent that he knows is deceptive can notify the Fair Campaign Practices Committee. They'll go to work on it immediately.

The Fair Campaign Pledge. It's one way you can make a decision in November based upon facts you can trust.

It's one way that the best men and women can win.

And in that way, the country can't lose.

Sole, shrimp dish a Thomas Jefferson legacy

We've all heard a lot about Thomas Jefferson, statesman, but we may not all realize that this versatile man was also an enthusiastic epicurean. Foods, the growing of the, quest for new preparations, and their pleasing presentation, were a passion with Jefferson. Dishes such as the following "Sole and Shrimp Duo With Hollandaise Sauce" perfectly illustrates his imaginative way of combining the plentiful foods and seafoods from the new land with sauces and specialties of the finest French cuisine.

Today, the seafoods Jefferson enjoyed using are available to us fresh, frozen, or canned, in exciting abundance and variety. Entrees that took his cooks hours to prepare, are ours for the serving in just minutes at any time. These sole fillets, for instance, are cooked with a bit of onion and seasonings until just done, when the fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about ten minutes or less. Petite, pink, canned shrimp are then sauced with creamy Hollandaise to serve as the topping for the savory fish. A brief trip under the broiler adds a golden brown to the entree that makes this seafood offering extra appealing.

Thomas Jefferson is to be praised for the part he played in shaping our Nation, but let's make sure we think of him too, as we enjoy meals like this. He was a master in forming partnerships with American and French foods. Thanks, T.J.!

SOLE AND SHRIMP DUO WITH HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

2 pounds sole fillets, fresh or frozen
1 can (4½ ounce) small shrimp
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
½ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup half and half
2 teaspoons flour
Hollandaise Sauce (recipe follows)
Chopped parsley (optional)

Thaw frozen fish. Drain shrimp and rinse in cold water. Spread onion over bottom of large frying pan; arrange fillets on top. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add water and bring water to simmering stage. Cover and cook slowly until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, 8 to 10 minutes. Carefully remove fillets from pan, draining them well. Arrange on heatproof platter or in shallow 2-quart baking dish. Keep warm. Drain fillets well again just before adding sauce. Simmer liquid remaining in pan until it is reduced to ½ cup. Blend together half and half and flour until free of lumps; stir into liquid in pan. Cook until sauce is thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add shrimp. Carefully fold in Hollandaise Sauce. Spoon over fillets. Broil about 4 inches from heat until sauce is lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Serve plain or sprinkle with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Hollandaise Sauce

3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon water
⅛ teaspoon salt
Dash of white pepper
½ cup butter or margarine, melted

Place egg yolks in top of double boiler; beat until yolks are thickened. Slowly add lemon juice, water, salt, and pepper, beating constantly. Place over hot (not boiling) water. Beat until mixture is warm and thickened. Remove top of double boiler from hot water. Add melted butter or margarine, a teaspoonful at a time, beating constantly, until about half of the butter or margarine is added. Then butter or margarine can be added faster. Keep warm until ready to use. Makes about 1 cup sauce.

Beef jerky simple

Making your own beef jerky is a simple process. And homemade jerky is considerably less expensive than commercial jerky.

It's easiest to make if you own a food dehydrator, but if you don't you can make it in your oven.

Start with a slightly frozen piece of meat, such as a flank steak. Trim off the fat and gristle. Slice the meat across the grain in ¼-inch to ⅜-inch strips. Place the strips on the dehydrator trays and dry for 8 to 12 hours at 140 degrees.

If you dry in the oven, place the strips on clean aluminum window screen and place the screens on the oven racks. Set the oven temperature to "warm" and leave the oven door cracked open about ½ inch.

You can also marinate the meat in your favorite sauce before you dry it.

This is just one of many food dehydrating tips in "Home Food Drying and Storage," available from Badger Creek Press, Box 728, Galt, CA 95632 for $2.

The publication describes methods for preparing 40 fruits and vegetables, meat and fish, fruit leathers, and soups for dehydration. It discusses various pretreatments — steam blanching, ascorbic acid, and sulphuring — and various drying methods, such as dehydrator, oven, and sun drying.

The publication also provides guidelines for drying as it relates to shelf-life in storage, notes on re-hydrating dried foods for use, and a record-keeping form to record individual experiences and results in drying foods.

Toasted Walnuts

Toasting fresh California walnuts is easy to do. Drop shelled walnut kernels into rapidly boiling water. Boil for 3 minutes, then drain well. Spread kernels evenly in a shallow pan and bake at 350 degrees F., stirring often, for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. For salad or soup croutons, brush the toasted walnut kernels, while they are still warm from the oven, lightly with butter and sprinkle with salt, onion or garlic salt, or your favorite seasoned salt. Super for snacks, too.

Cream cheese

Cut a refrigerator-firm package of cream cheese into small squares; add to scrambled eggs just before the eggs are ready to be turned out of the skillet.

SHERRIED TURKEY

Apple fig cake nutritious, fun

Many people say that California is the world's greatest and best fruit orchard. Not the least of its delights is the fig. Fresh, we enjoy it in summer; dried, it is abundant and available the year around. Dried figs are versatile and do wonders for many a dish. Here is an old fashioned spice cake rich with applesauce, chopped dried figs and walnuts.

The applesauce fig cake provides a nutritious and delightful dessert, great for holiday tables, as well as a quick and simple addition to any evening meal.

APPLESAUCE FIG CAKE

- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup sweetened applesauce
- 1/3 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup chopped California dried figs

Cream shortening; gradually add sugar, creaming until light. Add eggs; beat until fluffy. Sift dry ingredients; add to creamed mixture alternately with applesauce, beating after each addition. Stir in nuts and figs. Pour into greased angel food cake pan. Bake in 350 degree F. oven for about 45 minutes. Cool in pan 10 minutes; remove. While still warm, spread top with thin frosting, if desired. But this cake, just like Grandmother used to make, is fine without any extras.

But if yould like to dress it up for a special gathering, here is a wonderful topping:

LAST-MINUTE TOPPING

- 2 cups brown sugar
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup stewed California dried figs, chopped
- ½ teaspoon chopped pecans

Combine sugar and cream in small saucepan. Heat very slowly until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat. Add remaining ingredients. This is delightful on angel food cake, ice cream or baked puddings, good warm or cold.

Dress-up

Combine hot cooked frozen peas with canned pineapple chunks. Season with butter, white pepper and ginger or nutmeg.

Fruit relish

Drain a 1 pound can cut green beans and 1 pound 4 ounce can pineapple chunks; mix with chopped onion and pimiento to taste. Beat together 1/3 cup garlic flavor red wine vinegar and 3 tablespoons olive oil with salt and dill weed to taste. Pour over bean mixture and chill. Great with meats, poultry or sandwiches.

Sherry turkey served

Once turkey was served only at holiday time. Fortunately, this is no longer true.

Today, anytime is a good time to serve turkey. Not only is it a delicious favorite food, turkey also offers high quality protein and generous amounts of iron, thiamin, riboflavin and niacin. Yet it is lower in fat and calories than most other meats.

No longer is it necessary to roast a whole bird each time you wish to serve turkey. Drumsticks, wings, breasts, thighs and ground turkey can now be found in the fresh meat counter of supermarkets in meal-size packages.

With such a variety, it is not difficult to prepare tempting dishes such as Sherried Turkey. It may be made with either wings or thighs.

Just brown the parts in butter or margarine, add the sherry and liquid from a small can of mushrooms. Cover and bake until tender.

Before serving, carefully blend a package of chicken gravy mix into the pan juices. Stir in dairy sour cream and mushrooms for a velvety-smooth sauce to serve over the turkey pieces.

Fluffy white rice and a garden fresh salad will complement this entree. Complete the menu with hot rolls and a favorite beverage.

SHERRIED TURKEY

- 4 turkey wings (about 2½ pounds), tip removed, or 2 turkey thighs, halved
- Salt and pepper
- 3 to 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup sherry
- 1 can (4 ounces) button mushrooms
- 1 package (1½ ounces) chicken gravy mix
- 1 cup dairy sour cream

Lightly sprinkle turkey pieces with salt and pepper. Brown in butter in dutch oven or skillet with cover. Add sherry and liquid from mushrooms. Cover. Bake in a 350 degrees F. oven for 1 hour to 1½ hours, or until turkey is tender. Remove turkey to a serving dish and keep warm. Measure juice in pan and add enough water, if necessary, to make 1¼ cups liquid. Carefully blend liquid and gravy mix in dutch oven or skillet. Simmer, uncovered, 5 minutes, stirring continually. Blend in sour cream and button mushrooms. When sauce is smooth and hot, pour over turkey pieces. Serve with fluffy rice or mashed potatoes. Makes 4 servings.

Joyce Brothers
Emotional blackmail

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We have a 14-year-old foster daughter. I believe she knows we love her just as if she were our own, but sometimes she threatens to run away if we don't give her what she wants, or if we aren't more lenient. She's aware that we know she ran away from her former foster home. We're trying to adopt her and she has said she loves us and hopes we adopt. However, I can't understand how, if she loves us, can she frighten us by even suggesting she'll leave. — L.O.

Dear L.O.: This may be her way of asking for reassurance of your love. Though it may sound callous and unreasonable to you, she may be testing your reaction, to see if you would really be unhappy or hurt if she left. If she has been in a series of foster homes she probably has had many severe ego wounds and it is hard for her to believe that anyone could really care deeply.

You're in a difficult situation, however, because you don't want to allow yourselves to be vulnerable to this emotional blackmail. It would be dangerous for your husband's and your emotional well-being as well as hers. Don't hesitate to tell her just how much it would mean to you if she left you.

Dr. James Alexander of the University of Utah advocates the use of family contracts to prevent runaways. For example, the child will agree not to run away in return for his parents' promise not to meddle in his social life. Obviously, with a 14-year-old daughter, it is necessary for you to set certain restrictions, but compromises can be worked out so she doesn't feel powerless over her own life. This kind of exchange or bargain seems to work much better than threats of punishment.

When you feel worried, don't worry alone. Talk with your daughter. Get her views and encourage her to discuss her anxieties and problems with you. With this kind of open exchange, all problems become easier to solve.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I hate riding in a car when my boyfriend is the driver. Behind the wheel, he becomes a real monster who gets angry and mean if anyone passes him or gets in his way. The odd thing is that he isn't aware of his behavior. How can I help him — and myself? — A.C.

Dear A.C.: If you haven't already expressed your feelings to him, by all means do so. Try to encourage him to analyze why he is so competitive in a car and why he should feel so agressive toward other drivers.

Your boyfriend may unconsciously equate his car with virility. If he does, and if he is insecure about his masculinity or sexual prowess, he may feel that every other driver is challenging him to prove himself. Any driver who is threatened in this way is dangerous. He probably tailgates and takes needless chances that may risk his life and the lives of others.

One reason that young males often have to pay high insurance rates is that many persist in viewing the car as a sexual object, an extension of themselves, rather than as a means of transportation. Ask your boyfriend to consider this possibility. If he denies it, as he probably will, then see what other explanations he offers.

San Dimas Club luncheon charted

San Dimas Woman's Club has scheduled a program following a luncheon at noon on Thursday at the Stanley Plummer Community Building in San Dimas.

Gordon Ewing will be the guest vocalist. He has appeared in practically every professional entertainment medium from musical comedy, opera, concerts and commercial television to recordings. He was with the original company of "My Fair Lady" and has performed in almost every major city in the country. He resides in Southern California and has appeared with the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera, Los Angeles Music Center, the Los Angeles Opera Guild, Las Vegas Symphony and the Redlands Bowl.

The day will be designated Charter Members Day and Guest Day. Hostesses will be Mrs. C. F. Bouldin and Mrs. D. L. Perkins. Devotions will be given by Mrs. Luigi De Bernardo and the flag salute will be led by Mrs. Bernard Whitson.

GORDON EWING

Film set on Friday

"Dollhouse," a feature-length film starring Jane Fonda will be shown at 7 p.m. Friday at the School of Theology at Claremont, Mudd Building Auditorium, Foothill Boulevard east of Indian Hill Boulevard, Claremont.

The film is based on Ibsen's play about a Victorian woman who breaks away from her life as a sheltered doll in a dollhouse marriage.

There is a small admission charge. The film showing is cosponsored by the STC Film Group and STC Associated Women's Affairs.

Workshop scheduled

The Los Angeles County Commission on the Status of Women is sponsoring a workshop to explore funding for women's groups Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the cafeteria of Los Angeles City College, 855 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles.

The workshop will provide information on funding sources, explain CETA and explain how organizations can participate and explain how CETA worker slots may be obtained.

Valerie Sanders wed in church

The United Methodist Church in La Verne was the setting for the marriage of Miss Valeria Sanders of Upland and Michael Wilson of Upland. The couple was married by the Rev. Thomas Taylor in an evening ceremony followed by a reception at the Arbor Restaurant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aris C. Sanders of Ontario. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rickola Wilson of Corona. Mrs. Barbara Mazzarini of La Verne was matron of Honor. Serving as best man was George McCalla of San Antonio, Tex. Other attendants were: Mrs. Janet Perry of Pomona; Miss Martha Graves of San Diego; Martha Wilson of Corona; Steven Wilson of Salinas; and Steven Polcyn of Corona.

The bride attended Bonita High School and graduated from Cal Poly Pomona with a BS degree in social science. She is employed at the California Rehabilitation Center in Norco as a correctional officer.

The groom graduated from King City High School and was in the Navy four years. He is employed at the California Institute for Men in Chino as a personnel assistant.

The newlyweds honeymooned at San Francisco and Lake Tahoe and are now at home in Upland.

Harmer review planned by YW

The book "American Medical Avarice" will be reviewed by the author, Ruth Harmer, Oct. 28 in Pitzer Auditorium at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, 1798 N. Garey Ave., at 7:30 p.m.

This will mark the first time that Mrs. Harmer will appear for dialogue in Pomona Valley. A representative of the American Medical Association has been invited to respond.

The program is sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association of Greater Pomona Valley. It is the intention of the YWCA to bring to the community a better understanding of the issues affecting the medical profession as a public service.

Mrs. Harmer will be available at an autograph party after the review. The evening activity is open to the public. A small donation will be collected at the door.

BPW salutes America's working women this week

Contributions aid Foundation established 20 years ago

Two hundred years ago, our nation was founded. Twenty years ago, the Business and Professional Women's Club Foundation was established.

The BPW Foundation is a nonprofit educational foundation largely supported by contributions, dues, grants and bequests. The Foundation is the only educational foundation devoted exclusively to the problems of employed women. The funds have been used to help individuals further their education and at the same time, serve as a testing ground for new ideas in the field of working women.

The foundation has a complete special library which is used as an information center using computer and microfilm/microfiche systems to provide wider access to more materials.

The Career Advancement Scholarship program was the first national educational assistance program for mature working women. In addition to helping more than 1,500 women, it has increasingly focused the attention of other groups on the growing need of women for job-related training and the necessity of providing scholarship aid for them.

In research, the foundation has concentrated on subjects which are at the leading edge of change. A survey and analysis of employers using various types of flexible scheduling of work hours has been widely cited to encourage the use of "flex-time force" which would be particularly advantageous to working mothers.

The Loan Fund for Women in Graduate Business Studies made 39 loans totaling $60,000 for the 1975-76 academic year and over $78,000 for the 1976-77 year. This program is funded by a $300,000 grant from the Sears Roebuck Foundation. Another loan fund was recently established by the Exxon Education Foundation for Women in Graduate Engineering Studies.

The forsight of BPW leaders in establishing the foundation, and the support of its members through contributions and an allocation of dues, as well as the participation of local corporations and foundations who agree with the aims of the Foundation, have made possible the progress of the foundation.

One of the trustees of the foundation is Mrs. Julia K. Arri, who is the second vice president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and a local resident of Claremont.

Careerist program special

The Young Career Woman program is BPW's way of honoring young women who have contributed significantly to their career areas.

This special program is conducted throughout all of the states in the national federation to select a young career woman between the ages of 23 and 28 to represent each state at the annual convention. These young women participate in seminars, workshops, rap sessions and general orientation and are presented to the convention body, each giving her brief idea on what she wishes to accomplish within the next decade.

This interaction between these young women and the more mature members of BPW is mutually beneficial. New ideas and enthusiasm are exchanged for expertise and business contacts. New points of view can be incorporated into the present framework of the Federation within which to work toward goals of common interest.

A special award is being given this year to any BPW member who sponsors three actively engaged members under 28 years of age during the year. This is called the "Rising Star" award and recognition will be given the sponsoring member with a special star pin.

Foundation schedules seminar

The Business and Professional Women's Foundation has scheduled a management seminar for professional and first-line managers who aspire to higher level management. The two-day seminar will be held Feb. 10-11 at the Marriott Hotel in Los Angeles.

The seminar leader will be Barbara Boyle Sullivan, founder and president of Boyle/Kirkman Associates, a leading management consulting firm which specializes in executive development of women. Her career started with IBM where she held various positions including Systems Engineering Manager for Eastern and Central Europe.

As president of Boyle/Kirkman Associates she has major corporate clients such as CBS, Mobil Oil, Pillsbury and others. Her article "Equal Employment for Women Smart Business" was the Harvard Business Review's best selling reprint in 1973.

For information regarding the seminar, please contact Betty J. Eagon, 1168 Coronado, Upland, 91786 or phone 629-9896. Mrs. Eagon is the seminar coordinator for the BPW Foundation.

Business Week is observed

To salute the accomplishments of America's working women, the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Claremont, La Verne-San Dimas and Pomona will celebrate National Business Women's Week, Oct. 17-23. This week is a nationwide observance of National Business Women's Week, organized by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. and held annually since 1928. It gives the nation the opportunity to honor the contributions made by working women, who make up 40 percent of the total national work force.

President Gerald Ford indicated his recognition of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs celebration in his recent message to the national convention in Denver wherein he noted BPW's long history of accomplishments and strong efforts in the support of the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

National Business Women's Week observance appropriately sets aside a time during which all Americans are urged to reflect with pride on American women's role in the progress and well being of our society. As we enter into the Third Century, American Woman and Woman in the World are combining their efforts and are committed to constructive change throughout the nation and throughout the world.

BPW was founded in 1919 to promote the interests of all working women. Its 170,000 members extend to all 50 states, District of Comumbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Any woman who is actively engaged in a business or a profession is eligible for membership.

Officers' positions, backgrounds vary

Three local BPW Clubs, Claremont, La Verne-San Dimas and Pomona are represented throughout the community in a wide variety of occupations and positions.

Mrs. Dorothy Hawk, president of the La Verne-San Dimas Club, is a well-known vocalist in this area, and serves as secretary of Audio-Specialties. Miss Virginia Butler, president of the Pomona Club, is the owner of Anthony Building Maintenance, while Mrs. Opal Clarkson, president of the Claremont club, is a customer representative supervisor for General Telephone Co.

Among the occupations of the members, there are beauticians, nurses, doctors, postal clerks, insurance agents, travel agents, teachers, deputy sheriff and real estate agents.

Many of the members in these clubs are active in the national, state and district organizations. Mrs. Julia Arri of the Pomona Club is the second vice president of the National Federation and is a past president of the State Federation. Betty J. Eagon of the Pomona Club is also a past state president and is serving this year as the editor of the California Woman, the state publication. Mary B. Williams of the La Verne Club is the Sierra Mar district insurance chairman and Opal Clarkson of the Claremont Club is the district political promotion and political education chairman.

Focus on national directive

Mrs. Marjorie O. Maunder, president of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, has announced that a concerted effort will be made this year to stimulate interest of all of the members in the California Federation who conduct their own businesses.

Mrs. Maunder said: "It's most encouraging that the Small Business Administration through its SBA Management Assistance Program, has signed a contract with our National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs to provide assistance to members throughout the country." Plans are being made at the present time which will offer California members counseling, training and publication, workshops, seminars, procurement assistance and other services. As part of an outreach program, to inform women and orient women in business or interested in entering business, a series of special meetings is being scheduled throughout the state.

Political activity evident

The Political Promotion and Political Education Committee of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs was formed to elect qualified women to public office at the state level in assembly, senatorial or constitutional offices. The purpose of such elections is to give women a greater responsibility and representation in the lawmaking, law enforcement in the state and to give women a greater opportunity to participate in public affairs.

The committee is supported by voluntary contributions from the club members and financial support is given to those women candidates who have been endorsed by the clubs in their areas, as well as endorsement of the state federation.

To secure the endorsement of the federation, a candidate must be considered to be of excellent character and adaptable to the field of politics. The candidate must subscribe to the objectives of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs and pledge to support the current legislative platform of BPW.

The political education portion of the committee presents information and guidance in the political field through seminars and workshops. It stresses action courses at the local level to motivate and directly assist citizens to become active and effective in the political process of the nation.

Another field of opportunity open to women is found in the activities of the Talent Bank. Women seeking appointment on state and local boards and commissions submit summary of qualifications and endorsement to the Governor or other appointing official. Local clubs may submit names to the committee for endorsement and a special screening section has been set up for the processing of the applications.

The Talent Bank has been recognized by the American Bicentennial Commission as an authorized Bicentennial project and the national federation was given the authority to display the official Bicentennial flag. California's clubs are authorized to display the flag if they have a local Talent Bank established.

BUCKWHEAT LATKES

'Buckwheat Latkes' to flavor Chanukah

Chanukah will begin on December 17 this year and continue for eight nights and eight days. This is one of the most joyous Jewish holidays with customs similar to those of Christmas — giving gifts, lighting candles, decorating the home — yet distinctly Jewish in flavor.

Games are very popular for Chanukah. Card and dice games are played during the holiday season, but gambling for money is not allowed. The stakes usually are candies, nuts, raisins or other edible treats.

Food is an important part of the Chanukah celebration and fried foods such as fritters and latkes (pancakes) are favored. Suggested here are Buckwheat Latkes which may be served for brunch or a light supper. These delicious buckwheat pancakes are fried in peanut oil and served with margarine and syrup or sour cream. The recipe uses Planters Peanut Oil, the all-purpose cooking and salad oil which is acceptable in Jewish kitchens any time of year because it is kosher and pareve.

BUCKWHEAT LATKES

Makes about 2½ dozen pancakes

- 2½ cups milk
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup Planters Peanut Oil
- ¼ cup warm water
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 4 eggs
- 2 cups buckwheat flour

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt, and peanut oil. Cool to lukewarm.

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast. Stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture, eggs, and buckwheat flour; beat until smooth. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft until bubbly, about 1 hour.

Stir down. Drop batter by tablespoon onto hot, lightly oiled griddle. Cook until lightly browned on both sides. Serve hot with margarine and syrup.

For weight watchers

Halloween treats trick waistline

So it's fall and you would love to have a Halloween Party but you're concerned aobut all the rich fattening goodies that you are expected to serve. You can't afford the extra calories. (Actually your friends probably can't either.)

Al Cutler, director of Weight Watchers of Orange, San Diego, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties, has the answer with special recipes for that party that's fun, easy, tasty and won't add unwanted pounds.

The following "treats" should to the "trick."

APPLE STICKIES

- 6 medium apples
- 3 pints low-calorie black cherry soda
- 4 tablespoons unflavored gelatine

Polish apples. Insert skewers or small wooden sticks into the center of each apple. Bring 2 cups of low-calorie soda to the boiling point. Mix with gelatine. Stir briskly until gelatine is dissolved, than add remaining soda. Chill until mixture is slightly thickened and syrupy. (Refrigerate if necessary to maintain this consistency.)

Dip each apple in gelatine mixture (be sure to immerse completely). Chill apples in refrigerater until gelatine coating on them is set. Then dip again into slightly thickened gelatine. Chill until coating on apples is set. Continue dipping and chilling until coating is about ¼ inch thick. (Dip about 4-6 times.)

Chill until ready to serve. Makes 6 servings.

APPLE-PUMPKIN COOKIES

- 1 apple, grated
- 4 ounces pumpkin
- 2/3 cup nonfat dry milk
- 2 tablespoons artificial brown sugar replacement
- 1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
- ½ teaspoon butter flavoring

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Thoroughly combine all ingredients. Drop by tablespoon on a nonstick cookie sheet. Bake at 325 degrees for about 30 minutes. Makes about 16 cookies.

ORANGE AMBROSIA

- 4 oranges
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Artificial sweetener to equal ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Section oranges. Work over a bowl to catch the juice; place sections in same bowl. Sprinkle with lemon juice, sweetener and cinnamon. Chill thoroughly. Serve topped with Creme Coconut. Makes 4 servings.

CREME COCONUT

- ¾ teaspoon unflavored gelatine
- 1 teaspoon cold water
- ¼ cup boiling water
- ¼ cup evaporated skim milk
- Artificial sweetener to equal ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon coconut extract
- ½ teaspoon lemon juice

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water. Add to boiling water; stir until gelatine dissolves. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Meanwhile, chill evaporated skim milk in freezer until ice crystals begin to form around the edge. Add sweetener and coconut extract. Beat at high speed of mixer until mixture stands in soft peaks. Add thickened gelatine mixture and lemon juice.

SPICY APPLE PUNCH

- 2 bottles club soda
- 6 cans diet apple soda
- 1 cinnamon stick
- 6 whole cloves
- ½ ounces brandy flavoring
- Artificial sweetener (optional)

Heat cinnamon and cloves in 1 can of diet soda, cool. Combine all ingredients. Add ice.

Freezing tips help

Family feast hooks freshly caught fish

With the high cost of seafood in food markets, catching a good sized fish today is like getting your hook into a five, ten, or twenty dollar bill, so clean, eviscerate, and freeze those beauties while they are in peak condition and save on your food bill.

When someone brings home fresh-caught fish (large or small), don't just put them into the refrigerator and forget about them. Remember, they are highly perishable. After cleaning them, set aside what your family can use in a day or two and promptly prepare the rest for freezing.

Shellfish — crabs, shrimp, oysters, and clams — should also get a speedy prepare-and-freeze treatment. Both fish and shellfish may develop strong, unappetizing aromas if kept uneviscerated more than a day — even if refrigerated. Do not freeze any fish or shellfish that has a disagreeable "fishy" odor.

Fresh-caught fish or shellfish do not have a noticeable "fishy" odor but will develop one if they are not put on ice when caught and/or if they are not used or frozen within a day or two.

Robert J. Price, seafood specialist, Cooperative Extension, University of California, provides the latest information of freezing fish and shellfish:

FREEZING FISH:

— Wash —Wash fish, remove scales, entrails, gills, head and fins.

—Rinse and pat dry.

—Freeze small fish whole. Cut large fish into chunks, fillets, or steaks.

—To prevent darkening and rancidity in fatty fish such as tuna and salmon, dip in ascorbic acid solution (2 teaspoons ascorbic acid to 1 quart water) for 30 seconds.

—Wrap individual pieces of fish tightly in "cling wrap" forcing out as much air as possible. Individually wrapped pieces can then be "master bagged" in a strong polyethylene bag or overwrapped in freezer paper, but never more than about one pound per "master bag." Or freeze the pieces or whole fish in a block of ice (without wrapping) by placing the fish in a clean milk carton or other similar container, filling the container with cold water (leaving about ¾-inch headspace) and sealing.

—Label packages, including the kind of fish; steaks, chunks, or fillets; servings; and date.

—Freeze at zero degrees. For best quality, use fatty fish within 6 months, and lean fish within 12 months.

FREEZING SHRIMP

—Shrimp can be frozen raw — shelled or unshelled, or cooked. To freeze raw shrimp, remove heads. Peel off shells and devein, if desired. Wash shrimp in cold water and pack tightly in containers with tight fitting lids.

—To freeze cooked shrimp; remove heads, peel off shells and devein. Put shrimp in boiling water, lower to simmer, and simmer for 5 to 8 minutes depending on size. Cool quickly in ice water or cold running water. Pack tightly in freezer containers. Cover shrimp with salt solution (3 tablespoons salt mixed with 1 gallon water) leaving about ½-inch headspace. Cover tightly.

—Freeze at zero degrees. For best quality, use within 6 months.

FREEZING CLAMS AND OYSTERS:

—Shuck or open in the usual manner.

—Collect meat in a strainer or colander and let drain over a bowl. Save the drained liquor.

—Wash meat thoroughly but quickly in a salt solution of 1 tablespoon salt to a quart water. Drain.

—Pack in freezer containers. Cover with natural liquor or with salt solution. (1 tablespoon salt to a quart of water). Leave about ½-inch headspace. Seal.

—Freeze at zero degrees. For best quality, use within 6 months.

FREEZING CRAB:

—Prepare for freezing as soon as taken from water.

—Break off claws and legs. Remove back shell. Remove and discard the gills or "fingers," the crab butter, and other viscera. Wash thoroughly.

—Cook crab 20 minutes to preserve color and flavor.

—Cool enough to handle. Pick meat from body and legs while warm. Keep leg and body meats separate.

—Freeze at zero degrees. For best quality, use within 6 months.

—Pack in freezer containers. Pack tightly to remove as much air as possible and prevent formation of large ice crystals which cause the meat to toughen. If you intend to store for more than 4 months, cover with a brine of 3 level tablespoons salt to 1 gallon of water. Leave headspace of about ½ inch. Seal.

Students rated by food reps

Five college students (two co-winners and three full winners) have been awarded the $1,000 Fleischmann Scholarships in honor of the Newspaper Food Editors. These scholarships are now presented annually by Standard Brands to students at four universities — Cornell, Iowa State, Howard University and San Jose State. Recipients are majors in home economics or journalism and must show interest and promise in home economics/journalism careers.

This is the tenth annual Fleischmann Scholarship Program which was designed to recognize the contributions of the Newspaper Food Editors to American consumers . . . a recognition of the many informative and colorful features the Newspaper Food Editors prepare for their readers to assist them in planning nutritious, economical and interesting meals for their families.

The scholarship winners for 1976 are Karen Zelkind (Cornell), Priscilla Ann Mitchell and Gayle Jessup (Howard co-winners), Ann Hall (Iowa State) and Julie Ellen Martin (San Jose State).

Karen Zelkind is very appreciative of this financial aid. The senior Communications student is highly motivated and looks forward to an exciting journalism career.

Priscilla Ann Mitchell is a senior Communications major. She has interned at one of the world's largest advertising agencies and spent one summer working as Editor of a community newspaper.

Gayle Jessup, another grateful Howard recipient, is also a senior studying Communications. She serves as reporter for the school newspaper and is considered by her professors to be a responsible person who seeks out ideas and works independently.

Ann Hall is a junior majoring in Home Economics Journalism. She has an excellent grade point average and writes for the magazine of the College of Home Economics.

Julie Ellen Martin has combined a major in Home Economics with a minor in Advertising/ Journalism. This promising senior has maintained high grades while actively participating in campus groups such as the Home Economics Club and the Advertising Club.

All these young women and their predecessors in the Fleischmann Scholarship Program before them have expressed deep appreciation for the scholarships which have made it possible for them to finish their educations and prepare themselves for useful and meaningful careers.

Zany talent sought

Busch Gardens, Van Nuys amusement park, is seeking "zany, crazy comedy and variety acts" for "The Only Great American Tinsel Town Follies" to be hosted by Arthur Godfrey Oct. 31.

Contestants selected for the finals will appear in an hour-long television special aired on KCOP-TV Channel 13 at 8 p.m. Nov. 2. There also will be cash prize awards and public appearances.

Auditions, by appointment only, are being conducted from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Oct. 28 at Busch Gardens.

An audition time can be arranged by calling (213) 994-5139 between noon and 6 p.m. today through Monday. All acts are limited to 2½ minutes.

The "Tinsel Town Follies" will be presented from 1 to 2 p.m. and 3 to 4 p.m. Oct. 31 in the park's Eagle Playhouse.

Busch Gardens is located at 16000 Roscoe Blvd. off the San Diego Freeway. The park is open Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. through Oct. 31 which marks the end of a six-week Octoberfest celebration.

Taste Science Succeeds.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

By "cracking" cigarette smoke down into separate ingredients, researchers at Philip Morris discovered very special "key" flavor units that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.'

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is MERIT. At 9 mg., one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet, MERIT actually packs the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Tests Verify Taste

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against current leading low tar cigarettes ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The majority reported that even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT delivered as much—or more—taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

MERIT

Tunney's most vulnerable Demo, but gaining ground

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tunney is on the attack in his re-election campaign and running hard to stay even with the qutet and slow paced challenge by Republican S.I. Hayakawa.

The GOP challenger is a surprisingly strong 70-year-old newcomer to politics whose campaign is based on the national fame he won eight years ago when, as newly appointed college president, he quelled a violent student strike at San Francisco State College.

In recent weeks, Tunney has gained some ground, and no longer trails in polls. But the Democratic incumbent's 5 percentage point lead in the latest California Poll is not enough to be comfortable.

Republicans rate Tunney as one of the most vulnerable Democrats up for re-election to the Senate this year, and the 42-year-old son of former world heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney readily agrees that he has a very tough race.

Tunney says Hayakawa is insensitive to the needs of the people and that Hayakawa favors business and special interests. Hayakawa says Tunney is a big spender, and he blames Tunney and Democrats in general for a bloated federal bureaucracy.

Aside from that predictable campaign posturing, there are a few unique issues coloring the Tunney-Hayakawa race.

Hayakawa daily lists 10 issues on which Tunney switched positions, such as national health care and offshore oil drilling, and has labeled Tunney "Sen. Flip-Flop." He also attacks Tunney's absenteeism from the Senate, citing in particular two well-publicized vacation trips during sessions.

Tunney has seized on Hayakawa's proposal that juvenile crime could be reduced if child labor and minimum wage laws are relaxed to create more jobs for youths. And Tunney recites a Hayakawa quote, "There's no reason to fear exploitation if you destroy the minimum wage. The moment you feel exploited, you can quit."

Tunney cites that as evidence Hayakawa is "an elitist" with "antique ideas," a reminder of his opponent's age.

But the traditional roles of incumbent and challenger have been reversed in the Tunney-Hayakawa race.

It is the incumbent who is putting in the 14-to-16-hour campaign days and is making a campaign issue of his opponent's reluctance to debate. Tunney has taken to debating a tam-o'-shanter, Hayakawa's symbol, to dramatize the point that Hayawaka has turned down 30 of 31 offers of joint appearances.

And Hayakawa, the challenger, is parceling out campaign appearances, acting confident the voters know him and will vote for him on the basis of his record.

The reason for the reversal of roles, in Tunney's words, is that "I'm running against a folk hero."

"He (Hayakawa) couldn't have any more personal popularity than when he came out of San Francisco State — absolutely couldn't have any more popularity," Tunney said in an interview.

"The only place he can go after that is down, so he obviously doesn't want to make news. And so our strategy is to keep the pressure on, confront him. It's almost as if I'm the challenger," Tunney said.

Tunney reveals frustration on that point as he tells voters, "One incident, five minutes in front of television cameras eight years ago, does not qualify a man for the U.S. Senate."

He is referring to the morning of Dec. 2, 1968, when Hayakawa, the newest in a series of interim presidents of San Francisco State, climbed to the roof of a sound truck operated illegally by leaders of a student strike and yanked the wires from the speakers before a battery of television and newspaper cameras. Among Hayakawa supporters, nine out of 10 cite that incident first when asked why they support him. And Hayakawa takes every opportunity to remind voters of "the battle of San Francisco State."

He campaigns in a brightly colored tam-o'-shanter similar to the one he wore as he pulled the wires from the sound truck. He even presented one to President Ford.

When Hayakawa visited San Francisco State for a campaign appearance, noisy student demonstrators interrupted his speech. Taunting the hecklers, Hayakawa thanked them for reminding voters of 1968 and predicted they would "win hundreds of thousands of votes for me."

On the stump, Hayakawa cuts an unlikely figure for a candidate. A Canadian-born semanticist of Japanese ancestry, he tends to give speeches which sound like classroom lectures in a thin, almost whispering voice.

After rushing through the "Sen. Flip-Flop" attack on Tunney written by his campaign consultants, Hayakawa often turns to subjects such as the historic perspectives of the two parties, which he says differ in psychology more than in objectives, or to analysis of the American "national experience."

But on most issues, Hayakawa sticks to the generally conservative Republican party platform.

"To make the poor less poor and give them a chance for gainful employment, it is necessary to let business prosper, thereby permitting the rich to get richer," Hayakawa says.

"But that's what the politics of compassion cannot endure, even if the poor also get richer in the process."

Only on abortion, which Hayakawa says "isn't any damn business of government," does he deviate significantly from the GOP platform. And, like Tunney, he is targeted by right-to-life pickets.

Although energetic for 70 — he tap dances for exercise — Hayakawa limits himself to two or three appearances a day, and he rests or sleeps during most of the travel time between appearances.

Hayakawa concentrates on GOP groups, and although he has been a Republican just three years, he has won general acceptance in all except the most conservative GOP circles.

Tunney, by contrast, is a nonstop campaigner and a traditional stump orator. An athletic, energetic, early rising jogger, he sometimes crams eight to 10 appearances into a day.

And he is taking an increasingly liberal stand, particularly on the jobs issue.

"Every American who is willing and able to work should be able to find a job. Where the private sector cannot provide jobs, the government should be the employer of last resort," he says.

Between campaign stops, Tunney is usually gregariously leading an animated discussion with aides or reporters on subjects such as sports, politics or Washington sex gossip.

Tunney's campaign is focused on traditional Democratic bases — ethnic groups, labor, liberals, the poor and students. But the campaign is in large part an effort to patch of differences with some of those groups.

Liberals are angry that Tunney opposed national health insurance legislation after co-authoring it. Conservationists are wary of his endorsement of nuclear power. Consumer groups say he has too many big business contributors.

Students and young liberals, who flocked with fervor to former student radical leader Tom Hayden's primary campaign against Tunney, are conspicuously absent from the Tunney campaign.

The reception on campus is cool, and students led the loud boos against Tunney at a Jimmy Carter rally following the presidential debate in San Francisco.

Tunney says he is not worried about losing campus votes to Hayakawa. But he is worried that many students and young liberals may sit out this election or cast a protest vote for one of the three minor party candidates on the ballot.

Tunney has made headway, reversing a narrow Hayakawa lead in polls after the June primary.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT IS A QUETZAL BIRD?"

SHELLY BULOCK
PRESCOTT VALLEY, AZ

A. THE QUETZAL IS A BRIGHTLY COLORED BIRD OF MEXICO AND CENTRAL AMERICA, AND THE NATIONAL BIRD OF GUATEMALA.

The quetzal (pronounced ket SAHL) is a colorful bird found only in the dense mountain forests of Central America and Mexico.

The male is as brightly colored as a parrot. Hardly larger than a dove, he has metallic shades of emerald green-and-crimson feathers, with graceful tail plumes that may be more than a yard long.

This inactive bird sits quietly on a perch in the forest, darting off only long enough to capture an insect or to pick a fruit. It builds its nest in a hole in a tree.

The male quetzal's tail streamers are so long that they hang outside the entrance of the nest hole when he enters the nest.

The quetzal was a symbol of royalty and religion among the ancient Aztec and Maya Indians. Only chiefs and priests could wear its colorful feathers.

Today, the quetzal is the national bird of Guatemala, where it appears on postage stamps and coins. One Guatemalan coin is called a quetzal.

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
